Nearly $400,000 Added To Budget

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Responding to the request of a bloc of state senators, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee Monday added nearly $400,000 to its operational budget recommendation for the state colleges

The budget hike was only about 35% of the addition requested by a group of senators allied with state college interests.

And, Appropriations Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings warned the committee, it "will not satisfy them"·and will not, as hoped, head off a floor fight over the operational budget bill.

"They will still try to break the budget," Marvel predicted.

Approved 6-1

The $390.381 budget boost was approved by a 6-1 vote, with Marvel and Sen Herb Nore of Genoa declining to vote on the motion. Sen Robert Clark of Sidney voted no

Marvel said the committee should "not give in to the heat "

Now, he said, other agencies are likely to attempt to increase the committee's recommendations.

"Why shouldn't Stan Matzke come in now and ask for his?" Marvel asked Matzke is displeased with committee cuts in his budget request for the Department of Economic Development

The state college budget increase followed an appearance before the committee by Sens Calvin Carsten of Avoca, Leslie Stull of Alliance and Gary Anderson of Axtell

$1.1 Million Sought

With technical budgetary assistance from James Todd, executive officer of the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges, the trio of senators asked for committee additions totaling $1.1 million in state tax funds.

The three lawmakers emphasized the need to provide more tax support in order to hold down the level of tuition increases required to fully fund the budget.

But the committee's action was not directed at tuition levels.

Its increases included $168,187 for plant operation and maintenance, $118,964 for utilities at Wayne State College, $47,826 for library acquisitions and $55,404 for unemployment insurance.

The $400,000 increase, added to a previously approved $813,584 boost, brought the committee's general fund budget to a figure some $1.2 million higher than that recommended by Gov J. James Exon.

Enrollments Down

In the face of decreasing enrollments at Wayne, Kearney, Chadron and Peru, the committee is "bending over backwards" to assist the state college system, Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln said.

Mrs Marsh offered the motion to hike the budget.

Sen. Dave Stahmer of Omaha noted that the committee's general fund figure of $9.7 million represents an 11% increase over the current level of appropriations

That compares to a University of Nebraska general fund boost of less than 10%, he pointed out.

Exon had recommended a 3 6% general fund decrease for the colleges, relying on sharply increased tuition charges

Enrollment at the colleges has dropped 13% during the current budget year

Israelis Hit Guerrillas

Earlier, Arabs Raid In Cyprus

By Associated Press

Israeli raiders struck Arab guerrilla bases in Beirut and Sidon. Lebanon. Monday night hours after twin Arab commando raids on Israeli targets in Nicosia, Cyprus, the military command in Tel Aviv announced.

A communique said the Israeli forces withdrew after "mission accomplished," with four of their number wounded. It was the first Israeli raid into Lebanon since Feb. 21.

Police in Beirut, the Lebanese capital, said the Israelis struck a number of Palestinian offices and killed or wounded 40 guerrillas

Among the Arabs reported dead were Mohammed Yussef Najjar, code-named Abu Yussef, No 2 man in the major Palestinian guerrilla group Al Fatah, and Kamal Adwan, a leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization

First reports in Beirut said five civilians also were killed and 10 Lebanese security police were wounded

The Israelis landed by helicopter at Ouazi, three miles south of Beirut, took over civilian cars and went to the Sabra Palestine refugee camp near the airport, Lebanese police said

Other Israelis headed for the center of the city to an area near the Hotel Bristol, where one of the slain guerrilla leaders lived

The Israelis were dressed in civilian clothes, police said Lebanese security police and guerrilla forces engaged one group

Beirut airport was closed at 2 30 a m Tuesday — 7.30 p.m Monday EST — and 15 minutes later lights of a helicopter could be seen over that area, apparently picking up the Israelis

The attack occurred 12 hours after Arab guerrillas bombed the Israeli ambassador's residence in Nicosia and attacked an Israeli airliner there

Police gave this account of the Arab guerrillas' attacks

A group of Arabs drew up in a car in front of the Israeli residence, a three-story apartment house One ran up to the front door and left a bag of explosives there He then rushed back to the car, but Cypriot security guards opened fire as the car started away and three of the Arabs were seized

The bomb went off, tearing open the front of the building and blasting out the rear wall on the ground floor, so that it looked like a tunnel

The Israeli ambassador, Rahamin Timor, said later he had left his residence on the third floor for his office just before the blast

Shortly after the explosion, Arabs traveling in two cars crashed through the gates of the airport One car reached the El Al Viscount which was waiting to take on passengers for Tel Aviv in Israel Police forced the other car aside and it crashed into another gate

The men in the first car opened fire on the plane and Cypriot police and the Israeli security men started shooting in return

Witnesses said the Israeli first fired a revolver, then ran into the aircraft and emerged with a submachine gun. He opened fire and hit all three Arabs as they scrambled out of the car which by this time had crashed into a mobile generator near the tail of the plane

NPPD Worker Is Electrocuted Near Clatonia

Clatonia (AP) — A Nebraska Public Power District lineman was accidentally electrocuted Monday when he came in contact with a 7,200-volt power line

An NPPD spokesman said Robert A Kisling, 35 of Odell, was helping a crew replace a broken pole in the area He was attempting to disconnect the power line when he came in contact with the high voltage

Artificial respiration administered by other members of the crew and the Beatrice Rescue Squad were unsuccessful and Kisling was pronounced dead at the scene

Flood Still Contained, But Rise Anticipated

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Army flood control experts said Monday one of the century's great Mississippi River floods was still safely squeezed within the levees — but they're girding for higher water

"I can't tell you now whether we're peaking out or whether we're going to get a worse situation before we re through " said Maj Gen Charles C Noble, president of the Mississippi River Commission

Much depends on the runoff from thawing snows and spring rains in the river's 1 24 million-square-mile watershed area, especially along the Ohio, he said

"Right now I am preparing myself for more water than we now have predicted," he added "I will then be in a position to do something if this thing changes rapidly — as it has been changing "

Noble, whose headquarters are in Vicksburg, Miss , was here during an inspection of the four Corps of Engineers districts in his area, which is the entire length of the swollen lower Mississippi from Hannibal, Mo to the sea

He estimated that backwater from the river's choked tributaries had temporarily foved some 6,000 families from their homes — mainly in sections near St Louis, Mo , and in Mississippi

Noble ordered the opening of all 350 panels of the Bonnet Carre Spillway dam Sunday to ease the pressure on levees protecting New Orleans.

When the spillway is completely opened Tuesday nearly a sixth of the river's flow, measured at 1 6 million cubic feet a second at Vicksburg, Miss , will be diverted It will stream through a 5 7-mile trough of low land into salty Lake Pontchartrain, which connects to the Gulf of Mexico

The order opening the dam for the first time since 1950 came after the River Forecasting Center said the water was going to 20 2 on the New Orleans gauge — within four feet of the levee top

Opening the spillway was expected to drop the level back to 17 5 at New Orleans by Wednesday But the latest computer readouts at the forecasting center predicted 18 6 here by April 16, even with the spillway open

Two emergency points were reported along the 2,200 miles of levees Montz, La , and Louisiana's Angola prison

Angola prison farm lies inside a big bend of the Mississippi. Sand boils and seepage indicated the strain as the river leaned on the levees Authorities stood ready to move 2 000 convicts to an old Army base near Alexandria, La if conditions get worse

Ninety trucks were gathered for transport but officials declined further comment

At Montz, big draglines were raising a new 3,200-foot main levee at a river bend 33 miles upstream from New Orleans The new levee backs up one being undermined by strong currents

We could have other Montzes that we don't know about," conceded Col Richard L Hunt, the New Orleans district engineer "But the levees are being watched, day and night. "

Impact Of Boycott's End Unclear In Early Reports

By Associated Press

Consumers who took part in the nationwide boycott of beef, lamb and pork started back to the meat counter on Monday, but supermarket spokesmen said it was too early to tell whether sales would return to normal

An Associated Press spot check showed mixed reaction on Monday — the first shopping day in most areas after the end of the week-long boycott and the deadline for posting price ceilings imposed by President Nixon on most meat items

A spokesman for Grand Union said he had talked to personnel from several of the chain's 43 outlets in the Washington, D C area and commented " "We've gotten a Monday like we can t remember Things are jumping "

He said however that he would not know until later in the week just how sales would compare to pre-boycott weeks The spokesman said price ceilings had been posted throughout the chain which announced last week that it would hold meat prices at least 10 cents per pound below the ceiling for the rest of April

The meat manager of an Acme Markets, Inc , in Philadelphia said, "We're selling a little less than on an average Monday for us "

He said meat sales last week were down almost 25 per cent from the normal total of $29,000 and added that the store had to throw out a lot of unsold items "We had to throw a lot of stuff right out," he said "We couldn't even grind it for hamburger "

Consumers were divided over whether to stock up on steak and other higher priced items Several boycott groups, including FIT — Fight Inflation Together — called for a continuation of meatless menus every Tuesday and Thursday

One woman at a Miami store said she was buying meat as usual because "I'm tired of suffering for noble causes "

Another Miami housewife, Carol Oppel, said, "I intend to cut back and to continue to buy selectively and buy as little meat as possible Once you get used to it, being without meat is not difficult "

Supermarkets in Cleveland Ohio said it was too early to tell what post-boycott sales would be like But the boycott information center disconnected two of its four telephones because, a spokesman said the number of calls dropped drastically

A spokesman for the 61-store Salt Lake City, Utah district of Safeway also said he didn't know yet whether the meat business was back to normal He said however, that the boycott didn t decrease total business, but resulted in a change in buying habits Meat sales were down about 15 per cent last week he said, and sales of items like fish and TV dinners were up 15 per cent

The manager of a Safeway store in Austin, Tex said his total sales last week were down 25 per cent Beef sales are off more than that, he said " but fish sales were up "

Pioneer 11 Heading For Open Space

PASADENA Calif (AP) — The Pioneer 11 spacecraft, speeding toward Jupiter at 86,000 miles per hour, began to leave earth's sphere of influence Monday and head for open space

The 570-pound craft was launched Thursday from Cape Kennedy and is expected to complete its 618 mile journey by December 1974

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, the NASA facility assigned to control and monitor the experiment, said the craft was leaving earth's gravity at the speed of 20,500 m p h.

Scientists said they were attempting to determine the type of midcourse correction to make Wednesday or Thursday

Council Pay Hike On May 1 Ballot

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

In the May 1 general election, Lincolnites again will have the opportunity to vote on another City Council pay increase to $4,000 annually as a result of council action Monday

That same question went down to defeat by only eight votes in last Tuesday's primary election.

Lincoln State Sen Wally Barnett appeared in support of a pay increase and urged the council to again place the matter on the May 1 ballot

Barnett presented a letter signed by the five other Lancaster County senators — Harold Simpson, Roland Luedtke Shirley Marsh, Steve Fowler and Jerome Warner — supporting a pay increase

Lower Figure?

Barnett suggested that the council consider placing a lower figure on the ballot

Pat Stephen, president of the Lincoln League of Women Voters, again stated the league s support of a council salary increase

The $4.000 figure was unanimously approved only following adoption of a compromise amendment proposed by Councilwoman Helen Boosalis

She wanted the words "not more than " added in front of the figure for "obvious reasons "

She urged that a lower figure of $3,600 per year be placed on the ballot instead of $4,000.

However, Councilman Bob Sikyta noted that pay hikes for council members have been defeated at the polls twice in the past year

In November 1972, voters turned down a $5,000 amount while last Tuesday saw the defeat of the $4,000 figure

Sikyta commented, "If we keep lowering the amount we ll finally get down to multiple choice and let the people put in the amount they think we're worth

Councilman Dick Baker said that to reduce the proposed salary any further would be "cheapening the image of the job "

However, Mrs Boosalis interjected, "It's not a cheap job no matter what you pay — whether it's $10 a week or $10,000 a year "

Councilman Steve Cook said he also favored lowering the salary proposed in order to gain more public support at the polls

Although saying she thought the $4 000 figure was "minimum compensation" considering the amount of time council members spend on city business, Mrs Boosalis said, "I d rather go for half a loaf than no loaf at all "

Councilman Harry Peterson commented, "If it's ($4,000) worth it, then we should stick to it "

In other action the council reluctantly placed another charter amendment on the ballot which will set planning procedures for roadway projects costing in excess of $15 million.

Council action resulted from an initiative petition drive spearheaded by the Coalition Against the Radial to place such a measure on the ballot

The amendment would require unanimous council action on any roadway projects costing more than $15 million or failing that, require a majority vote of the people

The proposed Northeast Radial is projected to cost $30 million

Although council members did not want to place the question on the ballot City Atty Dick Wood said they had no choice under the charter

'It's a constitutional mandate " he said

Nearly $400,000 Added To Budget

That compares to a University of Nebraska general fund boost of less than 10%, he pointed out.

Exon had recommended a 3.6% general fund decrease for the colleges, relying on sharply increased tuition charges.

Enrollment at the colleges has dropped 13% during the current budget year.

Legislative floor debate on the operational budget bill has been scheduled for Wednesday.

Omaha received about an inch of snow, whipped by strong winds gusting up to 57 miles per hour.

Temperatures dropped to a cold 6 above at Sidney early Monday.

Somewhat warmer weather is expected Tuesday in Nebraska with the highs reaching into the upper 30s and lower 40s. By Wednesday the highs are expected to get into the lower 50s in the west to the 40s elsewhere in the state.

Omaha recorded its coldest high temperature for April 9 in history Monday. The temperature of 31 was lower than the previous mark of 34 set in 1881.

Impact Of Boycott's End Unclear In Early Reports

By Associated Press

Consumers who took part in the nationwide boycott of beef, lamb and pork started back to the meat counter on Monday, but supermarket spokesmen said it was too early to tell whether sales would return to normal.

An Associated Press spot check showed mixed reaction on Monday — the first shopping day in most areas after the end of the week-long boycott and the deadline for posting price ceilings imposed by President Nixon on most meat items.

A spokesman for Grand Union said he had talked to personnel from several of the chain's 43 outlets in the Washington, D.C. area and commented: "We've gotten a Monday like we can't remember. Things are jumping."

He said, however, that he would not know until later in the week just how sales would compare to pre-boycott weeks. The spokesman said price ceilings had been posted throughout the chain which announced last week that it would hold meat prices at least 10 cents per pound below the ceiling for the rest of April.

The meat manager of an Acme Markets, Inc., in Philadelphia said, "We're selling a little less than on an average Monday for us."

He said meat sales last week were down almost 25 per cent from the normal total of $29,000 and added that the store had to throw out a lot of unsold items. "We had to throw a lot of stuff right out," he said. "We couldn't even grind it for hamburger."

Consumers were divided over whether to stock up on steak and other higher priced items. Several boycott groups, including FIT — Fight Inflation Together — called for a continuation of meatless menus every Tuesday and Thursday.

One woman at a Miami store said she was buying meat as usual because "I'm tired of suffering for noble causes."

Another Miami housewife, Carol Oppel, said, "I intend to cut back and to continue to buy selectively and buy as little meat as possible. Once you get used to it, being without meat is not difficult."

Supermarkets in Cleveland, Ohio, said it was too early to tell what post-boycott sales would be like. But the boycott information center disconnected two of its four telephones because, a spokesman said, the number of calls dropped drastically.

A spokesman for the 61-store Salt Lake City, Utah district of Safeway also said he didn't know yet whether the meat business was back to normal. He said, however, that the boycott didn't decrease total business, but resulted in a change in buying habits. Meat sales were down about 15 per cent last week, he said, and sales of items like fish and TV dinners were up 15 per cent.

The manager of a Safeway store in Austin, Tex., said his total sales last week were down 25 per cent. "Beef sales are off more than that," he said, "but fish sales were up."

Pioneer 11 Heading For Open Space

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Pioneer 11 spacecraft, speeding toward Jupiter at 86,000 miles per hour, began to leave earth's sphere of influence Monday and head for open space.

The 570-pound craft was launched Thursday from Cape Kennedy and is expected to complete its 618 mile journey by December 1974.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, the NASA facility assigned to control and monitor the experiment, said the craft was leaving earth's gravity at the speed of 20,500 m.p.h.

Scientists said they were attempting to determine the type of midcourse correction to make Wednesday or Thursday.

Council Pay Hike On May 1 Ballot

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

In the May 1 general election, Lincolnites again will have the opportunity to vote on another City Council pay increase to $4,000 annually as a result of council action Monday.

That same question went down to defeat by only eight votes in last Tuesday's primary election.

Lincoln State Sen. Wally Barnett appeared in support of a pay increase and urged the council to again place the matter on the May 1 ballot.

Barnett presented a letter signed by the five other Lancaster County senators — Harold Simpson, Roland Luedtke, Shirley Marsh, Steve Fowler and Jerome Warner — supporting a pay increase.

Lower Figure?

Barnett suggested that the council consider placing a lower figure on the ballot.

Pat Stephen, president of the Lincoln League of Women Voters, again stated the league's support of a council salary increase.

The $4,000 figure was unanimously approved only following adoption of a compromise amendment proposed by Councilwoman Helen Boosalis.

She wanted the words "not more than" added in front of the figure for "obvious reasons."

She urged that a lower figure of $3,600 per year be placed on the ballot instead of $4,000.

However, Councilman Bob Sikyta noted that pay hikes for council members have been defeated at the polls twice in the past year.

In November 1972, voters turned down a $5,000 amount, while last Tuesday saw the defeat of the $4,000 figure.

Sikyta commented, "If we keep lowering the amount we'll finally get down to multiple choice and let the people put in the amount they think we're worth.

Councilman Dick Baker said that to reduce the proposed salary any further would be "cheapening the image of the job."

However, Mrs. Boosalis interjected, "It's not a cheap job no matter what you pay — whether it's $10 a week or $10,000 a year."

Councilman Steve Cook said he also favored lowering the salary proposed in order to gain more public support at the polls.

Although saying she thought the $4,000 figure was "minimum compensation" considering the amount of time council members spend on city business, Mrs. Boosalis said, "I'd rather go for half a loaf, than no loaf at all."

Councilman Harry Peterson commented, "If it's ($4,000) worth it, then we should stick to it."

In other action the council reluctantly placed another charter amendment on the ballot which will set planning procedures for roadway projects costing in excess of $15 million.

Council action resulted from an initiative petition drive spearheaded by the Coalition Against the Radial to place such a measure on the ballot.

The amendment would require unanimous council action on any roadway projects costing more than $15 million or, failing that, require a majority vote of the people.

The proposed Northeast Radial is projected to cost $30 million.

Although council members did not want to place the question on the ballot, City Atty. Dick Wood said they had no choice under the charter.

"It's a constitutional mandate," he said.

Russo Tearfully Recalls Interview With Prisoner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anthony J Russo wept on the witness stand at the Pentagon papers trial Monday as he told jurors of the sufferings of a North Vietnamese villager he encountered while interviewing captured prisoners for a research study

Russo calling the prisoner "the strongest man I ever met " dropped his head and wiped his eyes as he told the story to jurors Then, laughing through his tears, he said, "See even now when I talk about it it comes back to me

The 36-year-old defendant on trial with Daniel Ellsberg, told the story to illustrate the experiences which transformed him from an establishment" researcher on government projects to a vehement antiwar activist

He admitted to jurors that he helped Ellsberg copy the Pentagon papers study of the Vietnam war in 1969 but said he had never seen the documents before copying them, and indicated he did not know their contents

The balding bespectacled Russo told of his Vietnam experiences as a researcher for the Rand Corp "think tank " It was at Rand that Ellsberg and Russo met

Assigned to interview captured prisoners defectors and refugees for a study of Viet Cong motivation and morale, Russo said he encountered the prisoner he never forgot

"I don't remember the man's name,' he said, "I remember his Rand file number He was the strongest man I ever met, I mean by constitution personality It had quite an effect on me

"He was very committed and very sincere We talked for two whole days It was from him that I learned first what the people in the villages really thought People in the villages are the people whose voices are never heard

"He said he would never give up no matter how much he was tortured — and he had been tortured

"We had good rapport We were friends, It was a very moving experience '

Then, Russo covered his eyes and cried

He told jurors of his disillusionment with the results of his work in Vietnam He said he submitted one report to the Air Force which he felt was ignored It was a report on the use of ' antipersonnel weapons" which frequently killed civilians

Earlier Russo had explained how he and Ellsberg copied the Pentagon papers and observed that at one point he thought Ellsberg wasn't handling the top-secret documents carefully enough He referred to a day when Ellsberg showed the papers to a visitor

The visitor he referred to was Vu Van Thai, a former South Vietnamese ambassador who was named as an unindicted coconspirator in the case because his fingerprints were found on a volume of the Pentagon's top-secret study of the Vietnam war

Energy Research Subsidy Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House task force Monday recommended a $1 billion a year step-up in research to meet the energy crisis, including a crash program on replacing petroleum with synthetic coal gas

The chairman, Rep Mike McCormack, D-Wash., said the crash program on synthetic gas is needed largely to reduce U S. dependence on oil from the Middle East.

McCormack said America now is dependent on Middle East oil imports until the mid 1980s but should be prepared to fuel its central power plants with coal if the Arab nations cut off that supply

For the long term the task force recommended coordinated stepped-up research to bring solar, geothermal and cheap nuclear energy into practical use in the mid-1980s

It said development and oversight of a national energy policy should be focused in the White House And it said a federal agency should be set up to channel money into priority research that will bring practical new power supplies on the line fastest

McCormack and other members of the task force also said at a news conference that power companies should be given tax breaks and antitrust exemptions that would specifically encourage development of more power sources

The task force recommended no specific incentives but its report said the present oil depletion allowance is justified to stimulate exploration and said other incentives could include a tax write-off for companies' energy costs

McCormack said the additional $1 billion a year for energy research should be paid by both government and the power industry

He said the industry's Electric Power Research Institute hopes to collect $200 million next year in voluntary contributions from member power companies for energy research

An additional $1 billion would raise annual energy research spending to between $2 5 billion and $3 billion

The report said available information indicates the research priorities should go to —Development of synthetic gas from coal, which McCormack said would be cleaner than natural gas besides reducing U S dependence on Middle East oil

—Solar energy because of its continuous and virtually inexhaustible nature

—Geothermal energy, use of underground heat to run power plants

—Controlled thermonuclear fusion in the longrun and development of dependable liquid Metal Fast Breeder reactors over the short term

—Basic research and research on materials ' since almost all technological progress related to energy is limited by the properties of available materials

McCormack s task force was created within the House Science Committee 18 months ago to make the study and report on energy

Late Blizzard Boffs Midwest

A wintry storm with winds of more than 60 miles per hour moved across the mid-Mississippi Valley Monday, nearly paralyzing two large cities and causing the widespread closing of roads and schools.

A frigid mass of air moved behind the storm system, driving temperatures down across the Plains to Louisiana and Texas, where El Paso's 24 degrees marked the coldest April day since record keeping began there 94 years ago.

Blizzard warnings were issued for central and northeastern Iowa. Up to 14 inches of snow fell in that area, paralyzing the state capital, Des Moines, and making travel dangerous.

Activity at most Iowa schools, businesses, factories and government offices ground to a halt. Travel was almost impossible. Dozens of highways were closed, even to emergency vehicles.

Officials of the National Weather Service said it was the worst April storm since 1881 when records were begun.

Heavy snow warnings were also in effect for northern Illinois, Wisconsin and parts of Lower Michigan

More than a half-foot of snow fell in southern Wisconsin La Crosse reported 13 inches of snow Traffic was at a virtual standstill throughout the state and many office workers in downtown Milwaukee made overnight hotel preparations in the event they were stranded

Sunny skies prevailed in the Northeast, the Florida Peninsula and Southern California, however Deserts winds kept Los Angeles County beaches crowded Monday, after about a half-million persons sunned themselves on the sand Sunday.

The 11 inches of snow which fell over Des Moines far exceeded the previous record for an April snowstorm of 6.2 inches in 1959.

The snows, combined with steady winds of 30 to 40 mph that gusted at times to 65 mph, threatened livestock in central Iowa, especially newborn calves found with their eyes frozen shut.

Many schools, businesses and governmental agencies in Wisconsin didn't open their doors Monday, or closed early because of the storm that made virtually all state roads hazardous for driving.

Gale warnings flew on all the Great Lakes and a shore erosion warning for Lake Michigan was posted from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to its extreme southern end at Indiana.

South of the snowfall areas, steady rain and rain changing to snow fell. Up to eight inches of snow was forecast for Chicago, where the lakefront was pounded by heavy waves that forced the closing of the downtown airport, Meigs Field.

The National Weather Service said the heavy snows were expected to remain over Illinois and Wisconsin through the night, and then spread into northern Indiana and upper Michigan.

Travelers' advisories were posted for northeast Missouri, with a forecast of up to three inches of snow.

Freezing temperatures were expected as far south as West Texas, Oklahoma and northwest Arkansas Overnight frost was predicted for most of Louisiana.

Denmark Labor Strikes End With Compromise

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Workers and employers voted on Monday to end Denmark's biggest labor conflict in 37 years. More than 260,000 workers will return to work Tuesday after three weeks of strikes and lockouts.

The state mediator announced that a compromise agreement offering nearly a million workers a 7.5 per cent over-all increase of pay and benefits over the next two years was approved 319,702 to 144,404 by the union rank and file, and 454 to 105 by an employers' associations General Assembly

The end of the conflict, which brought a loss of about 30 million man-hours and a 2 to 3 per cent production loss, will bring back daily newspapers, set the wheels of the entire metal industry running again, put thousands of private trucks and buses back on the roads and bring shipping back to normal.

Opposition among employers was surprisingly weak considering that the compromise did not differ much from a proposal their negotiators earlier rejected. That rejection brought on the strikes and lockouts

What won employer approval, informed source said, was the certain knowledge that rejection would have made the Social Democratic minority government intervene and ram through legislation making the compromise law.

The price for two years of labor market peace was estimated at about $175 million. The agreement includes equal pay for men and women in industrial work and a shortening of the work week from 41¾ to 40 hours by December next year

Laviolette was one of three Canadians aboard two helicopters shot at Saturday. All nine aboard his craft died in the crash The second helicopter landed safely.

Sharp said the government still is getting information about the incident

But he added that there was no reason to believe that the helicopters had failed to fly a route agreed to by the Viet Cong, which controls the region involved The Viet Cong alleged the craft were 15 miles outside the flight corridor

The ICCS military committee rejected that "outrageous demand," Sharp said.

The Viet Cong claimed the helicopter met with an accident. A Canadian military observer said in Saigon Monday the craft was hit by a heat-seeking missile over Viet Cong-held territory.

7 Nuclear Pacemakers Implanted

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Doctors implanted the first American-made nuclear-powered pacemakers in the hearts of volunteer patients Monday. The atomic devices are expected to last five times longer than battery-powered models.

Seven patients received the plutonium units, about the size of a cigarette lighter, early in the day. Eight similar operations are planned this week.

The operations were the first approved by the Atomic Energy Commission although a French model has been implanted in about 20 patients in the United States and many more in Europe.

A pacemaker modifies irregular heart beats by sending out electric signals. It can keep the heart going at the normal rate of 73 beats per minute.

Among the patients receiving atomic pacemakers Monday was Max Spieler, a 60-year-old meat inspector for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Given a local anaesthetic, he was conscious during the hour-long operation and met with reporters minutes after leaving the operating room.

"I feel very good, all charged up," he said.

Spieler, from Nutley, N J , is the president of the Pacemakers Foundation, a group he organized to promote research in the field. He was one of the first persons to volunteer for a nuclear-powered pacemaker four years ago.

The youngest patient to undergo the operation was Roxanne Hutchinson, a 12-year-old school cheerleader from Grand Rapids, Mich., who brought her uniform to the hospital for "good luck."

She suffered her first heart attack at the age of 5 weeks and had her first pacemaker when she was 22 months old.

Monday's operations were at the Beth Israel Medical Center and nine other hospitals are expected to implant 39 nuclear pacemakers in the next few months.

Dr. Lawrence Gilbert, one of four surgeons performing the operation, said: "The amazing significance is in the fact that these people were being operated on every two years and now it may be every 20 years."

Conventional models, now used by some 60,000 Americans, are powered by electrical batteries and must be replaced after about 18 months.

The nuclear model, weighing about 3½ ounces and powered by plutonium 238, a radioactive isotope, is expected to last 10 years or more.

Their protective capsules are believed to be strong enough to withstand direct impacts of bullets, a hospital spokesman said, and give off less radiation than a radium dial on a watch.

Health Research Said Hurting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Jonas Salk said Monday federal fund cutbacks are having a serious effect on health research and Congress should not add to the problems by reducing tax incentives for voluntary giving.

Salk is father of the oral polio vaccine, whose institute in San Diego now is working on multiple sclerosis and cancer. He told the House Ways and Means Committee "I would be out of business" without the support of groups like the Multiple Sclerosis and Cancer Societies, the March of Dimes and of philantropic individuals.

Democratic members drew Salk out on the issues of fund impoundments and cutbacks by President Nixon's Administration, asking whether he thinks the cuts are too deep.

"Yes, definitely ..." Salk replied. "There is a brake being put on now and it is being felt very severely "

Salk said one of the most serious effects is the discouragement of young specialists who now must be told, "sorry, we can't continue to employ you."

"Some will go to Europe, some to industry, some will become drug salesmen," he said. "The investment made in their preparation will not be drawn upon."

In its review of the internal Revenue Code, the committee has before it several proposals to reduce the advantages available to persons who contribute to charitable, educational and other public causes.

Late Blizzard Boffs Midwest

A wintry storm with winds of more than 60 miles per hour moved across the mid-Mississippi Valley Monday, nearly paralyzing two large cities and causing the widespread closing of roads and schools.

A frigid mass of air moved behind the storm system, driving temperatures down across the Plains to Louisiana and Texas, where El Paso's 24 degrees marked the coldest April day since record keeping began there 94 years ago.

Blizzard warnings were issued for central and northeastern Iowa. Up to 14 inches of snow fell in that area, paralyzing the state capital, Des Moines, and making travel dangerous.

Activity at most Iowa schools, businesses, factories and government offices ground to a halt. Travel was almost impossible. Dozens of highways were closed, even to emergency vehicles.

Officials of the National Weather Service said it was the worst April storm since 1881 when records were begun.

Heavy snow warnings were also in effect for northern Illinois, Wisconsin and parts of Lower Michigan.

More than a half-foot of snow fell in southern Wisconsin. La Crosse reported 13 inches of snow. Traffic was at a virtual standstill throughout the state and many office workers in downtown Milwaukee made overnight hotel preparations in the event they were stranded.

Sunny skies prevailed in the Northeast, the Florida Peninsula and Southern California, however. Deserts winds kept Los Angeles County beaches crowded Monday, after about a half-million persons sunned themselves on the sand Sunday.

The 11 inches of snow which fell over Des Moines far exceeded the previous record for an April snowstorm of 6.2 inches in 1959.

The snows, combined with steady winds of 30 to 40 mph that gusted at times to 65 mph, threatened livestock in central Iowa, especially newborn calves found with their eyes frozen shut.

Many schools, businesses and governmental agencies in Wisconsin didn't open their doors Monday, or closed early because of the storm that made virtually all state roads hazardous for driving.

Gale warnings flew on all the Great Lakes and a shore erosion warning for Lake Michigan was posted from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to its extreme southern end at Indiana.

South of the snowfall areas, steady rain and rain changing to snow fell. Up to eight inches of snow was forecast for Chicago, where the lakefront was pounded by heavy waves that forced the closing of the downtown airport, Meigs Field.

The National Weather Service said the heavy snows were expected to remain over Illinois and Wisconsin through the night, and then spread into northern Indiana and upper Michigan.

Travelers' advisories were posted for northeast Missouri, with a forecast of up to three inches of snow.

Freezing temperatures were expected as far south as West Texas, Oklahoma and northwest Arkansas. Overnight frost was predicted for most of Louisiana.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A visitor last week spoke to us in favor of a bill in the Legislature to provide for student representation on the University of Nebraska Board of Regents. It would be appropriate for this legislation to pass but it is easy to imagine some of the opposition that will develop to it.

The idea is to give the student voice a vote on the board and that seems little enough to us. While the bill leaves the system for providing this voice up to the governor, proponents of the measure are suggesting one representative from each of the university's three campuses on the board, each with a one-third vote.

Very obviously, the student members would be in no position to control anything but they could make a valuable contribution to the board. They can now make input to the board but only on an informal basis.

As members of the board, the students could take part in discussion from beginning to end, not just during established times for a board and student discussion. This is an important distinction.

It is one thing to have a set time and place for making your point with any board and another to be an integral part of such a board. The real impact on any board is made in the give and take among members during discussion leading up to a decision.

Therefore, it is important that students be represented on the board as voting members if they are to have an effective and constructive voice in things.

All kinds of arguments against this proposal might be made on the basis of age. Students will be viewed by some as being too young to sit in an official capacity on the board. This, however, is a hard argument to buy.

By virtue of their age alone students will not necessarily be any more irresponsible than older citizens, nor do they automatically lack the intelligence of older members of the board. The students may lack something by way of experience and maturity but this is not all a liability.

At the same time, the students would lack the closed minds and special interest influences that might be a part of the decision making process on the part of older members of the board. This fresh and uncluttered approach might more than make up for any immaturity or inexperience.

Then, there is the matter of the elective process — a process that cannot be used with student representation. It is totally impractical, it seems to us, to look for student representation through any election. Appointment of student members is the only practical approach to this matter.

Again, some may object that this aborts the democratic process but this is not an argument of sufficient weight to constitute a fatal blow to the proposal. If we want student representation it is up to us to find a way of providing for it.

We can throw up any number of roadblocks if we want to but we can, also, get the job done with very little trouble if we want to. In our opinion, student representation on the board would be valuable and ought to become a reality.

This change would greatly improve overall board and administration knowledge of student needs and desires and this, after all, is the essence of what the university is all about. It is an institution for young people and we should have the full benefit of the thinking of those we seek to serve.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE
Mechanics Required To Become Qualified

New York — Next time you take the old jalopy in with a bad case of the clunks, check out the mechanic's uniform. If all you see is grease stains, take your "funny noise" elsewhere.

Chances are, the mechanic doesn't know much more about automobile repair than you do, and all you'll wind up with is a whopping bill for "parts and labor." Plus, of course, the "funny noise."

What you're looking for is a uniform with an orange, white and blue shoulder patch. That means the mechanic knows his way around under your hood. Maybe. If he's passed the quiz on your special brand of clunk.

Those technicolor tags are the auto repair industry's Oscars for things like "best performance by a mechanic in fuel induction, ignition and exhaust systems." And you won't find too many of them around yet.

But hang in there. Help is on the way. Automobile mechanics are being "certified" now.

Our years of squawking over sloppy (and sometimes downright dangerous) repairs have not been in vain. Somebody has finally decided to do something about the scandals in the back shop.

☆ ☆ ☆

Congress pretended to a while back. Held a lot of hearings . . . collected a flock of headlines . . . got everybody's hopes up (although we should know better by now) — and that was the last anybody ever heard of that.

Until last November, when (and here's the biggest surprise of all) the automobile manufacturers and the dealers got together and set up a national testing program for "service excellence."

What won't surprise anybody is the news flash that, out of 8,113 mechanics who took the five-part exam for "general mechanic," 6,668 flunked it cold.

But on the exams for "qualified" mechanics, things came out a little better. Out of 13,512 repairmen who tested for specialty patches (engines, transmissions, wheels and brakes, electrical systems, etc.), 8,808 earned one or more.

This is only the beginning. It will take time to get around to all 125,000 members of the machinists' union alone, not to mention the boys in tiny garages around the country.

And while it's probably too much to expect the flunkees will be ordered to turn in their tools, it's encouraging to note that they can hit the books a little harder and have another go at earning their patches. (Not to mention their pay.)

This opens up a whole new world for frustrated consumers. If automobile mechanics can go back to school, how about the rest of those repairmen who have us in their clutches? I can name dozens at the drop of a screw driver.

There was the electrician who put in two light switches upside down . . . the plumber who stopped the leak in the kitchen sink by reducing the faucet pressure to a trickle . . . the TV man who thinks it's normal for all news commentators to have pointy heads (and his name isn't George Wallace, either).

And ESPECIALLY that clown who tinkered with the washing machine, announced the motor would "last as long as you will, lady," and then scribbled on the service sheet to his boss: "Needs a major overhaul."

He won't get in this house again without a patch. And maybe even a poke in the eye.

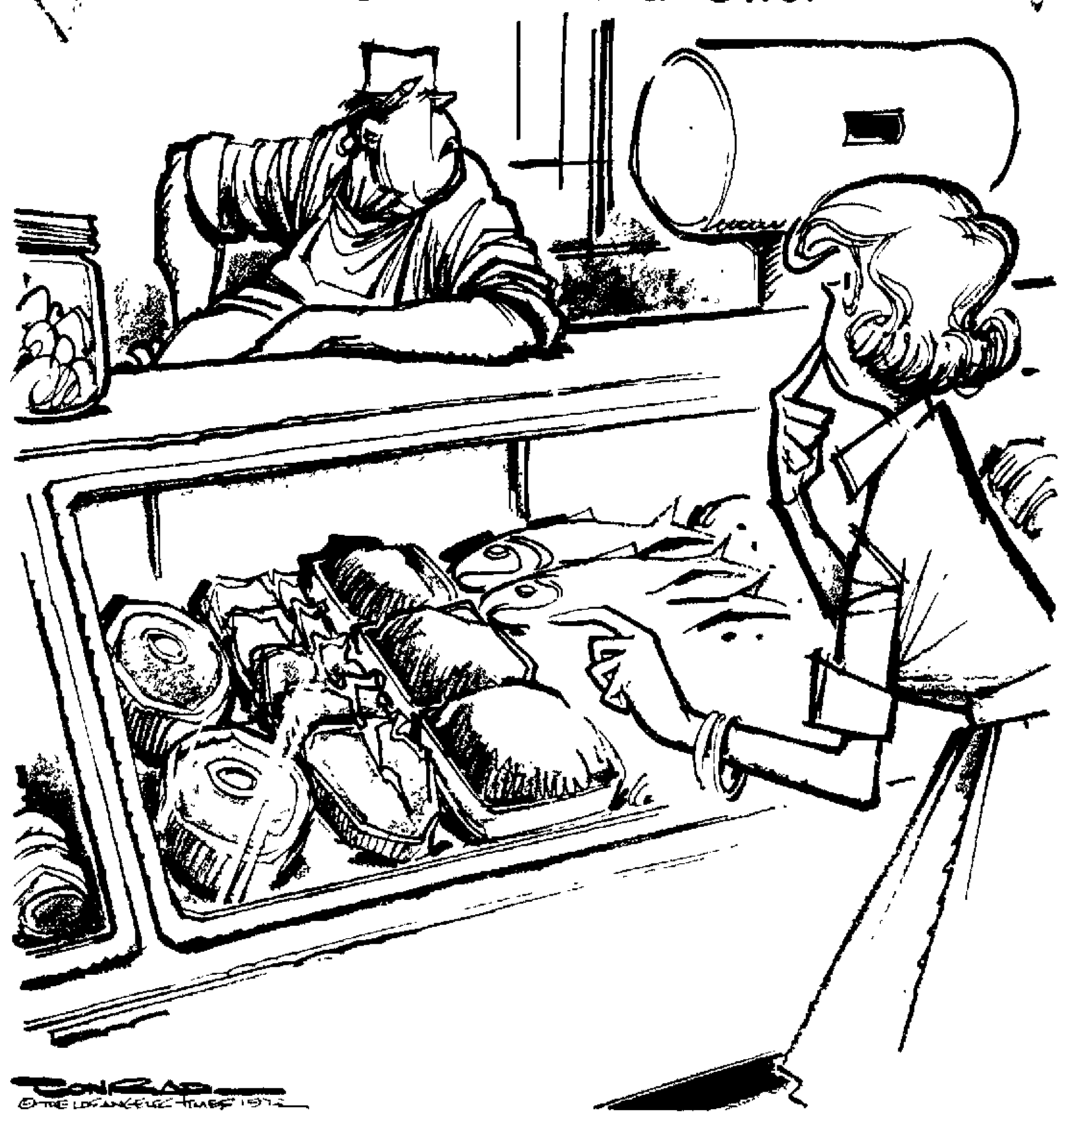
'If You Have To Ask How Much, You Can't Afford One!'



A Favorable Response

The latest Harris poll regarding President Nixon's popularity shows that Americans are very easy to please.

He commands a 59-39% favorable rating despite what Harris sees as "growing doubts about his performance in domestic matters." On the domestic issues, Nixon receives negative responses on his handling of relations with Congress, air and water pollution controls, federal spending, keeping the economy healthy, devaluing the dollar and keeping down the cost of living. Most people, according to the poll, don't think the President handles those things very well.

And then there is the Watergate matter, which apparently was not reflected in this poll. People apparently are not decided about the extent of the President's personal involvement, although it would appear that at the very least he is presiding over a group of liars at the White House.

But in spite of all those negative responses, Nixon gets a favorable reaction over all. People are impressed by his foreign policy accomplishments. They like his handling of U.S. relations with Russia and China and the fact that he brought the U.S. phase of the Vietnam war to a close and the prisoners of war home. Although it isn't clear that he got the prisoners home any faster than someone else might have.

Harris thinks that Nixon is going through a crucial period. He has been able to generate approval, Harris says, "by dint of the good feelings from the end of U.S. involvement in the war. With Vietnam now presumably behind us, a major question is whether more foreign policy developments will balance off Nixon's growing troubles at home involving the economic area, as well as the growing congressional pressure regarding Watergate."

Some form of arms limitation agreement coming out of the latest round of talks or maybe some spectacular announcement at the time Party Secretary Brezhnev comes to the United States might solidify Nixon's popularity rating, even though there may be no improvement in the domestic area.

Charter Amendment

It's unfortunate that the Coalition Against the Radial chose an ill-advised proposed charter amendment as a means to stop construction of the Northeast Radial. It is unfortunate, because many of the people who oppose the radial do so for very good reasons, and the issue of whether or not there should be a radial might become lost in the larger question of the charter amendment.

The amendment proposes that in order for any road project costing in excess of $15 million to be undertaken, the project must have the unanimous approval of the City Council. Failing that, the question would go to a vote of the people. Majority approval of the project would be necessary.

The people who support the amendment might stop the Northeast Radial if it is passed, but it could also louse up Lincoln city government for a long time to come.

Putting through an amendment of this sort is like changing the method of electing council members because you don't personally like some of the people who presently sit on the council. You might get rid of who you don't like, but the quality of the council might suffer permanently.

There is, as Mayor Schwartzkopf said, "a general misunderstanding in the community" on the amendment. People should not regard the vote on May 3 as a vote for or against the Northeast Radial. They should regard it is an attempt to frustrate the good kind of administration of city government that Lincolnites are used to.

People who oppose the Northeast Radial can in good conscience join with other Lincoln people in also opposing the proposed charter amendment.

The Decline Of Civility

WASHINGTON — There is a kind of spring madness in Washington these days. The President and his men seem to be threatening all kinds of dreadful things they have no intention of doing, and their political opponents are promising all sort of sensational retaliations they have no power to carry out.

For example, President Nixon, who has taken all that credit for getting the country out of Vietnam, is now threatening to jump back in again if the North Vietnamese don't abide by the peace agreement, and the Democrats are threatening to cut him off without a penny if he tries it.

Now Mr. Nixon believes that unpredictability is a virtue in diplomacy, and after all his invasions and incursions and bombings and minings in Vietnam, officials in Hanoi, and even Washington for that matter, can never be sure what he will do next.

That's the way he wants it and maybe his latest threat to re-enter the battle will eventually have some effect on Hanoi, but the truth is that he has no intention of getting back into that jungle and risking more prisoners of war and more demonstrations, and more trouble at home than he already has. He merely wants to talk about it.

The Democratic threats to cut off all funds if he started up the bombing in Vietnam again are equally meaningless, for Nixon regards this as an infringement of his rights as commander in chief and he has enough bombs and planes at his disposal to carry on the bombing for years, even if Congress doesn't vote him another dollar for new adventures.

Nevertheless, both sides keep issuing provocative challenges to the other, like children playing chip-on-the-shoulder. It doesn't make sense, but it makes news, and the more outrageous the statement, the bigger the headline.

Almost every day now on the stroke of noon, Ron Ziegler, the President's designated pinch-hitter in the White House, announces that Nixon wants nothing more than to get at the truth in the Watergate case, but defies the Senate investigating committee to try to get White House officials, past or present, to testify formally on Capitol Hill.

Whereupon, before you can say "executive privilege", Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina, the most vivid character on Capitol Hill since Everett McKinley Dirksen, quotes the Bible, Shakespeare, and the Constitution to Ziegler and threatens to have his cops go downtown and drag the President's aides to the witness stand or clap them in jail.

Whatever happened to the doctrine of senatorial courtesy, or to the assumption that a democratic government of separate and equal powers required the spirit of consultation, compromise and civility?

Take Sen. Lowell P. Weicker of Connecticut. He has appointed himself top bull in the "Watergate chinashop," and charges around smashing up the crockery every day or so.

His technique is to imply that he knows a whole lot more about the dirty tricks in his own Republican party than anybody else, and this is enough to get him on "Meet The Press" and produce big TV interviews with Roger Mudd, and since this game requires more sensational charges as time goes on, he finally winds up by calling for the resignation of the President's chief of staff, Bob Haldeman, without providing any evidence to justify the demand.

Even Sen. Philip Hart, the Michigan Democrat, normally an amiable and even sensible man, has apparently been smitten by the spring madness. Frustrated over the President's unexplained month-long bombing of Cambodia, the right honorable gentleman suggests vaguely that maybe the Congress ought to look into the possibility of impeaching Nixon.

Speaking as if he were the chief justice of the United States, the senator hands down the judgment that "the violation of the Constitution is clear," and adds, almost casually, "We ought to get the books out and find the chapter on impeachment." Of course, he adds, his suggestion might be "harsh" and the chances of impeachment "zero," but at least they were enough to get him an interview with U.P.I.

This seems to be the object of the current spring frolic: Catch a headline. Never mind if you have no evidence, or no chance of putting through what you propose, or who gets hurt in the scramble. In politics notoriety is almost as good as fame.

In the end, however, all this headline-grabbing and posturing and talk of confrontations and constitutional cries is not going to change the fundamental fact. The executive and Congress are going to have to compromise on executive privilege, on the Watergate, on the control of inflation and the impoundment of funds, and on the conduct on the war. This bogus paper war is not going to settle anything, but a restoration of civil manners might help.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes fungus? Please describe all treatment methods available. I have a 2-year-old and a 10-month-old baby. They have been treated for fungus all their lives. The first doctor prescribed Tinactin solution. Their feet did look a lot better but never completely healed. The babies got a diaper rash recently when we moved.—C.J.

What causes fungus? Nothing. It's just there. Like cold germs. Or any other kind of germs.

If you ask why one person acquires a fungus infection while another doesn't, that's a different question. Generally speaking, the fungus likes a warm, moist environment where it has a ready supply of such nourishment as it needs. That's why human feet, dressed in socks and shoes, are a favorite nesting place for fungus.

First is keeping the feet dry and clean. Fresh socks, plus the use of foot powder, are necessary for this. Foot powder, and sometimes other materials in shoes, and giving shoes plenty of time to air and dry between wearings, add to the effectiveness.

Second, fungicides often are applied to the area. The exact type of fungus can have a bearing on what medication is used. One of the stumbling blocks in this treatment is that patients quite commonly underestimate the time required to get rid of fungus. It may seem to have disappeared, but often some of the fungus is deep in the skin, survives the medication, and begins to proliferate again.

Third, for some types of fungus, a prescription medication taken by mouth is effective. This is griseofulvin, with variants of the name when produced by different firms. It does not attack all forms of fungus, but is very effective (and the only one taken by mouth) against certain forms.

Now as to the babies' diaper rash: Is it or isn't it the fungus? If it is not, then anti-fungus treatment is not going to help the rash and, in fact, could make it worse. In a case like yours, I would want expert diagnosis, rather than run the risk of jumping to a conclusion which could be in error.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why is it when some people have gall stone surgery they have no more troubles, while others do? My sister had surgery two years ago and can eat anything she wants. I had surgery three years ago and can't eat much better than before.—Mrs. R.H.

One cause is that people don't have the same tastes in foods. Some who habitually get too much fat in the diet suffer because the supply of bile may not be sufficient for digestion. Others who eat less fat have no trouble.

But another, and very common cause, is that some condition, not related to gall stones, may be producing similar symptoms. Likeliest possibilities are ulcer, hiatal hernia, or some functional situation causing spasm. Further investigation by your doctor, and analysis of your symptoms, is in order.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In an insurance report, the doctor listed "essential hypertension." In layman's language "essential" means "necessary." Under what circumstances would hypertension, or high blood pressure, be "necessary," or is there a different medical definition of the term "essential?" I am confused.—Mrs. S.K.

Essentially, your question is one of semantics, not medicine.

Check a dictionary and you'll find that "necessary" is a secondary meaning. The original or primary meaning of "essential" is "of or pertaining to the essence of."

In medical dictionaries you'll also find "idiopathic" as a synonym, an idiopathic disease or condition being one that is there but we don't know what put it there.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on the value of vitamin E for treating heart trouble? A well-meaning neighbor quotes nutritional books claiming that vitamin E can heal scar tissue and repair a damaged heart in time. My doctor says that buying vitamin E is a waste of money and no one has ever offered proof that it is of value to the human system. — H.P.

I fairly well agree with your doctor except for one point. Vitamin E does have its uses — but it is so prevalent in so many foods that I simply never have heard of anyone lacking enough of it from his regular foods.

As to vitamin E supplements "healing scar tissue" and so on, no. It's a fad.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a craving for seeds — apple seeds and sunflower seeds. What value are they, if any, other than protein? Are they fattening? — Mrs. J.C.

The husks, of course, are principally fiber. Of the digestible portion, sunflower seeds run 24 per cent protein, 47 per cent fat and 20 per cent carbohydrate, rich in minerals and having some vitamins A and B. Apple seeds run in similar proportions.

Fattening? Anything with that much protein, fat and carbohydrate is fattening if you eat enough of it.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Future Needs Radial

Lincoln, Neb.

I probably will not be living in the year 1985 when the Northeast Radial is completed. Even so, I would have little use for it. Nonetheless, I am compelled to speak out for a plan developed by people endowed with foresight and civic pride.

People located in the path of the radial prior to 1967 are justified in their concern for personal tranquility, and for possible economic loss. Having been somewhat in their position, I can sympathize with them. Condemnation of private property for public domain is never pleasant to the victims. If the human element in acquisition of land is ignored by the city, or by the university, the citizenry should take steps to rectify this.

Less sympathy can be extended to those who acquired property since 1967 along the radial's route. The advent of this throughway has been heralded loudly since that year. As for Fremont Street, it has been a street car, bus, highway, and local traffic way for more than 60 years. No one has the privilege of believing it would not remain one of Lincoln's main traffic arteries.

Opposition persons who deserve the least respect from civic-minded citizens, are those who use the Southeast Radial. It also was paid for from tax dollars. Much of the cost came from the pockets of those not benefiting directly from it. It is mighty myopic to oppose the orderly development of one's own city on the basis of personal benefit. This statement applies doubly to candidates for the City Council, which is supposed to represent all of the people, present and future. Opposition by southside candidates points up the need for electing candidates at large. Their opposition illustrates how self-centered and neighborhood-oriented natural man is.

Unfortunately, future generations of people who will need access to the governmental and educational heart of the city will not get to vote on the Northeast Radial issue.

Fun On The Farm

Lincoln, Neb.

Mike, the gentle big shepherd's bark was of alarm. Looking out the back door, he stood, stiff-legged, barking at the farmer in the feedlot, throwing mudballs at Mike. I called him. As if with a shrug of his shoulders, he trotted across the lawn into the house.

Pausing there, a herd of cattle galloped from a back pasture, through the driveway and across the road into a higher and drier, second field. One frisky calf took off down the road. One of the farmers took off after it. The faster he ran, the faster the calf led the race. Suddenly the man stopped, threw up his arms, started back to the herd. Like a mischievous child the calf stopped as if disappointed the fun was over, and came loping back after the man, then with one more try for attention dodged behind the long, swinging gate. It took two husky men to drag it back out and smack it into the pasture, where its worried mother came trotting up to nuzzle her precious child.

Back to watching TV, saw Ajax curled into a ball of white, long-haired fur. Believe it or not, he was softly snoring. As if his dream was over, he rose, arched his back in a pleasing stretch, opened his pink mouth in a cavernous yawn, showing his sharp, white teeth. It was a delightful expression of luxurious contentment. And just think, Ajax has nine lives to enjoy it all.

Boycott Hysteria

Wymore, Neb.

I've been wondering: Do meat boycotters wear shoes and clothes, and live in houses, and have TV sets and cars, etc. etc.? I haven't heard that stores and businesses are giving these things away.

Do they boycott medicine when they are ill? It would seem more sensible to protect their health with good food and balanced diets, and find more useful ways to spend their time and energy.

Mass hysteria doesn't make sense or cents.

The Non-essentials

Fairbury, Neb.

Your story about Mrs. Weaver points up popular thinking. I don't know Mr. Weaver's salary, but a senior systems engineer in computers has to be at least $12,000 a year.

Mrs. Weaver says she spends about $1,800 for food. That is 15% of his salary. $10,000 will pay a lot of taxes, housing, necessities and non-essentials.

Mrs. Weaver can, perhaps, "do without beef." Can she not do without some of the "work saving" equipment, modern conveniences, items for "better living," and even luxuries that I am sure she has in her home?

On Voting

Lincoln, Neb.

Our class has noticed that not all the people in Lincoln are voting in the elections.

It seems that they are not voting because they don't know who some of the people are.

Here are some of our suggestions on ways people can find out about candidates.

(1) Read the newspaper.

(2) Have candidates speak on TV and radio on different nights.

(3) Go to the candidates' meetings.

(4) Read pahphlets about the candidates.

We hope some of these suggestions will be useful to everyone, especially in the coming election on May 1.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A visitor last week spoke to us in favor of a bill in the Legislature to provide for student representation on the University of Nebraska Board of Regents. It would be appropriate for this legislation to pass but it is easy to imagine some of the opposition that will develop to it.

The idea is to give the student voice a vote on the board and that seems little enough to us. While the bill leaves the system for providing this voice up to the governor, proponents of the measure are suggesting one representative from each of the university's three campuses on the board, each with a one-third vote.

Very obviously, the student members would be in no position to control anything but they could make a valuable contribution to the board. They can now make input to the board but only on an informal basis.

As members of the board, the students could take part in discussion from beginning to end, not just during established times for a board and student discussion. This is an important distinction.

It is one thing to have a set time and place for making your point with any board and another to be an integral part of such a board. The real impact on any board is made in the give and take among members during discussion leading up to a decision.

Therefore, it is important that students be represented on the board as voting members if they are to have an effective and constructive voice in things.

All kinds of arguments against this proposal might be made on the basis of age. Students will be viewed by some as being too young to sit in an official capacity on the board. This, however, is a hard argument to buy.

By virtue of their age alone students will not necessarily be any more irresponsible than older citizens, nor do they automatically lack the intelligence of older members of the board. The students may lack something by way of experience and maturity but this is not all a liability.

At the same time, the students would lack the closed minds and special interest influences that might be a part of the decision making process on the part of older members of the board. This fresh and uncluttered approach might more than make up for any immaturity or inexperience.

Then, there is the matter of the elective process — a process that cannot be used with student representation. It is totally impractical, it seems to us, to look for student representation through any election. Appointment of student members is the only practical approach to this matter.

Again, some may object that this aborts the democratic process but this is not an argument of sufficient weight to constitute a fatal blow to the proposal. If we want student representation it is up to us to find a way of providing for it.

We can throw up any number of roadblocks if we want to but we can, also, get the job done with very little trouble if we want to. In our opinion, student representation on the board would be valuable and ought to become a reality.

This change would greatly improve overall board and administration knowledge of student needs and desires and this, after all, is the essence of what the university is all about. It is an institution for young people and we should have the full benefit of the thinking of those we seek to serve.

Mechanics Required To Become Qualified

New York — Next time you take the old jalopy in with a bad case of the clunks, check out the mechanic's uniform. If all you see is grease stains, take your "funny noise" elsewhere.

Chances are, the mechanic doesn't know much more about automobile repair than you do, and all you'll wind up with is a whopping bill for "parts and labor." Plus, of course, the "funny noise."

What you're looking for is a uniform with an orange, white and blue shoulder patch. That means the mechanic knows his way around under your hood. Maybe. If he's passed the quiz on your special brand of clunk.

Those technicolor tags are the auto repair industry's Oscars for things like "best performance by a mechanic in fuel induction, ignition and exhaust systems." And you won't find too many of them around yet.

But hang in there. Help is on the way. Automobile mechanics are being "certified" now.

Our years of squawking over sloppy (and sometimes downright dangerous) repairs have not been in vain. Somebody has finally decided to do something about the scandals in the back shop.

☆ ☆ ☆

Congress pretended to a while back. Held a lot of hearings . . . collected a flock of headlines . . . got everybody's hopes up (although we should know better by now) — and that was the last anybody ever heard of that.

Until last November, when (and here's the biggest surprise of all) the automobile manufacturers and the dealers got together and set up a national testing program for "service excellence."

What won't surprise anybody is the news flash that, out of 8,113 mechanics who took the five-part exam for "general mechanic," 6,668 flunked it cold.

But on the exams for "qualified" mechanics, things came out a little better. Out of 13,512 repairmen who tested for specialty patches (engines, transmissions, wheels and brakes, electrical systems, etc.), 8,808 earned one or more.

This is only the beginning. It will take time to get around to all 125,000 members of the machinists' union alone, not to mention the boys in tiny garages around the country.

And while it's probably too much to expect the flunkees will be ordered to turn in their tools, it's encouraging to note that they can hit the books a little harder and have another go at earning their patches. (Not to mention their pay.)

This opens up a whole new world for frustrated consumers. If automobile mechanics can go back to school, how about the rest of those repairmen who have us in their clutches? I can name dozens at the drop of a screw driver.

There was the electrician who put in two light switches upside down . . . the plumber who stopped the leak in the kitchen sink by reducing the faucet pressure to a trickle . . . the TV man who thinks it's normal for all news commentators to have pointy heads (and his name isn't George Wallace, either).

And ESPECIALLY that clown who tinkered with the washing machine, announced the motor would "last as long as you will, lady," and then scribbled on the service sheet to his boss: "Needs a major overhaul."

He won't get in this house again without a patch. And maybe even a poke in the eye.

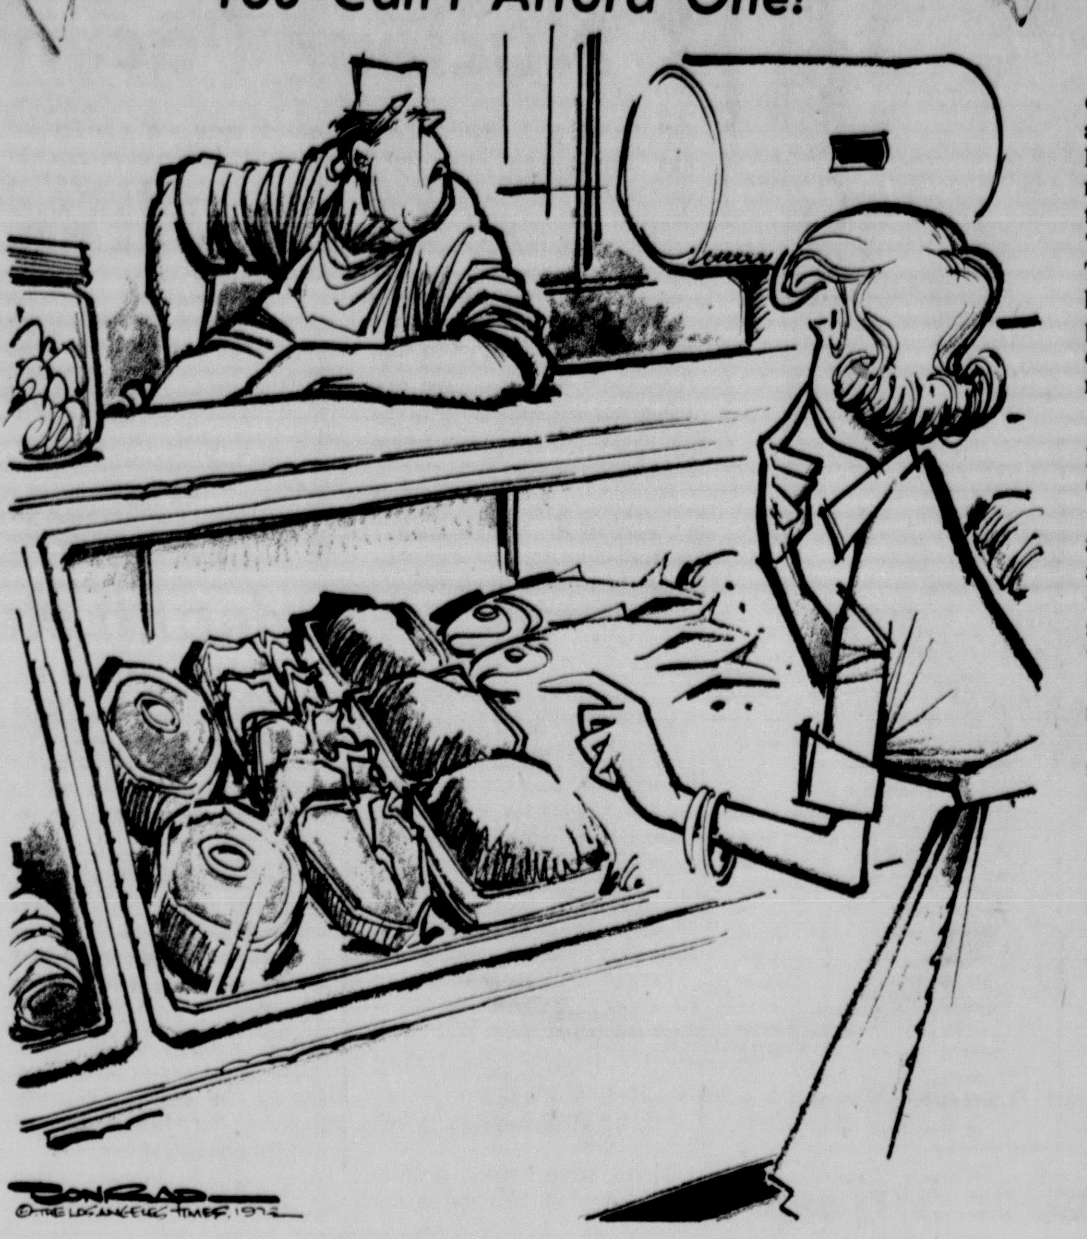
'If You Have To Ask How Much, You Can't Afford One!'



A Favorable Response

The latest Harris poll regarding President Nixon's popularity shows that Americans are very easy to please.

He commands a 59-39% favorable rating despite what Harris sees as "growing doubts about his performance in domestic matters." On the domestic issues, Nixon receives negative responses on his handling of relations with Congress, air and water pollution controls, federal spending, keeping the economy healthy, devaluing the dollar and keeping down the cost of living. Most people, according to the poll, don't think the President handles those things very well.

And then there is the Watergate matter, which apparently was not reflected in this poll. People apparently are not decided about the extent of the President's personal involvement, although it would appear that at the very least he is presiding over a group of liars at the White House.

But in spite of all those negative responses, Nixon gets a favorable reaction over all. People are impressed by his foreign policy accomplishments. They like his handling of U.S. relations with Russia and China and the fact that he brought the U.S. phase of the Vietnam war to a close and the prisoners of war home. Although it isn't clear that he got the prisoners home any faster than someone else might have.

Harris thinks that Nixon is going through a crucial period. He has been able to generate approval, Harris says, "by dint of the good feelings from the end of U.S. involvement in the war. Some form of arms limitation agreement coming out of the latest round of talks or maybe some spectacular announcement at the time Party Secretary Brezhnev comes to the United States might solidify Nixon's popularity rating, even though there may be no improvement in the domestic area.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on the value of vitamin E for treating heart trouble? A well-meaning neighbor quotes nutritional books claiming that vitamin E can heal scar tissue and repair a damaged heart in time. My doctor says that buying vitamin E is a waste of money and no one has ever offered proof that it is of value to the human system. — H.P.

I fairly well agree with your doctor except for one point. Vitamin E does have its uses — but it is so prevalent in so many foods that I simply never have heard of anyone lacking enough of it from his regular foods.

As to vitamin E supplements "healing scar tissue" and so on, no. It's a fad.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a craving for seeds — apple seeds and sunflower seeds. What value are they, if any, other than protein? Are they fattening? — Mrs. J.C.

The husks, of course, are principally fiber. Of the digestible portion, sunflower seeds run 24 per cent protein, 47 per cent fat and 20 per cent carbohydrate, rich in minerals and having some vitamins A and B. Apple seeds run in similar proportions.

Fattening? Anything with that much protein, fat and carbohydrate is fattening if you eat enough of it.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Future Needs Radial

Lincoln, Neb.

I probably will not be living in the year 1985 when the Northeast Radial is completed. Even so, I would have little use for it. Nonetheless, I am compelled to speak out for a plan developed by people endowed with foresight and civic pride.

People located in the path of the radial prior to 1967 are justified in their concern for personal tranquility, and for possible economic loss. Having been somewhat in their position, I can sympathize with them. Condemnation of private property for public domain is never pleasant to the victims. If the human element in acquisition of land is ignored by the city, or by the university, the citizenry should take steps to rectify this.

Less sympathy can be extended to those who acquired property since 1967 along the radial's route. The advent of this throughway has been heralded loudly since that year. As for Fremont Street, it has been a street car, bus, highway, and local traffic way for more than 60 years. No one has the privilege of believing it would not remain one of Lincoln's main traffic arteries.

Opposition persons who deserve the least respect from civic-minded citizens, are those who use the Southeast Radial. It also was paid for from tax dollars. Much of the cost came from the pockets of those not benefiting directly from it. It is mighty myopic to oppose the orderly development of one's own city on the basis of personal benefit. This statement applies doubly to candidates for the City Council, which is supposed to represent all of the people, present and future. Opposition by southside candidates points up the need for electing candidates at large. Their opposition illustrates how self-centered and neighborhood-oriented natural man is.

Unfortunately, future generations of people who will need access to the governmental and educational heart of the city will not get to vote on the Northeast Radial issue.

Fun On The Farm

Lincoln, Neb.

Mike, the gentle big shepherd's bark was of alarm. Looking out the back door, he stood, stiff-legged, barking at the farmer in the feedlot, throwing mudballs at Mike. I called him. As if with a shrug of his shoulders, he trotted across the lawn into the house.

Pausing there, a herd of cattle galloped from a back pasture, through the driveway and across the road into a higher and drier, second field. One frisky calf took off down the road. One of the farmers took off after it. The faster he ran, the faster the calf led the race. Suddenly the man stopped, threw up his arms, started back to the herd. Like a mischievous child the calf stopped as if disappointed the fun was over, and came loping back after the man, then with one more try for attention dodged behind the long, swinging gate. It took two husky men to drag it back out and smack it into the pasture, where its worried mother came trotting up to nuzzle her precious child.

Back to watching TV, saw Ajax curled into a ball of white, long-haired fur. Believe it or not, he was softly snoring. As if his dream was over, he rose, arched his back in a pleasing stretch, opened his pink mouth in a cavernous yawn, showing his sharp, white teeth. It was a delightful expression of luxurious contentment. And just think, Ajax has nine lives to enjoy it all.

Boycott Hysteria

Wymore, Neb.

I've been wondering: Do meat boycotters wear shoes and clothes, and live in houses, and have TV sets and cars, etc. etc.? I haven't heard that stores and businesses are giving these things away.

Do they boycott medicine when they are ill? It would seem more sensible to protect their health with good food and balanced diets, and find more useful ways to spend their time and energy.

Mass hysteria doesn't make sense or cents.

Fairbury, Neb.

Your story about Mrs. Weaver points up popular thinking. I don't know Mr. Weaver's salary, but a senior systems engineer in computers has to be at least $12,000 a year.

Mrs. Weaver says she spends about $1,800 for food. That is 15% of his salary. $10,000 will pay a lot of taxes, housing, necessities and non-essentials.

Mrs. Weaver can, perhaps, "do without beef." Can she not do without some of the "work saving" equipment, modern conveniences, items for "better living," and even luxuries that I am sure she has in her home?

On Voting

Lincoln, Neb.

Our class has noticed that not all the people in Lincoln are voting in the elections.

It seems that they are not voting because they don't know who some of the people are.

Here are some of our suggestions on ways people can find out about candidates.

(1) Read the newspaper.

(2) Have candidates speak on TV and radio on different nights.

(3) Go to the candidates' meetings.

(4) Read pahphlets about the candidates.

We hope some of these suggestions will be useful to everyone, especially in the coming election on May 1.

Sharp Drop In Enrollment Seen After '78

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Higher Education Facilities Commission Monday said that 12th-grade enrollment in Nebraska high schools will remain fairly stable through 1978, but will plummet after that at a rate averaging 1,000 fewer students per year

"The postsecondary institutions in the state are to be faced with a very, very critical entrance situation starting in 1979," said Michael Winterhalter, commission executive director.

The enrollment projections are contained in a report which pictures 12th-grade enrollments in Nebraska's public and private schools through 1982.

The report is the first of four reports to be issued by the commission during the next few days.

Percentage Drops

Winterhalter said a subsequent analysis will show that in the fall of 1972 only 39% of the preceding June's graduating class enrolled in traditional two- and four-year institutions of higher education in the state.

That percentage, he said, "is the lowest since we started the reports" in 1963.

In the fall of 1969, he said, 49% of the state's June high school graduates enrolled in traditional post-secondary schools.

The outlook, unless unforeseeable events alter Nebraska's population trends, is 'not encouraging'' for postsecondary institutions, said Winterhalter.

Reports Shared

Winterhalter said all four reports will be shared with state officials and the Legislature in hopes the information may provide the state with objective information on which to base higher education policy decisions.

He said he had hoped that some type of coordinating agency would be in existence by July, when the Higher Education Facilities Commission is scheduled for dissolution, to carry on the enrollment projection reports.

"I'm afraid everything will drop June 30," he said, if his federally funded commission is dissolved and no other agency takes its place.

He said Congress, however, may continue to fund the facilities commissions in the 50 states by continuing resolution.

Continuing Decline

The report Winterhalter issued Monday shows that although there will be some ups and downs in 12th-grade enrollments through 1978, the following four years show a continuing decline.

The reason, he said, is largely the declining birthrate in a state which has a fairly stable population.

"The moderate increase in births from 1953 to 1961 is the major factor affecting the moderate increase in enrollment through 1978," said the report, "while the rapid decrease in births after 1961 will have a very significant effect on potential college enrollment in 1979."

"The importance of projecting an accurate 12th-grade enrollment within the state lies in the fact that this population provides the major entrances into our postsecondary state institutions."

More In East

A continuing trend twoard rural-urban migration in the state will also concentrate more of the state's high school graduates in eastern Nebraska population centers, the report indicates.

From 1970 to 1972, only 48 of the state's 93 counties experienced any senior class enrollment increases and only three — Lancaster, Douglas and Sarpy — increased by more than 100.

The report indicates that by 1977 only Howard County will join the three eastern Nebraska counties in experiencing a senior class enrollment increase of more than 100 during the previous five years.

Winterhalter said he could not explain why Howard County, located in central Nebraska, appears in line for major 12th-grade enrollment growth.

Plumber Finds Success at 47 Through Steam Bath Invention

By ROBERT PETERSON

Many hard-pressed breadwinners toiling in routine jobs have stopped believing in big money, Yet there are scores of simple ideas floating around which need only be seized with faith and cultivated by hard work to create thriving new industries.

The other day I stumbled onto the remarkable success story of David Altman who came to this country from Lithuania at 15. Due to a language barrier and lack of money he wasn't able to complete high school. Instead, he went to work for his uncle, a plumber.

A few years later he married, started making payments on a home, and proceeded to father four sons—all born during the depression. With limited education, and with large family expenses devouring most of his income, Altman would have been the first to laugh at any prediction he'd someday be president of a thriving manufacturing concern with offices on New York's Park Avenue.

The great idea which was to change his circumstances came when he was 47 years old. He was making plumbing repairs at a Turkish bath and a patron asked if it would be possible for the shower stall in his apartment to be equipped with a controlled steam device so he could take steam baths at home. Altman proceeded to devise a gas-burning boiler, with assortd controls, which cost several thousand dollars to build and install.

He found himself thinking that if a rich man would gladly spend thousands to enjoy steam baths at home, there must be many people of lesser means who would buy an inexpensive, compact device which would permit any enclosed tub or shower stall in an average home to double as a steam room.

In 1958, Altman and his eldest son began spending evenings and weekends developing a compact, electrical generator for creating hot steam quickly with full thermostatic controls and meeting all safety and building codes.

By 1961 they had worked the bugs out of their invention, applied for a patent under the name Thermasol, and with an average price tag well under $500, began offereing their product to the public.

Orders began flowing in from businessmen who wanted a daily steam bath at home to help them relax, from folks with sinus and neuralgic problems, from older people seeking relief from muscular and arthritic pains, and from owners of apartments, hotels and motels who found that private steam baths were an additional luxury they could offer patrons.

When I talked with Altman, I asked how it felt to be head of a corporation which, with little competition, more than 600 distributors around the nation, and sales in the millions — seems to have an extremely promising future.

"It's thrilling," he said thoughtfully. "What has happened to me is proof that America is still the great land of opportunity and that being past 40 doesn't necessarily kill your chances."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

"Would you tell me who provided you with encouragement in your astrological career — I mean celebrities?" — Ralph Randall, Santa Monica, Calif. Answer: Many persons sparked my enthusiasm and made me feel the pursuit of truth in this area was worth the barbs and occasional ridicule. Among celebrities, an unlikely trio comes to mind: Henry Miller, Aldous Huxley and Jayne Mansfield.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on creative urge, ability to express yourself, intensified relations with opposite sex. Obviously, nothing occurs halfway — it now is all or nothing. Know it and prepare accordingly. Money situation improves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Basic issues dominate. Finish what you start. Speak in frank, meaningful manner. Means don't beat around bush. Say what you mean — mean what you say. Aries person figures prominently. Review resources.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emphasis is on dealings with relatives, short trips, visits ideas which can be developed into valid concepts. Bring forth creative resources. Deal with Leo. Show others that you can be independent without being arrogant.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money, security, protection of property and loved ones — these are spotlighted. Your basic loyalties are magnified. You feel a need to count what you have and to cut off situations which drain assets. You will do it, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Cycle high; your judgment, intuitive intellect are on target. Strive for new contacts. Be independent in thought, action. Creative abilities are highlighted. Members of opposite sex flatter you. Keep your head.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Feeling of restriction could dominate. Be patient. You are about to receive exciting proposal. Co-operate with group, organization, special institution or hospital. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons are in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Open line of communication with one you admire. Friendship now proves to be a two-way street. If you give, you also will receive. Gemini, Virgo persons are in picture. Analyze desires and make some changes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be diplomatic in dealing with one in position of authority. Remember family obligations. Control emotions — and temper. You make significant advance if moves are planned. Taurus, Libra play prominent roles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lofty ideals could dominate. Key is to reinforce concepts with solid underpinning. Means don't take things for granted. Do your own checking. Separate fact from wishful thinking. Read reference material and apply knowledge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Delve deep. Refuse to accept the superficial. Mate, partner shares dilemma concerning finances. Lend moral support. You are on brink of exciting discovery. What was a mystery can be clarified.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Maintain low profile. Patience now is your ally. Study Capricorn message. Be self-analytical. Check with mate, partner regarding legal document. Joint effort is most likely to result in success.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): New approaches to health, work problems are necessary. Old habits, procedures leave much to be desired. Be open to wider experiences. One who depends on you also is able to aid if you so permit.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are original, independent, at times forceful and usually creative. You attract many to you who are born under Leo. October could be one of your most significant months in 1973. You are a natural pioneer, inventive and basically courageous.

ADC Bill Impact Clarified

LINCOLN, Neb (AP) — Legislators were told Monday a state decision could affect the question of whether federal funds will be available to increase welfare payments

The statement was made by State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham as he discussed with a group of senators LB235, a measure to increase Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments

The price tag on the bill has been set at $8 million, with opponents contending the state will have to pay the whole share and supporters arguing only about $3 million will be required in state money

Nebraska is considering revising its formula upon which ADC payments are based, Graham said and the timing of the decision will be important

Graham explained that if the change is made effective July 1 of the start of the new fiscal year, federal funds will be available to pick up part of the cost

However, if the decision is delayed and not made effective until Jan 1, Graham said, the state would have to pay the entire cost of the increase

Graham came to the legislature at the request of Sen Glenn Goodrich of Omaha, who asked that Graham be present to answer queries from confused senators

Bill To Speed Immunization Moved Ahead

LINCOLN, Neb (AP) — A bill to speed up the immunization of public school children in Nebraska was moved off general file on a 26-0 vote in the legislature Monday

A measure passed earlier as LB173 requires immunization of school children underage 12 against measles, rubella, poliomyeltis, diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus, but sets a deadline of Sept 1 1974, for the immunizations

The bill advanced Monday LB546, removes the Sept 1, 1974 deadline and has the effect of initiating the immunization program earlier

Sen Richard Maresh of Milligan whose Public Health Committee sponsored the bill, said federal funds to underwrite the immunizations are available now but the health department fears they may not be available later

Coordination Of Education Bills Held Over

The Legislature's Education Committee Monday voted to hold over for a year two bills (LB427 and LB495) providing for coordination of higher education

The action came at the suggestion of Sen Jerome Warner of Waverly who reported that most likely no federal funds will be made available to states that comply with the federal government's wishes for higher education coordinating bodies at the state levels

The committee agreed that if developments on the federal scene change the outlook for funds the bills could be resurrected

The committee also tentatively scheduled action on five state aid to education bills for Tuesday

Catastrophic Illness Bill Is Advanced

A bill to provide emergency assistance to families with children faced with "catastrophic problems," such as prolonged and costly illnesses, was given first round floor approval in the Legislature Monday

Bellwood Sen Loran Schmit's LB477 would enable the state to match county welfare funds for emergency assistance benefits It received 25-3 approval on general file

Schmit said the bill would provide emergency funds for those persons not eligible for welfare but who could become welfare recipients if someone did not provide financial assistance

POSTCARD

by

Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — Up at rosy dawn. It is my turn to take the moppets to school. I said: "All hands on deck, d'ye hear the news?"

They got up, groaning and sullen. Padded into the bathroom.

I put the coffee on. From the other room I could hear: "That's my soap! Let it alone!" Slap! "Daddy! He's pulling my hair! You little beast, I'll kill you!"

I said: "Hurry up and get dressed!"

The day has begun.

* * *

In the brisk morning the airline stewardesses are on their way to work. Freshly pressed. Hair protected by scarfs. Overnight bags in hand.

We live in stewardess territory — the apartment complex across the way is known as "the stew zoo."

A bunch of stewardesses in Washington have gone Women's Lib. Fighting for a different image.

"We're the brunt of jokes," said the head Libber.

She said the airlines have made them sex objects by putting them in leggy uniforms. Making a big thing of personal looks.

She said: "And then there are the pilots. The largest profession of male chauvinist pigs around.

"Morning, ladies and gentlemen. This is the captain speaking."

Shut up, pig. Oink.

* * *

By rising early, I get first whacks at the morning paper. The body count on family breadwinners popped off by irritated housewives.

"Police said she became angry when her husband criticized the cooking."

("What? TV dinners again?" And Madam reaches for the loaded Lady-from-Bristol. Bang!)

I said: "Will you kids hurry?"

They said: "We are hurrying. Can we buy some turtles today?"

* * *

The flying Libber said: "We are looked on as flying drones put aboard to serve men."

The first stewardesses were not sex objects. They were all nurses, R.N. Licensed to give you an aspirin or set your leg at 10,000 feet — which was as high as the flying machine would go.

Airplanes were dicey things. You never knew when a nurse would come in handy. I interviewed some of them after near misses.

"The passengers remained calm and collected throughout the ordeal."

I don't know whether they really said that. More than likely we made it up.

* * *

The moppets came in and began shoveling in the cereal. They said: "Why are your eyes red?"

I said: "Yes they are."

I went in the bathroom and looked. Pink maybe. Not red. What a way to start the day.

* * *

The stewardesses say the push to make them sexy is bad for air safety.

"When we give the talk about how to use the oxygen mask, most of the men are not looking at the demonstration. They are looking at our legs."

I said to the children: "Let's go."

We passed a couple of flying sex objects at the corner. I flashed them the spread finger peace sign. Peace in Vietnam. But the War Between the Sexes goes on forever.

Planes Counted

Washington — In 1972 the U.S. general aviation fleet totaled more than 131,000 craft, compared with only 2,700 flown by airlines. General aviation planes spent about 26 million hours aloft in 1971, compared with 6.4 million hours for scheduled aircraft.

San Francisco — Up at rosy dawn. It is my turn to take the moppets to school. I said: "All hands on deck, d'ye hear the news?"

They got up, groaning and sullen. Padded into the bathroom.

I put the coffee on. From the other room I could hear: "That's my soap! Let it alone!" Slap! "Daddy! He's pulling my hair! You little beast, I'll kill you!"

I said: "Hurry up and get dressed!"

The day has begun.

In the brisk morning the airline stewardesses are on their way to work. Freshly pressed. Hair protected by scarfs. Overnight bags in hand.

We live in stewardess territory — the apartment complex across the way is known as "the stew zoo."

A bunch of stewardesses in Washington have gone Women's Lib. Fighting for a different image.

"We're the brunt of jokes," said the head Libber.

She said the airlines have made them sex objects by putting them in leggy uniforms. Making a big thing of personal looks.

She said: "And then there are the pilots. The largest profession of male chauvinist pigs around.

"Morning, ladies and gentlemen. This is the captain speaking."

Shut up, pig. Oink.

☆ ☆ ☆

By rising early, I get first whacks at the morning paper. The body count on family breadwinners popped off by irritated housewives.

"Police said she became angry when her husband criticized the cooking."

("What? TV dinners again?" And Madam reaches for the loaded Lady-from-Bristol. Bang!)

I said: "Will you kids hurry?"

They said: "We are hurrying. Can we buy some turtles today?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The flying Libber said: "We are looked on as flying drones put aboard to serve men."

The first stewardesses were not sex objects. They were all nurses, R.N. Licensed to give you an aspirin or set your leg at 10,000 feet — which was as high as the flying machine would go.

Airplanes were dicey things. You never knew when a nurse would come in handy. I interviewed some of them after near misses.

"The passengers remained calm and collected throughout the ordeal."

I don't know whether they really said that. More than likely we made it up.

☆ ☆ ☆

The moppets came in and began shoveling in the cereal. They said: "Why are your eyes red?"

I said: "Yes they are."

I went in the bathroom and looked. Pink maybe. Not red. What a way to start the day.

☆ ☆ ☆

The stewardesses say the push to make them sexy is bad for air safety.

"When we give the talk about how to use the oxygen mask, most of the men are not looking at the demonstration. They are looking at our legs."

I said to the children: "Let's go."

We passed a couple of flying sex objects at the corner. I flashed them the spread finger peace sign. Peace in Vietnam. But the War Between the Sexes goes on forever.

Daily Beef Production Cut 1.8 Million Pounds

Inclement weather, horrible feedlot conditions and resultant poor feed conversion have added up to an estimated loss of more than 1.8 million fewer pounds of beef produced per day in Nebraska in recent weeks than under normal weather conditions.

The estimate was contained in the newsletter, Cornhusker Economics, released this week by University of Nebraska Extension economists.

In the report, Dr. P. A. Henderson noted that although the number of cattle on feed in Nebraska Jan. 1 was 4% higher than a year ago, average daily gains in feedlots were 1.18 pounds below average. An aggregate loss of 1,865,580 pounds of beef "manufactured" daily in feedlots was computed using "normal" prices and weather, 1973 cattle and feed prices and normal weather and 1973 or "actual" prices and weather.

Daily rate of gain this year was set at 1.68 pounds per head per day on yearling steers being fed to slaughter weight of 1,100 pounds, compared to normal of 2.86 pounds per day. In addition, death losses have been much higher this year, the figures show — in some cases as high as 10%, compared to normal expectations of 1% to 3%.

"To make matters worse," Henderson pointed out, "a much higher proportion of death losses have occurred late in the feeding period — after a substantial portion of the total feeding costs have been incurred."

Basis Explained

The analysis included costs which might be experienced by farmer-feeders having 200-300 head on feed at a time. Costs figures are based on past records of feeding costs, labor requirements and other inputs, and the actual experience of one eastern Nebraska cattle feeder this year. (Henderson said costs experienced by large commercial lots might be less than those shown because of direct selling, smaller labor inputs on a per-head basis, and slightly more favorable interest rates.)

Rising feed costs and the greater amount of feed required to fatten steers this winter and spring are reflected in estimates of $76.25 feed cost per animal under normal prices and weather conditions, $99.40 under 1973 prices but assuming normal weather patterns, compared to a whopping $130 under 1973 actual conditions.

Other costs which have increased this year, largely due to the lengthened feeding period to achieve market weight, include variable power and machinery costs, labor costs, interest on both the steers and on operating expenses, and fixed costs on facilities.

A whopping estimated cost per one hundred weight of gain of $48.53 during the current feeding period compares to $29.05 under normal prices and weather and $34 94 under the hypothetical situation of 1973 prices and normal weather.

Total costs of putting the steer on the market are set at $509.12 under present conditions, compared to $454.77 under current prices but given normal weather conditions, and $431.19 for normal prices and weather.

NU economists have concluded that the "breakeven price" required for finished steers would be $39.20 per hundredweight under normal-prices-weather, $41.34 under 1973 prices-normal weather, but $46.28 under prevailing 1973 prices and weather.

However, the report pointed out, the average January-February 1973 price of choice 1,100- to 1,300-pound steers on the Omaha market was $41.42, nearly $5 per hundredweight below the breakeven figure.

'Conservative Estimates'

In commenting on the figures, Henderson noted: "Costs (1973 actual conditions) are believed to be conservative estimates of those actually experienced by many feeders because conditions in the lot used as a basis for making adjustments are considerably better than in many, many lots.

"But even on the basis of costs shown, it is apparent that farmer-feeders did not experience exorbitant profits this winter. In fact, it wasn't until cattle got up to the $45 level that farmer-feeders were able to break even."

Henderson emphasized that the weekly average price of choice slaughter steers did not reach the cost of production level until the week of March 17-24, meaning that during adverse feedlot conditions in January and February, prices received for steers fell well below production costs.

A longer term effect of the slower turnover of cattle on feed means that property taxes assessed against animals on hand Jan. 1 must be averaged out over fewer animals during the year, Henderson analyzed. "Likewise, the fixed costs on lots and equipment must be borne by fewer animals," he added.

Nebraska Farmers Got Some Field Work Done Before Snow

Before the weekend snow arrived, many farmers were able to get some field work done last week, the weekly crop-weather report of the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics said Monday.

Field work consisted of harvesting some remaining crops in the fields, stalk shredding, plowing, discing, fertilizer spreading, and manure hauling, the bureau stated.

"There has been limited seeding of sugar beets and small grains," the report said.

Winter wheat condition remains above average, the ag experts noted.

Other comments

Grain sorghum harvest is now about 95% complete and corn 98% complete. Much of the grain sorghum harvested or to be harvested this spring is of low quality

There was limited marketing of livestock during the past week because of market uncertainties resulting from the boycott of meat

Many feedlots remain in bad condition, but there was improvement during the week with some lots drying up before the weekend snow. Some cattle have been moved from muddy feedlots to stalk fields until lots dry.

Scours continue to be a problem with young calves. Weather has been difficult for most young livestock. However, death loss of newborn calves is reported near normal.

Moisture received throughout the state during the past week included·

Farmers Both Getting, Paying Record Prices

Statistics published by the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics indicate that while farmers have been receiving record-high prices recently, they have also been paying record-high prices for many months for machinery, fuel, fertilizer, feed and livestock

The Agriculture Department index of prices paid by farmers indicates that farmers are paying about 4 7 times more for items they buy than they were paying in 1910-1914. Comparatively, farmers are receiving only four times as much for what they sell

In the last five years new record or equal to record high prices were paid by farmers for 55 out of the 60 months

In the same five-year period, only 11 months saw record-high prices for products sold by farmers and all of those 11 months were in the last year

In March 1973 meat animals (cattle, hogs, sheep, lambs and chickens combined) averaged nearly seven times the 1910-1914 average prices

Farm real estate taxes increased more than 14 times during the same period and farm wages more than 12 times

Solons To Join Walk For Development

Three state senators said Monday they'll join the Lincoln Walk for Development Saturday and challenged other state officials to do the same.

Also announced Monday as among the expected 2,000 walkers were three gymnasts from the University of Nebraska who say they'll walk on their hands, taking turns, for at least one of the 19 miles.

At the State Capitol announcements, State Sen John De Camp demonstrated that he could walk on his hands, too But he didn't promise a mile of it for Saturday. The other state senators are to be Steve Fowler of Lincoln and Frank Lewis of Bellevue.

Joining Sen. DeCamp in the demonstration was Dan Montez, a UNL sophomore from Omaha.

The walkers will "earn" from their sponsors an amount agreed for each mile walked, and the money will be split between local and foreign charities and the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation

Public relations chairman for the walk, Harry Baumert, said the walkers hope to raise $30,000 this year, compared to $25,000 last year.

He said 8,000 peanut butter and jelly sandwiches would be served to the hikers by Women in Community Services, and that the Marine Corps Reserves will operate two trucks to pick up walkers who drop out a various checkpoints along the route.

Ag School Tops 'With Funds Available'

"With the available financial resources, we couldn't have a much better College of Agriculture than we have now. It is in the interest of preserving and assuring for the future what we have worked so hard over so many years to attain, that we think reorganization is needed," said William Krejci here Monday

Krejci delivered a status report on the College of Agriculture and College of Home Economics of the University of Nebraska at the Dean's Advisory Council meeting.

The report capsulized the impetus behind LB149 (the NU College of Agriculture reorganization bill) and Krejci added, "we expect the bill to pass and the proposed reorganization to take place. And we believe it will be very good for agriculture."

The Legislature's Agriculture Committee adopted a compromise Wednesday on LB149 calling for a vice chancellor for the Ag College, and sent the bill to the floor

Krejci said, "We are not asking for any new positions in the reorganization — simply a conversion of the position of dean to vice chancellor and an upgrading of the positions of the three directors."

Krejci, An Exeter livestock feeder and chairman of the council, cited activities in support of strengthening the position of agriculture at NU, stemming from a concern to maintain the high quality of the present College of Agriculture and the triad of resident instruction, Extension and the experiment station.

Krejci said, "We have a fine, well-motivated staff in the College of Agriculture, including the staff at Lincoln, at the outlying stations and in the county (Extension) offices."

He described "the bringing in of outstanding administrators and good staff sincerely interested in agricutlure" as "the hallmark" of Dr E F. Frolik's tenure as dean. Krejci also credited Dean Frolik with playing an important role in securing both the former Nebraska Ordinance Depot at Mead and the Naval Ammunition Depot near Clay Center for establishment of the present NU Field Laboratory and the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, respectively.

Krejci expressed a need to regain a more direct contact between the college dean and the president and the Board of Regents, which NU experienced prior to evolvement of more complex and extensive administrative structure. He expressed appreciation for good support for agriculture from President Varner and Chancellor Zumberge.

To substantiate the college's merits for reorganization, Krejci outlined numerous accomplishments in recent years.

The wheat breeding program and its contribution to an international cooperative effort; development of an effective claf scours vaccine by NU veterinary scientists; the livestock and irrigation development programs; strengthening of the NU School for Technical Agriculture at Curtis.

Also noted was the new U S forestry facilities now under construction on campus; greater service to stockmen through the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory at North Platte, research in animal waste management in which Nebraska is a leader, and development of integrated Extension-research programs in five districts covering the state The most recent research facilities to be acquired are the High Plains Agricultural Laboratory near Sidney, a satellite of the Scotts Bluff Station, and the Sandhills Laboratory near Tryon, under the North Platte Station

In the College of Home Economics, Krejci praised the research work of Dr. Hazel Fox, Dr. Constance Kies and their colleagues in the department of foods and nutrition

"One of the biggest accomplishments in the past decade has been the closer relationship developed between the College of Agriculture and the people. We have always had it through the county Extension agents, but today people feel much closer to the outlying stations and district officers, and the college at Lincoln than ever before," Krejci said.

Kreuscher Says Prices For Food Won't Go Down

Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher said Monday that "consumers are kidding themselves if they think food prices will go down."

Kreuscher said "food will never be as cheap again as it is today.

Kreuscher said one of the "main problems" with last week's meat boycott is that "consumers aren't aware of the high beef production costs," and said they need to be informed of them.

Omaha Has 3rd Slaying

. . . In Four Days

Omaha (AP) — Omaha recorded its third homicide in four days early Sunday when a 34-year-old man was killed in an incident in a restaurant.

Roy C. Carr was dead on arrival at a hospital following the shooting. Authorities said he reportedly had stepped between two women arguing in a North Omaha restaurant

Witnesses said Carr and several friends were eating at Roseboro Chicken Supreme when two women began arguing at the counter. They said one of the women went outside and returned minutes later with a handgun.

Witnesses told police Carr stood up and tried to talk to the women, the gun went off and Carr was struck in the chest

Officers said 45-year-old Annie Bell Harris was booked on suspicion of homicide.

Investigation continued into the slaying of 19-year-old Pauline Moten, who was found stabbed to death in her apartment. Detectives said they had questioned "a number of people "

James Hanry, executive director of the Omaha Housing Authority, said records showed Miss Moten's door latch had been repaired March 12th, the same day she filed a complaint.

Neighbors had said the mother of two had complained last week about her door not locking.

Miss Moten's death came two days after the fatal stabbing of 29-year-old Thomas Hutcherson. Witnesses said Hutcherson was killed during a fight with another man over a toaster and television set

Skutt, Wife Threatened By Gunman

Omaha (AP) — A 71-year-old Omaha insurance executive and his wife were held hostage by a gunman for about half an hour Sunday before the man fled empty-handed

The man wielded a 12 gauge shotgun and demanded "$10,000 right now" from V. J. Skutt. He is board chairman and chief executive officer of Mutual of Omaha.

Neither Skutt nor his wife, Angela, was hurt

Mrs Skutt said they had just returned from a business trip and her husband was making trips to an attached garage to bring in luggage and boxes when the gunman appeared.

Mrs Skutt said the gunman told them some 20 times that he needed $10,000 Skutt said he offered the man $29 — the only money he had in his wallet, but the gunman declined saying he wanted $10,000.

The man finally left after seeing lights of a car outside.

Mrs. Skutt said the gunman threatened to keep them hostage all night until Skutt could go to a bank and get the money Monday morning. However, seeing car lights apparently changed his mind

Daily Beef Production Cut 1.8 Million Pounds

Inclement weather, horrible feedlot conditions and resultant poor feed conversion have added up to an estimated loss of more than 1.8 million fewer pounds of beef produced per day in Nebraska in recent weeks than under normal weather conditions.

The estimate was contained in the newsletter, Cornhusker Economics, released this week by University of Nebraska Extension economists.

In the report, Dr. P. A. Henderson noted that although the number of cattle on feed in Nebraska Jan. 1 was 4% higher than a year ago, average daily gains in feedlots were 1.18 pounds below average. An aggregate loss of 1,865,580 pounds of beef "manufactured" daily in feedlots was computed using "normal" prices and weather, 1973 cattle and feed prices and normal weather and 1973 or "actual" prices and weather.

Daily rate of gain this year was set at 1.68 pounds per head per day on yearling steers being fed to slaughter weight of 1,100 pounds, compared to normal of 2.86 pounds per day. In addition, death losses have been much higher this year, the figures show — in some cases as high as 10%, compared to normal expectations of 1% to 3%.

"To make matters worse," Henderson pointed out, "a much higher proportion of death losses have occurred late in the feeding period — after a substantial portion of the total feeding costs have been incurred."

Basis Explained

The analysis included costs which might be experienced by farmer-feeders having 200-300 head on feed at a time. Costs figures are based on past records of feeding costs, labor requirements and other inputs, and the actual experience of one eastern Nebraska cattle feeder this year. (Henderson said costs experienced by large commercial lots might be less than those shown because of direct selling, smaller labor inputs on a per-head basis, and slightly more favorable interest rates.)

Rising feed costs and the greater amount of feed required to fatten steers this winter and spring are reflected in estimates of $76.25 feed cost per animal under normal prices and weather conditions, $99.40 under 1973 prices but assuming normal weather patterns, compared to a whopping $130 under 1973 actual conditions.

Other costs which have increased this year, largely due to the lengthened feeding period to achieve market weight, include variable power and machinery costs, labor costs, interest on both the steers and on operating expenses, and fixed costs on facilities.

A whopping estimated cost per one hundred weight of gain of $48.53 during the current feeding period compares to $29.05 under normal prices and weather and $34.94 under the hypothetical situation of 1973 prices and normal weather.

Total costs of putting the steer on the market are set at $509.12 under present conditions, compared to $454.77 under current prices but given normal weather conditions, and $431.19 for normal prices and weather.

NU economists have concluded that the "breakeven price" required for finished steers would be $39.20 per hundredweight under normal-prices-weather, $41.34 under 1973 prices-normal weather, but $46.28 under prevailing 1973 prices and weather.

However, the report pointed out, the average January-February 1973 price of choice 1,100- to 1,300-pound steers on the Omaha market was $41.42, nearly $5 per hundredweight below the breakeven figure.

'Conservative Estimates'

In commenting on the figures, Henderson noted: "Costs (1973 actual conditions) are believed to be conservative estimates of those actually experienced by many feeders because conditions in the lot used as a basis for making adjustments are considerably better than in many, many lots.

"But even on the basis of costs shown, it is apparent that farmer-feeders did not experience exorbitant profits this winter. In fact, it wasn't until cattle got up to the $45 level that farmer-feeders were able to break even."

Henderson emphasized that the weekly average price of choice slaughter steers did not reach the cost of production level until the week of March 17-24, meaning that during adverse feedlot conditions in January and February, prices received for steers fell well below production costs.

A longer term effect of the slower turnover of cattle on feed means that property taxes assessed against animals on hand Jan. 1 must be averaged out over fewer animals during the year, Henderson analyzed. "Likewise, the fixed costs on lots and equipment must be borne by fewer animals," he added.

Nebraska Farmers Got Some Field Work Done Before Snow

Before the weekend snow arrived, many farmers were able to get some field work done last week, the weekly crop-weather report of the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics said Monday.

Field work consisted of harvesting some remaining crops in the fields, stalk shredding, plowing, discing, fertilizer spreading, and manure hauling, the bureau stated.

"There has been limited seeding of sugar beets and small grains," the report said.

Winter wheat condition remains above average, the ag experts noted.

Other comments:

Grain sorghum harvest is now about 95% complete and corn 98% complete. Much of the grain sorghum harvested or to be harvested this spring is of low quality.

There was limited marketing of livestock during the past week because of market uncertainties resulting from the boycott of meat.

Many feedlots remain in bad condition, but there was improvement during the week with some lots drying up before the weekend snow. Some cattle have been moved from muddy feedlots to stalk fields until lots dry.

Scours continue to be a problem with young calves. Weather has been difficult for most young livestock. However, death loss of newborn calves is reported near normal.

Moisture received throughout the state during the past week included:

Farmers Both Getting, Paying Record Prices

Statistics published by the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics indicate that while farmers have been receiving record-high prices recently, they have also been paying record-high prices for many months for machinery, fuel, fertilizer, feed and livestock.

The Agriculture Department index of prices paid by farmers indicates that farmers are paying about 4.7 times more for items they buy than they were paying in 1910-1914. Comparatively, farmers are receiving only four times as much for what they sell.

In the last five years new record or equal to record high prices were paid by farmers for 55 out of the 60 months.

In the same five-year period, only 11 months saw record-high prices for products sold by farmers and all of those 11 months were in the last year.

In March 1973 meat animals (cattle, hogs, sheep, lambs and chickens combined) averaged nearly seven times the 1910-1914 average prices.

Farm real estate taxes increased more than 14 times during the same period and farm wages more than 12 times.

Solons To Join Walk For Development

Three state senators said Monday they'll join the Lincoln Walk for Development Saturday and challenged other state officials to do the same.

Also announced Monday as among the expected 2,000 walkers were three gymnasts from the University of Nebraska who say they'll walk on their hands, taking turns, for at least one of the 19 miles.

At the State Capitol announcements, State Sen. John De Camp demonstrated that he could walk on his hands, too. But he didn't promise a mile of it for Saturday. The other state senators are to be Steve Fowler of Lincoln and Frank Lewis of Bellevue.

Joining Sen. DeCamp in the demonstration was Dan Montez, a UNL sophomore from Omaha.

The walkers will "earn" from their sponsors an amount agreed for each mile walked, and the money will be split between local and foreign charities and the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

Public relations chairman for the walk, Harry Baumert, said the walkers hope to raise $30,000 this year, compared to $25,000 last year.

He said 8,000 peanut butter and jelly sandwiches would be served to the hikers by Women in Community Services, and that the Marine Corps Reserves will operate two trucks to pick up walkers who drop out a various checkpoints along the route.

Ag School Tops 'With Funds Available'

"With the available financial resources, we couldn't have a much better College of Agriculture than we have now. It is in the interest of preserving and assuring for the future what we have worked so hard over so many years to attain, that we think reorganization is needed," said William Krejci here Monday.

Krejci delivered a status report on the College of Agriculture and College of Home Economics of the University of Nebraska at the Dean's Advisory Council meeting.

The report capsulized the impetus behind LB149 (the NU College of Agriculture reorganization bill) and Krejci added, "we expect the bill to pass and the proposed reorganization to take place. And we believe it will be very good for agriculture."

The Legislature's Agriculture Committee adopted a compromise Wednesday on LB149 calling for a vice chancellor for the Ag College, and sent the bill to the floor.

Krejci said, "We are not asking for any new positions in the reorganization — simply a conversion of the position of dean to vice chancellor and an upgrading of the positions of the three directors."

Krejci, An Exeter livestock feeder and chairman of the council, cited activities in support of strengthening the position of agriculture at NU, stemming from a concern to maintain the high quality of the present College of Agriculture and the triad of resident instruction, Extension and the experiment station.

Krejci said, "We have a fine, well-motivated staff in the College of Agriculture, including the staff at Lincoln, at the outlying stations and in the county (Extension) offices."

He described "the bringing in of outstanding administrators and good staff sincerely interested in agricutlure" as "the hallmark" of Dr. E. F. Frolik's tenure as dean. Krejci also credited Dean Frolik with playing an important role in securing both the former Nebraska Ordinance Depot at Mead and the Naval Ammunition Depot near Clay Center for establishment of the present NU Field Laboratory and the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, respectively.

Krejci expressed a need to regain a more direct contact between the college dean and the president and the Board of Regents, which NU experienced prior to evolvement of more complex and extensive administrative structure. He expressed appreciation for good support for agriculture from President Varner and Chancellor Zumberge.

To substantiate the college's merits for reorganization, Krejci outlined numerous accomplishments in recent years:

The wheat breeding program and its contribution to an international cooperative effort; development of an effective claf scours vaccine by NU veterinary scientists; the livestock and irrigation development programs; strengthening of the NU School for Technical Agriculture at Curtis.

Also noted was the new U.S. forestry facilities now under construction on campus; greater service to stockmen through the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory at North Platte; research in animal waste management in which Nebraska is a leader; and development of integrated Extension-research programs in five districts covering the state. The most recent research facilities to be acquired are the High Plains Agricultural Laboratory near Sidney, a satellite of the Scotts Bluff Station; and the Sandhills Laboratory near Tryon, under the North Platte Station.

In the College of Home Economics, Krejci praised the research work of Dr. Hazel Fox, Dr. Constance Kies and their colleagues in the department of foods and nutrition.

"One of the biggest accomplishments in the past decade has been the closer relationship developed between the College of Agriculture and the people. We have always had it through the county Extension agents, but today people feel much closer to the outlying stations and district officers, and the college at Lincoln than ever before," Krejci said.

Kreuscher Says Prices For Food Won't Go Down

Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher said Monday that "consumers are kidding themselves if they think food prices will go down."

Kreuscher said "food will never be as cheap again as it is today.

"All you have to do is look at world demand for pork," he said.

Kreuscher said one of the "main problems" with last week's meat boycott is that "consumers aren't aware of the high beef production costs," and said they need to be informed of them.

Omaha Has 3rd Slaying

. . . In Four Days

Omaha (AP) — Omaha recorded its third homicide in four days early Sunday when a 34-year-old man was killed in an incident in a restaurant.

Roy C. Carr was dead on arrival at a hospital following the shooting. Authorities said he reportedly had stepped between two women arguing in a North Omaha restaurant.

Witnesses said Carr and several friends were eating at Roseboro Chicken Supreme when two women began arguing at the counter. They said one of the women went outside and returned minutes later with a handgun.

Witnesses told police Carr stood up and tried to talk to the women, the gun went off and Carr was struck in the chest.

Officers said 45-year-old Annie Bell Harris was booked on suspicion of homicide.

Investigation continued into the slaying of 19-year-old Pauline Moten, who was found stabbed to death in her apartment. Detectives said they had questioned "a number of people."

James Hanry, executive director of the Omaha Housing Authority, said records showed Miss Moten's door latch had been repaired March 12th, the same day she filed a complaint.

Neighbors had said the mother of two had complained last week about her door not locking.

Miss Moten's death came two days after the fatal stabbing of 29-year-old Thomas Hutcherson. Witnesses said Hutcherson was killed during a fight with another man over a toaster and television set.

Skutt, Wife Threatened By Gunman

Omaha (AP) — A 71-year-old Omaha insurance executive and his wife were held hostage by a gunman for about half an hour Sunday before the man fled empty-handed.

The man wielded a 12 gauge shotgun and demanded "$10,000 right now" from V. J. Skutt. He is board chairman and chief executive officer of Mutual of Omaha.

Neither Skutt nor his wife, Angela, was hurt.

Mrs. Skutt said they had just returned from a business trip and her husband was making trips to an attached garage to bring in luggage and boxes when the gunman appeared.

Mrs. Skutt said the gunman told them some 20 times that he needed $10,000. Skutt said he offered the man $29 — the only money he had in his wallet, but the gunman declined saying he wanted $10,000.

The man finally left after seeing lights of a car outside.

Mrs. Skutt said the gunman threatened to keep them hostage all night until Skutt could go to a bank and get the money Monday morning. However, seeing car lights apparently changed his mind.

Crawford Area Left By Extra Patrolmen

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Capt. Clifford Cooper of the Grand Island office of the State Patrol said Monday the extra state patrol troopers and deputies dispatched to the Crawford area had returned to their own areas.

Trooper Charles Robertson of the Grand Island office was among those sent to the area. He said he left Grand Island Saturday evening and returned early Monday.

He said things were quiet in the area and there was no trouble he knew of. He said he did not know if he would be called back, and his duties while he was in the Crawford area included mainly patrol work.

Robertson was among approximately 30 state trooper and a like number of deputy sheriffs dispatched to the area because of unconfirmed reports another confrontation was planned at Fort Robinson by members of the American Indian Movement.

Fort Robinson was sealed off Saturday night after officers received the reports.

Russell Means Fails To Appear For Hearing

GERING, Neb. (AP)—Two persons charged in connection with Indian and Chicano demonstrations in Scottsbluff in January did not appear Monday for preliminary hearings.

Russell Means, an American Indian Movement leader, and Edgar Dowry Bear Runner were not present for preliminary hearings in Scotts Bluff County Court.

Means is charged with carrying a concealed weapon. The charge arose from an incident in which a loaded .22 caliber pistol was allegedly found in his possession in the Scottsbluff City jail.

Bear Runner is charged with two counts of resisting an officer.

Thone Against Bill Ordering Price Rollback

Nebraska's first district congressman, Charles Thone, announced his opposition to a House bill which originally was to extend the President's power to impose wage-price controls in an inflation-fighting effort.

The bill was amended by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., to order a price rollback to Jan. 10 when Phase II of the price control effort ended.

The issue is expected to come to a vote in the House Wednesday or Thursday.

"I strongly oppose the freeze of all prices at the Jan. 10 level." Thone said. "Such a mandatory program would have a most adverse effect upon the whole American economy and especially on agriculture.

"It would be catastrophic for Nebraska Livestock feeders. A rollback to Jan. 10 levels would cause financial economic and distribution distortions."

Thone predicted that "black markets and shortages will result from it. The long range effect of such a freeze would be higher prices for consumers."

Thone said Congress should extend the present price control act known as the economic stabilization act of 1971.

Thone Reports UNL To Handle $750,000 Grant

A $750,000 federal grant to be administered by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln was announced Monday by Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb.

The grant funds a national effort to find better methods of educating teachers and to encourage colleges to adopt the methods, Thone said.

The grant for the period of April 1, 1973, through Feb. 1, 1975, is for the Study Commission on Undergraduate Education and the Education of Teachers. Paul A. Olson, UNL professor of English, is director of the commission with a staff of five full-time and four part-time persons on the Lincoln campus.

A total of $1,149,429 in federal funds, including the latest grant, has been provided the commission since it was founded Aug. 1, 1971.

Crawford Area Left By Extra Patrolmen

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Capt. Clifford Cooper of the Grand Island office of the State Patrol said Monday the extra state patrol troopers and deputies dispatched to the Crawford area had returned to their own areas.

Trooper Charles Robertson of the Grand Island office was among those sent to the area. He said he left Grand Island Saturday evening and returned early Monday.

He said things were quiet in the area and there was no trouble he knew of. He said he did not know if he would be called back, and his duties while he was in the Crawford area included mainly patrol work.

Robertson was among approximately 30 state trooper and a like number of deputy sheriffs dispatched to the area because of unconfirmed reports another confrontation was planned at Fort Robinson by members of the American Indian Movement.

Fort Robinson was sealed off Saturday night after officers received the reports.

Russell Means Fails To Appear For Hearing

GERING, Neb. (AP)—Two persons charged in connection with Indian and Chicano demonstrations in Scottsbluff in January did not appear Monday for preliminary hearings.

Russell Means, an American Indian Movement leader, and Edgar Dowry Bear Runner were not present for preliminary hearings in Scotts Bluff County Court.

Means is charged with carrying a concealed weapon. The charge arose from an incident in which a loaded .22 caliber pistol was allegedly found in his possession in the Scottsbluff City jail.

Bear Runner is charged with two counts of resisting an officer.

Thone Against Bill Ordering Price Rollback

Nebraska's first district congressman, Charles Thone, announced his opposition to a House bill which originally was to extend the President's power to impose wage-price controls in an inflation-fighting effort.

The bill was amended by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., to order a price rollback to Jan. 10 when Phase II of the price control effort ended.

The issue is expected to come to a vote in the House Wednesday or Thursday.

"I strongly oppose the freeze of all prices at the Jan. 10 level," Thone said. "Such a mandatory program would have a most adverse effect upon the whole American economy and especially on agriculture.

"It would be catastrophic for Nebraska Livestock feeders. A rollback to Jan. 10 levels would cause financial economic and distribution distortions."

Thone predicted that "black markets and shortages will result from it. The long range effect of such a freeze would be higher prices for consumers."

Thone said Congress should extend the present price control act known as the economic stabilization act of 1971.

Mike Reid

Crete — Doane senior Mike Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean W. Reid of 1024 Dale Drive, is a recipient of a Fulbright Scholarship for study in Germany next school year.

Mike, a graduate of Norfolk High School, is married to the former Cristy Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelson of Denver.

The scholarship includes the complete cost of travel, books, tuition and living expenses during the year overseas. He will take a two-month language course at Goethe Institute before entering the University of Marburg in October for history studies.

Reid was a tri-captain of the Doane football team last fall and has qualified for the academic dean's list every term. He is a history major.

Colossal Cattle Firm Runoff Plans Expected

By The Associated Press

Officials of the Colossal Cattle Co. are expected to present state officials within the next week to 10 days a plan for controlling feedlot runoff at the firm's cattle feeding operation near Minatare, a state official said Monday.

The plans will include an outline of proposed construction along with a timetable, said Richard Hansen, the attorney for the State Department of Environmental Control.

The department has charged Colossal with a violation of the state's anti-water pollution regulations, claiming run-off from the company feedlots has been polluting Nine Mile Creek.

The firm last January was ordered by December to hire an engineering firm to draw up compliance plans and those plans "should be in within a week," Hansen said.

The charge against Colossal will not be dropped, however. "We plan to keep the case open until we know they're in compliance," Hansen explained.

Earlier proposals by the firm to comply with the pollution control regulations failed to comply with minimal requirements, Hansen said.

Hansen and other DEC officials will review the new set of plans by Colossal once they are submitted to determine whether they meet the requirements.

If the proposal does not meet with DEC requirements, Colossal could again be ordered to draw new plans, Hansen said.

Teacher Unions File Lawsuits

Teacher unions from Milligan and Orchard filed suits in the State Court of Industrial Relations Monday seeking settlement of labor disputes.

The suits were filed seeking court action on salaries and fringe benefit proposals for the 1973-74 school year contracts as well as for other conditions of employment.

Specifically, the suits were filed against the respective school boards by the Milligan Education Association and the Orchard Teachers Association.

MISS ELLEN DOYLE

Of very special interest to Lincoln this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Doyle of Brockton, Mass., of the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Mary, to Lawrence Anton Frolik, son of Dean and Mrs. Elvin F. Frolik.

Saturday, Aug. 25, is named as the wedding date.

Miss Doyle attended Emma Willard School at Troy, N.Y., and Wellesley College, Weslesley, Mass. She was graduated with honors from Northeastern University, at Boston, Mass., where she now is attending law school.

Mr. Frolik was graduated with distinction from the University of Nebraska, where he is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and was graduated cum laude from Harvard University School of Law from where he also received his Master's degree in law.

Kimballcrest Lincoln Heights Trendwood Wellington Greens in the suburban areas

'Tis spring, although that fact is hard to believe considering the looks and feel of the great out-of-doors.

However, spring surely has arrived — and with spring comes the thought of spring housecleaning. Of course, that is quite an insurmountable project — with windows to be washed, closets to be cleaned, and a thousand and one other tasks to be accomplished.

And the present is just as good a time as any to get all of those big and little jobs around the house taken care of — Easter guests will soon be arriving, and so will good weather, when we all will be tempted to partake of our favorite outdoor activities and let housework wait until another day.

But there are many suburban dwellers who already have entertained springtime guests in their homes, including the members of the Peter Wirtz family who reside in the Kimballcrest neighborhood.

It seems that Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz and their children — Terri Lee, Toni Marie, and Danny — recently entertained two well-seasoned travelers — Mr. Wirtz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Wirtz. Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz stopped in Lincoln for a weeklong visit enroute to their Avon, Minn., home following an extended winter vacation which took them to spots in such southern states as Florida, Arizona, Texas, and Oklhaoma.

And speaking of Easter guests, we heard that Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bockoven of Lincoln Heights will soon roll out the red carpet to welcome the return of their son, Jerry, who will arrive in Lincoln on Saturday, April 14, for his 10-day, combined Easter and spring vacation from Sioux Falls (So. Dak.) College where he is a freshman.

During his brief vacation, Jerry also will visit with several other relatives, including his sister and brothers, Janie, Johnny, and Jeffery.

Entertaining has taken a variety of forms recently. Some of the residents in suburban areas have elected to entertain their guests in their homes, while others prefer treating their special visitors to a night out on the town.

It was a happy blend of both elements when Dr. and Mrs. Edward Rack of Trendwood played host and hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Al Blockty of Omaha in the not too distant past. Mr. and Mrs. Blockty made the short drive from their Omaha home — and prior to the dinner out on the town, the visitors were honored at a small cocktail party held at the Rack home. Also on the guest list for the Saturday evening 'happenings' were Mr. and Mrs. John Shere and Mr. and Mrs. Bill R. Mowrey.

We hear news this morning from Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Baird of the Wellington Greens area, who recently returned from the warm climate of Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird departed on Thursday, March 22, when they traveled to Scottsdale, Ariz. The purpose of the trip was business and pleasure combined, since Mr. Baird attended a financial services convention but found the time to join Mrs. Baird for several games of golf.

The twosome returned to Lincoln on Wednesday, March 28.

In the Country Club Terrace area, it was Mrs. Norman Adams who recently did a bit of traveling.

The purpose behind Mrs. Adams' journey was the Regional Conference for the National Associaton of Women Highway Safety Leaders, which she attended on Friday and Staruday, March 30 and 31. The conference was held at the Missouri Safety Center of the Central Missouri State University, which is located at Warrensburg, Mo.

Mrs. Adams represented the Nebraska Women for Highway Safety and the Lincoln Area Council PTA and she was accompanied by Mrs. Earl High of Aurora.

According to Mrs. Adams the conference included representatives from four states, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, who discussed the problems of drinking on the highways and made preliminary plans for a fall conference.

Others attending from Lincoln were Mrs. Kay Skinner, who represented the Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Program; Dave McLaughlin, who is associated with the Nebraska Highway Department; and Mrs. David Pierson, a member of the Nebraska Women for Highway Safety group.

Engagement Announced

Town and campus circles of recent vintage will share interest this morning in the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Sullivan of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Jean, to Frank J. Zoretich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zoretich of Cleveland, O.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, June 30

Miss Sullivan attended Mundelein College in Chicago and was graduated from the University of Nebraska where she majored in journalism and where she is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary. She now is careering on the news staff of the Democrat and Chronicle in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Zoretich received his degree in journalism from Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., and following his graduation went to Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I. He served two years as a lieutenant J.G., with the U.S. Navy and was assigned to oil tankers operating along the Atlantic coast and in the Mediterranean. Mr. Zoretich has been a feature writer for the Democrat-Chronicle newspaper in Rochester, and now is a free-lance writer and photographer.

Go Find Yourself A Crisis To Help You Through Those "Middle Years"

The average person doesn't like the idea of facing a crisis of any kind, and that's too bad because it is the best thing that can happen to anyone. You don't believe it? Then take a tip from one of the famed psychiatrists in the country — Dr. Roy Menninger of the Menninger Clinic at Topeka, Kan., and president of the Menninger Foundation.

Dr. Menninger was interviewed by Patricia McCormack, writer for the United Press International, while he was attending a symposium on the normal crises of middle years, which was held in New York City.

Here is what the noted psychiatrist had to say:

New York — Been through a crisis lately? If not, try to get involved in one. For mental health's sake.

You see, if you don't recognize a crisis or become involved in one, well, maybe you're not having normal experiences as you go through life.

Dr Roy Menninger, president of the famed Menninger Foundation and a third-generation psychiatrist (his grandfather and father were psychiatrists, too), talked about crises during an interview The talk settled on crises of middle age — from 30 to 55, a somewhat depressing age for men and women in this youth-oriented society. "Don't trust anyone over 30," and all that.

"The most important point to recognize is that it is normal to have crises," the Topeka, Kan., doctor said. He was in New York in connection with a symposium on the normal crises of middle years. The big crisis of the middle years for everyone is the fear that the end of productive life is nearing, psychologists have reported.

Menninger said crises are good.

"A crisis," he said, "is an event that challenges entrenched ways of thinking of things. A crisis produces a teachable moment — time when a person is open to a new idea. It is an excellent learning situation."

The psychiatrist said husbands and wives can help one another through the middle-age crisis episodes by talking together about their goals and values and priorities.

Where the family is concerned — parents and children, Menninger said there should be a regular opportunity for family members to say what they are thinking in an atmosphere of emotional honesty. If you're angry, be angry. If you're sad at such a speak-out, be sad. Don't mask your feelings.

The psychiatrist cited some ground rules for such regular discussions. They included:

—All members of the family must agree to listen and be quiet and fair without interfering with what a person is saying

—Each discussant gets equal time

—All participants must recognize that a good argument is therapeutic from a mental health standpoint. It helps get things out in the open

"It can be a first step to honesty in family relations," Dr. Menninger said.

ABBY: why not tell the truth

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old, reasonably attractive girl. I live at home and work in a large office.

How can I refuse a date without hurting the man's feelings, and at the same time keep him from asking me again? If I say I am busy, he asks me again, or worse yet he'll ask for my first free evening, then I am really stuck.

You see, I don't want to date anyone outside my own religion. I'm not that hung up on religion, but my parents are so much against it, I decided it would eliminate lots of arguments at home if I just dated men of my own faith. My parents have been wonderful to me and I don't consider it too big a sacrifice for me if it will make them happy.

So, how can I politely turn down a date without appearing rude, and at the same time discourage that fellow from asking me again?

THERESA

DEAR THERESA: What's wrong with telling him the truth?

DEAR ABBY: Recently when my sisters and I were faced with closing the house in which our parents had lived for many years, we came upon several boxes of old pictures and snapshots. Many were of friends our parents had known over the years, but whom we barely knew. We hated to destroy them, even tho they meant nothing to us, so we hit upon the idea of sending them to the families of those involved. In this way we contributed richly to the picture collections of many families. The letters of gratitude we received more than compensated for our efforts.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Let's say you're in four spades and West leads a heart. East cashes the A-K and returns the nine, West ruffing your ten and returning a low diamond.

You go up with the ace and need the rest of the tricks. It would seem at this point that the contract depends solely on a successful club finesse.

However, there is an excellent rule to follow in situations of this sort. Let's assume for a moment that there's a 50 per cent chance of East's having the king. Starting with this as a base, your first obligation is to look for a line of play other than the finesse that will raise your chances of success to perhaps 60, 75, or conceivably 100 per cent.

In the present case, if you study the matter closely, it becomes evident that you can elevate your prospects well above 50 per cent by simply allowing for the possibility that West had only one or two trumps originally.

In line with this, after winning the diamond at trick four, you play a low trump to the king and lead the queen of hearts. As it happens, West has no more trumps and this permits you to discard a club from dummy.

The rest of the play is easy enough. You cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, return to your hand by ruffing a diamond and ruff your last club to bring home the contract.

Note that if, when you lead the queen of hearts, West produces a trump, having been dealt three or more trumps, you overruff in dummy and still have the club finesse to fall back on. It doesn't cost a thing to play the hand this way.

I'm not that hung up on religion, but my parents are so much against it, I decided it would eliminate lots of arguments at home if I just dated men of my own faith. My parents have been wonderful to me and I don't consider it too big a sacrifice for me if it will make them happy.

So, how can I politely turn down a date without appearing rude, and at the same time discourage that fellow from asking me again?

THERESA

DEAR THERESA: What's wrong with telling him the truth?

DEAR ABBY: Recently when my sisters and I were faced with closing the house in which our parents had lived for many years, we came upon several boxes of old pictures and snapshots. Many were of friends our parents had known over the years, but whom we barely knew. We hated to destroy them, even tho they meant nothing to us, so we hit upon the idea of sending them to the families of those involved. In this way we contributed richly to the picture collections of many families. The letters of gratitude we received more than compensated for our efforts.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Let's say you're in four spades and West leads a heart. East cashes the A-K and returns the nine, West ruffing your ten and returning a low diamond.

You go up with the ace and need the rest of the tricks. It would seem at this point that the contract depends solely on a successful club finesse.

However, there is an excellent rule to follow in situations of this sort. Let's assume for a moment that there's a 50 per cent chance of East's having the king. Starting with this as a base, your first obligation is to look for a line of play other than the finesse that will raise your chances of success to perhaps 60, 75, or conceivably 100 per cent.

In the present case, if you study the matter closely, it becomes evident that you can elevate your prospects well above 50 per cent by simply allowing for the possibility that West had only one or two trumps originally.

In line with this, after winning the diamond at trick four, you play a low trump to the king and lead the queen of hearts. As it happens, West has no more trumps and this permits you to discard a club from dummy.

The rest of the play is easy enough. You cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, return to your hand by ruffing a diamond and ruff your last club to bring home the contract.

Note that if, when you lead the queen of hearts, West produces a trump, having been dealt three or more trumps, you overruff in dummy and still have the club finesse to fall back on. It doesn't cost a thing to play the hand this way.

Kennedy Denies Panel Holding Sessions In Secret

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, chairman of the Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee, acknowledged Monday that committee members have met informally to discuss legislation but denied rumors that his committee has been holding secret executive sessions

Reports that the committee has met without public notice to act on abortion and mental health legislation are "ridiculous," in Kennedy's words.

"As long as I am a senator, there will never be an executive session (of my committee) without a secretary and (notification of) the press," Kennedy told The Star

Noons, Evenings

The "informal" gatherings, Kennedy maintained, have been attended by himself and two or three other committee members usually during the noon hour or the evening. The discussions were never recorded, and no votes, either formal or informal — were taken, he said

The dicussions were also open to attorneys, physicians, institutions personnel and officials connected with mental health and retardation, he said.

The bills discussed included LB302, the comprehensive health services act; LB361, which would increase state support for care of the mentally ill; LB375, which relates to community meantl health centers; and LB286, which would restrict abortions.

The Legislature changed its rules this year regarding executive sessions so that reporters could report debate and individual votes on bills during executive session. Previously, reporters could only report votes on motions to advance or kill bills during executive sessions.

Kennedy denied that the committee's "informal" meetings were designed to escape press coverage

The meetings were held, Kennedy said, due to the "complicated nature" of the bills being discussed. Often, he said, the committee would discuss several bills with an expert for the sake of comparison.

Full Evening

One full evening, he reported, was spent with Sens. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Ramey Whitney of Chappel and David Stahmer of Omaha, all members of the Approrriations Committee, discussing mental health programs and facilities.

"These four bills are tough to put together. We want to make sure that they're in the best form when they're sent to the floor," he said.

"I've done this sort of thing all the time. To call this an executive session is ridiculous."

Without mentioning any names, Kennedy accused one lobbyist involved in the abortion bill of "putting out" the rumor that the committee has been meeting secretly.

Common Cause

Willard Bell, chairman of the Lincoln steering committee of Common Cause, wrote Kennedy a letter last week protesting the alleged executive sessions without press notification

Such actions, Bell said, represent a failure to keep faith with the people and a blemish on the Unicameral's reputation of being one of the most open and responsive legislatures in the country.

"Especially on controversial issues such as abortion, it is imperative that citizens know what their representatives are doing," Bell said.

Exon To Tell 'Shield Law' Fate Today

Gov. J. J. Exon is scheduled to announce at 11 a.m. Tuesday a final decision on whether he will be signing the so-called "shield law" for the news media.

Tuesday is the final day on which Exon may act on Omaha Sen. John Savage's LB380, which would protect newsmen from being forced into disclosing sources of news stories.

Exon declined to comment last week when the bill was dispatched to his desk by the Unicameral saying he wanted to study it.

Smoking, Clothing Rules Killed

By The Associated Press

Rule changes to prohibit smoking in the legislative chamber and to require senators to wear shirts and ties were killed by the Legislature's Rules Committee Monday.

But the committee recommended a change to limit access by members of the news media to the floor of the Legislature.

The no smoking rule had been proposed by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who complained that the smoke in the legislative chamber was disagreeable to non-smokers.

Sen. Jules Burbach, a smoker, countered with the shirt and tie proposal. He admitted the proposal was aimed at Chambers, who customarily wears T-shirts or sweaters.

The rule change limiting the access of media represenatives to the floor was introduced by Sens. Gerald Stromer of Kearney and Eugene Mahone of Omaha. They complained that newsmen, as well as students and representatives of the executive branch, had been causing congestion and preventing senators from conferring or giving dictation to secretaries.

ETV Programs For Elderly Not Required

The Legislature Monday decided not to order the state's educational television network to broadcast programs specifically designed to benefit elderly persons

The decision came as legislators gave 24-9 approval to a kill motion by Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha on LB525, which would have required the programs to be aired weekly on the ETV network.

The bill was sponsored by the Health and Welfare Committee, whose chairman, Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, told colleagues the programs are needed to benefit elderly persons

Bill On Viet Adoptions OKd

The Legislature gave first-round approval Monday to a bill designed to clear legal clouds which may hang over the adoption of Vietnamese children by Nebraskans.

The measure, LB436, was introduced by Sen. John J. Cavanaugh of Omaha and was sent over its first floor hurdle, 27-0.

Cavanaugh said the bill was designed to clear all questions of legality surrounding such adoptions At present, he told the senators, once an adoption takes place in Vietnam, parents don't really know whether it is legal in this country

Move To Hike Judges' Retirement Age Fails

By United Press International

A move to allow judges to stay on the bench until they are 74 years old failed to fully materialize on the floor of the Legislature Monday

Before the lawmakers for first-round consideration was LB353 It could raise the limit from 70 to 72

But Sen. Ramey C Whitney of Chappell, yielding to a suggestion made by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, offered an amendment to put the limit at 74.

That brought a number of lawmakers to their feet to protest, including Sen Ernest Chambers of Omaha

He said the limit might be fine for 72-year-old Carpenter, or for persons who are as active and able as he But for others, he said it would mean a perpetuation of the "mistakes of yesterday"

Chambers also said it would tend to promote the "sitdown philosophy" of justice

Carpenter finally stood up and said: "I've been had. I ask to withdraw Sen. Whitney's amendment."

Whitney conceded, saying he would withdraw the amendment from consideration "since the chief instigator (of it) agreed to withdraw"

The measure ultimately gained a 27-0 first-round vote.

Later an amended version of Lincoln Sen. Harold Simpson's LB55 was up for initial consideration. It was likewise amended to the 72-year limit.

The bill originally called for mandatory retirement of all state employes at age 65 with no exceptions

Solons Reject Salary Raise For Governor

A move to increase the salaries of the governor and the attorney general failed to gain acceptance in the Legislature Monday

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff offered the salary increases as a replacement for the contents of LB246

Under the terms of the proposed amendment, the governor's salary would go from $25,000 a year to $35,000. The attorney general would have been paid $32,500 instead of the current $16,000

Carpenter said such a move, under the State Constitution, had to be considered so that the increases would go into effect with the beginning of the next term in 1975

Constitutionality Of Amendment To Child Abuse Bill Doubted

LINCOLN, Neb (AP) — The state cannot give up its responsibility to protect the welfare of its citizens, even if the citizens are children affected by their parents religious beliefs, the legislature was told Monday by the State Justice Department

The ruling was by Asst Atty Gen James Duggan, who said it would be "very doubtful" whether an amendment offered by Sen Wally Barnett of Lincoln to a pending bill would be constitutional

The bill LB207 would require the reporting of child abuse cases and Barnett s amendment would exempt those religious groups whose beliefs might lead to a violation

For example the bill prohibits placing a child in a position where his or her health or life might be endangered, but the Barnett amendment would exempt those children "being provided with treatment by spiritual means alone "

It is our opinion that the constitutionality of the amendment, if enacted, would be very doubtful," said Duggan in answer to a question from Sen David Stahmer of Omaha

"Though it is true religious beliefs cannot be interfered with by the state, certain practices of these beliefs must succumb to the inherent power of a state to protect the health and welfare of its citizens," Duggan said "This is particularly true in the case of children and incompetent individuals "

Amendment Erased

Legislators later took the advice and struck the Barnett amendment from LB207 as the measure was sent on toward final reading

Sen Shirley Marsh of Lincoln the sponsor of LB207, received agreement from Barnett in moving to drop the clause Barnett said he had "done all I could '

However, Sen Richard Marvel of Hastings protested the opinion and said it was not based on court decisions but on the personal opinion of the state Justice Department attorneys.

"I don't think we should just follow their own opinions," Marvel said

No Major Fault Found

LINCOLN Neb (AP) — Atty Gen Clarence A H Meyer found no major fault Monday with the language in a legislative bill which relieves Nebraska of strict adherence to the National Life Safety Code

A pending bill LB180 as amended on general file removes the life safety code as a statutory provision but provides that the state fire marshal may adopt rules and regulations generally conforming to the standards recommended by the life safety code

Because the life safety code has been part of the state law, the fire marshal has been required to enforce it This has led to condemnation of some jails and other public buildings

The language of the amended LB180 states the fire marshal shall not enforce the rules and regulations in cases where doing so would impose an unduly severe or costly burden without substantially contributing to safety of persons or property

Commenting the attorney general s office responding to an inquiry from Sen Wally Bernett of Lincoln said "just what would constitute such an unduly severe or costly burden could become a quite nebulous matter to determine Nevertheless we doubt that the lanaguage is so vague as to render the provision incapable of understanding and application

What's Up Front . . .

If it's really what's up front that counts — and you don't have to spend a full day at the library to find evidence that that is true — then Nebraska football fans can look forward to next fall with even more enthusiasm than normal.

Two years ago with the best offensive line in the Big Eight and probably the best in the country, a line led by Carl Johnson, Keith Wortman and Dick Rupert, the Huskers ran roughshod over all but Oklahoma.

Last year, Oklahoma unquestionably had the best offensive line in the Big Eight and for at least the second year in a row, the team with the best offensive line wound up as the Big Eight champion.

If that holds true again this fall, there should be another Big Eight championship trophy in the Husker trophy case about the first week in December.

The most experienced offensive line in the Big Eight next fall will be the one appearing on the Memorial Stadium AstroTurf in Lincoln the first three weeks of the 1973 campaign.

Daryl White is a solid all-American candidate at one tackle for Tom Osborne's first edition of NU football while Marvin Crenshaw on the other side has a full year of experience on his side.

Center Only Question

Bob Wolfe at one guard is a solid performer and Dan Anderson at the other guard gained valuable experience in some tough games filling in for Wolfe after the big Omahan was hurt late in the 1972 season.

That leaves only the center spot missing an incumbent, who can show the battle scars of Big Eight warfare, but Rich Duda, a 6-3, 226-pound junior has gone against Rich Glover enough in practice sessions that he's not totally lacking in experience.

- In contrast to the Huskers, the most depleted offensive line in the league is at Oklahoma where only left guard John Roush and right tackle Eddie Foster return from the five-man Sooner interior that lined up against Nebraska last Thanksgiving Day.

New OU coach Barry Switzer must come up with replacements for Ken Jones at guard, Dean Unruh at tackle and Tom Brahaney at center and that's equivalent to the Huskers having to replace Johnson, Wortman and Rupert a year ago.

The only two league rivals who can match Nebraska in offensive line experience are Missouri and Kansas State.

The Tigers are missing only center Scott Sodergren from last year's offensive front five and outstanding guard Scott Anderson is being given a try as the ball-snapper this spring.

Kansas State also returns four of its five 1972 interior linemen, missing only left guard Del Acker.

Elsewhere around the Big Eight, Kansas returns only two of five, Colorado the same Oklahoma State three of five and Iowa State three of five.

AARON WINS MASTERS

...Scorecard Error Not Let By This Time

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It would have been the replay of golf's greatest scoring error. Tommy Aaron, whose innocently errant pencil once cost Roberto de Vicenzo a chance at the Masters title, found an error on his own card Monday following his victory in the 37th classic at the Augusta National Golf Club.

"He had a five on the 13th hole and I actually made four," Aaron said. Aaron referred to Johnny Miller, his playing partner and scorekeeper in the intense pressure of the rain-delayed final round.

Aaron won the tournament—shattering his inaccurate image as golf's perennial bridesmaid and helping wipe out the nightmare memory of his own scoring error five years ago—with a 68 in the final round that included birdies on the 13th and 15th holes.

Had he signed his card for a par five—as Miller had penciled in—instead of changing it to the correct four, Aaron would have been stuck with the higher score and had a share of the title instead of a clear victory.

"That," he said, "is what you check your scorecard for."

He called his victory "the dream of a lifetime.

"As a small boy growing up here in Georgia, I always dreamed I'd someday win the Masters.

"It's difficult to describe my feelings.

"My wife, my family, my friends have stood by me so long, through so many failures, maybe this is a way of paying them back."

Aaron's dream victory also wiped out the memory of that day five years ago when he scurried from the Augusta National Golf Club in cheekburning shame after making the scorecard error that cost Roberto de Vicenzo a chance at a tie and playoff victory in the 1968 Masters.

"This," he said after a final round 68 for a five-under-par total of 283, "makes some of the near misses not quite so painful.

"You know, that makes it more difficult to win I think it's been overplayed, this stuff about me being a bridesmaid There's nothing wrong with finishing second. And besides, I haven't been second all that much, 12, 13 times.

"And the greatest player in the world, Jack Nicklaus, has been second 33 times

"Everybody has failures," Aaron said. "But I never lost confidence in myself. And now this makes it all worthwhile."

His 283 total, five under par, destroyed forever his inaccurate image as golf's perennial runner-up and helped erase the haunting memory of a slip of the pen that cost Roberto de Vicenzo a chance at the Masters crown in 1968

His victory came in gritty, determined fashion as he ignored a gallant, surging charge by Jack Nicklaus, the famed and feared Golden Bear who waited until this rain-delayed final round to unleash the full power of his awe-inspiring game.

Nicklaus, eight strokes off the pace when the day's play started in mild, windy weather, shouldered his way into the ranks of the contenders with a sparkling, six-under-par 66 for a 285 total, three under

He leaped high in the air and brandished his putter over his head after holing a 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole while Aaron, well behind him, was playing the 520-yard, par-five 15th.

The 36-year-old Aaron, just a face in the crowd for 13 long years on the pro tour, was only four under at that point and faced the subtle, multiple dangers of the famed finishing holes.

He replied by chipping delicately to about 18 inches and tapping in the birdie putt that, in the end, won it

He managed to par in, twice making nerve-testing little putts of two to three feet and just missing a bird on the final hole.

But he still had to endure the nail-biting anxiety of the closing bid of big J. C. Snead, the rawboned 31-year-old nephew of Sam Snead, and lanky, freckle-faced Peter Oosterhuis, the 24-year-old Englishman who led by three strokes at the end of the third round

Both were four under par and were three holes back of Aaron.

The 6-foot-4 Oosterhuis lost his last chance when he took six on the 15th, missing the green in three, chipping poorly and then falling to his knees in something approaching agony when a 10-foot par-saving putt refused to drop

And Snead could do no better than par on the hole that yielded litterly dozens of birdies in this tournament that was postponed for one full day when Saturday's scheduled third round was washed put by a 2 6-inch rain

Snead, a former professional baseball player, still was very much within range, however, at one stroke back. He parred the 17th after finding a yawning sand trap, then put his approach some 30 feet above the cup on the 18th hole

Fonner Park's Races Cancelled

Grand Island — Horse racing at Fonner Park was cancelled here Monday, marking only the second cancellation in 25 years of racing.

The only other cancellation came in March two years ago for the same reason — snow and cold.

At the same time he announced Monday's cancellation, Fonner Park general manager Al Swihart said the track would run nine races daily for the duration of the meeting which ends on April 28.

Swihart said the additional race per day would make up for the purses lost to horsemen by Monday's cancellation.

NU Cancels Doubleheader

Nebraska's baseball team, yet to play a home game becuase of the bad weather, has been forced to cancel another scheduled doubleheader.

Coach Tony Sharpe's Huskers were scheduled to host Northwest Missouri State in a nonconference doubleheader Tuesday afternoon, but the games were called off because of the cold temperatures.

Nebraska's next action will be Friday, weather permitting, when the Huskers entertain Oklahoma State in a Big Eight doubleheader starting at 1:30 p.m.

LCC's Hadwick Honored

A Lincoln man is one of 75 golf superintendents chosen for nationally certification with the Golf Course Superintendents Association recently. The certification recognizes professionalism, increased potential and career stability

Joe Hadwick, who has served as golf course superintendent at the Lincoln Country Club for over 20 years, received the certification gratis, but in five years will be required to pass a national test administered in Nebraska by the University of Nebraska.

Joe Hadwick

All candidates for the certificate who have been members of the GCSA for 20 years or more are given gratis standing. Renewal is mandatory every five years.

Hadwick is a member of the National Golf Course Superintendents Association; the United States Golf Association, Green Section, head, Nebraska Turf Council, secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska Golf Course Association; member of NU College of Agriculture Dean's Advisory Council; and Central Plains Turfgrass Foundation at Kansas State University.

Hadwick has cooperated with the University by supplying land for turfgrass experiments with fungicides, berbicides and seed treatments.

First NU Scrimmage Pleases Coach

By HAL BROWN

Star Sports Editor

Two changes were made Monday in Nebraska's fall football schedule, both made to accommodate ABC-TV, but not even near freezing temperatures nor a chilling wind altered the Huskers' spring schedule.

NU athletic director Bob Devaney announced two date changes for the Huskers in the fall, the moving of the opener with UCLA from Sept. 15 to Sept. 8 and the finale with Oklahoma from Nov. 24 to Nov. 23.

Both changes were made for national television (ABC-TV) with the Sept 8 game likely having a 3 50 p m start and the Oklahoma game being played on the Friday afternoon following Thanksgiving

Devaney said the Friday date was an experiment by the TV network to check fan interest in games being telecast on irregular days.

The Husker-Sooner game the past two years was played on Thanksgiving Day for national television.

Meanwhile Husker head coach Tom Osborne ignored the winter-like weather to send his charges through their first serious contact work of the spring.

Osborne watched each of the Husker units scrimmage for 15 minutes before a camera crew and promised more of the same in longer sessions Wednesday

"The younger players and the walk-ons in particular can use a lot of scrimmaging," Osborne explained. "We got a lot of film today, about four reels, going only 15 minutes per unit and we'll probably go 30 minutes with each unit on Wednesday."

Noting that "in the spring, it's so hard to evaluate a scrimmage because you don't know if the defense is bad or the offense is good," Osborne did offer some impromptu impressions of his first scrimmage as the Husker head coach

"I thought our first offense moved the ball well," he observed, "except for one fumble and one pass interception

"Both the first and second offensive units did a good job considering that it was the first scrimmage. I thought the offensive line did a good job.

"Both David Humm and Steve Runty (quarterbacks) moved their teams well and all three of our top I-backs, Dave Goeller, Jeff Moran and Tony Davis ran well with the ball "

On defense, Osborne praised tackle John Dutton, end Steve Manstedt and linebacker Bob Nelson, but added, "Our second defensive unit needs a lot of work but again it's still early in the spring."

He also saw some problems with the No. 1 defense, however.

"We ve got a couple or three places on defense where we've got to come up with somebody," he noted "We should be okay in the secondary and our linebackers are sound, but up front, we've got to find some help "

Part of that help could show up Wednesday when middle guard John Bell, the heir apparent to the job vacated by Rich Glover, is expected to join the drills

Bell has missed the first three sessions because of cuts suffered in a carnival ride mishap last Thursday night.

"He should help us up front on defense when we get him out for practice," Osborne said.

A youngster who got a look with the first team defense Monday was Dean Gissler, a 6-7, 250-pound sophomore defensive tackle from Central City

An Osborne said he liked what he saw of third team defensive tackle Ron Pruitt, a 6-3, 235-pound sophomore from Compton, Calif.

Osborne plans to work his Huskers an additional day this week, scheduling a Thursday workout to make up for one of the two days missed when the start of spring drills was delayed because of the national letter-of-intent signings

UCLA To Pass More

Los Angeles (UPI) — Coming off a surprisingly good 8-3 record that included an opening season upset of Nebraska, UCLA's football team will open spring practice Wednesday

"We're a good team now," said coach Pepper Rodgers. "If we get luck and a few other things, we could be a great team."

In his third season at head coach of the Bruins, Rodgers will have halfbacks Kermit Johnson and James McAlister back from a team which ranked second in the nation in rushing offense last year

"Last year I thought we'd have a good offense," said Rodgers. "This year I know it "

After a disastrous 2-7-1 start at UCLA, Rodgers installed a Wishbone-T offense and the Bruins responded by rolling up the most yards gained by any team in the history of the Pacific-8 and the Pacific Coast Conference

Johnson rushed for 952 yards — a 6 8 average — and McAlister picked up 778 — a 4 9 average

"The one thing I want to do this spring is structure a better passing attack," said Rodgers "We just need a better passing design "

The Bruins' quarterback is Mark Harmon, son of former Heisman trophy winner and ex-Michigan star Tom Harmon

UCLA ran up 3,810 yards rushing in 1972, but only passed for 653

Prep Athlete Scores Distance Triple

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Writer

Tim Hall isn't leading any of the 14 individual state track and field charts, released for the first time this week.

But the Omaha Paul VI junior has the likely distinction of being the first Nebraska prep athlete to slam the 880, mile and 2-mile races in the same invitational meet.

A Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) rule change allows a distance runner to compete in all three events for the first time this spring.

The tireless Hall last weekend slammed the distance events at the 16-school North Bend Invitational, clocking a 2:01.3 half mile, a 4.43 6 mile and a 9:59.6 two-mile despite winds believed in excess of 30 miles an hour.

Although he doesn't lead any of the events on the state-wide track chart, Hall is among the top 10 in all three distance races.

His 880 time ranks ninth in a season which has been plagued by continual cold, wet weather. Hall's best mile clocking of 4 31 4 ranks sixth state-wide and the best in Class B.

Hall, one of the state's few athletes to clock under 10 minutes in the two mile this season, has done it twice and ranks fourth on the initial 2-mile chart.

The NSAA rule change, which permits an athlete to compete in any four events, may have had its first four-time track winner last week in the Nebraska Catholic Conference meet at Columbus.

Fritz Schwank of Columbus Scotus didn't qualify for any state-wide rankings. But he did show versatility in winning the 100 in 10 5, the 220 in .23.5, the 440 in 54.3 and the 120 high hurdles in 16.4

Comparatively, times in most events were not as swift as they were at the same point last season.

That's especially true in the distance events, although defending gold medal mile champion Barney Hill of Boys Town has clipped off a 4:23.7. He's also been credited with efforts of 4:27.1 and 4:28.1.

Three other Class A athletes — Dave Pimpara of Omaha South, Mark Thomas of Omaha Burke and Dick Kruse of Norfolk — have broken the 4:30 mile barrier.

The 880's sub-par early-season efforts are reflected in the fact that only five athletes have bettered two minutes.

The best half mile is 1.59 0 North Platte s Chris Grieb, the state half-mile record-holder, has had little opportunity to run his specialty in open competition and has managed only 1:59.4

What's Up Front . . .

If it's really what's up front that counts — and you don't have to spend a full day at the library to find evidence that that is true — then Nebraska football fans can look forward to next fall with even more enthusiasm than normal.

Two years ago with the best offensive line in the Big Eight and probably the best in the country, a line led by Carl Johnson, Keith Wortman and Dick Rupert, the Huskers ran roughshod over all but Oklahoma.

Last year, Oklahoma unquestionably had the best offensive line in the Big Eight and for at least the second year in a row, the team with the best offensive line wound up as the Big Eight champion.

If that holds true again this fall, there should be another Big Eight championship trophy in the Husker trophy case about the first week in December.

The most experienced offensive line in the Big Eight next fall will be the one appearing on the Memorial Stadium AstroTurf in Lincoln the first three weeks of the 1973 campaign.

Daryl White is a solid all-American candidate at one tackle for Tom Osborne's first edition of NU football while Marvin Crenshaw on the other side has a full year of experience on his side.

Center Only Question

Bob Wolfe at one guard is a solid performer and Dan Anderson at the other guard gained valuable experience in some tough games filling in for Wolfe after the big Omahan was hurt late in the 1972 season.

That leaves only the center spot missing an incumbent, who can show the battle scars of Big Eight warfare, but Rich Duda, a 6-3, 226-pound junior has gone against Rich Glover enough in practice sessions that he's not totally lacking in experience.

- In contrast to the Huskers, the most depleted offensive line in the league is at Oklahoma where only left guard John Roush and right tackle Eddie Foster return from the five-man Sooner interior that lined up against Nebraska last Thanksgiving Day.

New OU coach Barry Switzer must come up with replacements for Ken Jones at guard, Dean Unruh at tackle and Tom Brahaney at center and that's equivalent to the Huskers having to replace Johnson, Wortman and Rupert a year ago.

The only two league rivals who can match Nebraska in offensive line experience are Missouri and Kansas State.

The Tigers are missing only center Scott Sodergren from last year's offensive front five and outstanding guard Scott Anderson is being given a try as the ball-snapper this spring.

Kansas State also returns four of its five 1972 interior linemen, missing only left guard Del Acker.

Elsewhere around the Big Eight, Kansas returns only two of five, Colorado the same Oklahoma State three of five and Iowa State three of five.

AARON WINS MASTERS

...Scorecard Error Not Let By This Time

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It would have been the replay of golf's greatest scoring error. Tommy Aaron, whose innocently errant pencil once cost Roberto de Vicenzo a chance at the Masters title, found an error on his own card Monday following his victory in the 37th classic at the Augusta National Golf Club.

"He had a five on the 13th hole and I actually made four," Aaron said. Aaron referred to Johnny Miller, his playing partner and scorekeeper in the intense pressure of the rain-delayed final round.

Aaron won the tournament—shattering his inaccurate image as golf's perennial bridesmaid and helping wipe out the nightmare memory of his own scoring error five years ago—with a 68 in the final round that included birdies on the 13th and 15th holes.

Had he signed his card for a par five—as Miller had penciled in—instead of changing it to the correct four, Aaron would have been stuck with the higher score and had a share of the title instead of a clear victory.

"That," he said, "is what you check your scorecard for."

He called his victory "the dream of a lifetime.

"As a small boy growing up here in Georgia, I always dreamed I'd someday win the Masters.

"It's difficult to describe my feelings.

"My wife, my family, my friends have stood by me so long, through so many failures, maybe this is a way of paying them back."

Aaron's dream victory also wiped out the memory of that day five years ago when he scurried from the Augusta National Golf Club in cheekburning shame after making the scorecard error that cost Roberto de Vicenzo a chance at a tie and playoff victory in the 1968 Masters.

"This," he said after a final round 68 for a five-under-par total of 283, "makes some of the near misses not quite so painful.

"You know, that makes it more difficult to win. I think it's been overplayed, this stuff about me being a bridesmaid. There's nothing wrong with finishing second. And besides, I haven't been second all that much, 12, 13 times.

"And the greatest player in the world, Jack Nicklaus, has been second 33 times.

"Everybody has failures," Aaron said. "But I never lost confidence in myself. And now this makes it all worthwhile."

His 283 total, five under par, destroyed forever his inaccurate image as golf's perennial runner-up and helped erase the haunting memory of a slip of the pen that cost Roberto de Vicenzo a chance at the Masters crown in 1968.

His victory came in gritty, determined fashion as he ignored a gallant, surging charge by Jack Nicklaus, the famed and feared Golden Bear who waited until this rain-delayed final round to unleash the full power of his awe-inspiring game.

Nicklaus, eight strokes off the pace when the day's play started in mild, windy weather, shouldered his way into the ranks of the contenders with a sparkling, six-under-par 66 for a 285 total, three under.

He leaped high in the air and brandished his putter over his head after holing a 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole while Aaron, well behind him, was playing the 520-yard, par-five 15th.

The 36-year-old Aaron, just a face in the crowd for 13 long years on the pro tour, was only four under at that point and faced the subtle, multiple dangers of the famed finishing holes.

He replied by chipping delicately to about 18 inches and tapping in the birdie putt that, in the end, won it.

He managed to par in, twice making nerve-testing little putts of two to three feet and just missing a bird on the final hole.

But he still had to endure the nail-biting anxiety of the closing bid of big J. C. Snead, the rawboned 31-year-old nephew of Sam Snead, and lanky, freckle-faced Peter Oosterhuis, the 24-year-old Englishman who led by three strokes at the end of the third round.

Both were four under par and were three holes back of Aaron.

The 6-foot-4 Oosterhuis lost his last chance when he took six on the 15th, missing the green in three, chipping poorly and then falling to his knees in something approaching agony when a 10-foot par-saving putt refused to drop.

And Snead could do no better than par on the hole that yielded litterly dozens of birdies in this tournament that was postponed for one full day when Saturday's scheduled third round was washed put by a 2.6-inch rain.

Snead, a former professional baseball player, still was very much within range, however, at one stroke back. He parred the 17th after finding a yawning sand trap, then put his approach some 30 feet above the cup on the 18th hole.

Fonner Park's Races Cancelled

Grand Island — Horse racing at Fonner Park was cancelled here Monday, marking only the second cancellation in 25 years of racing.

The only other cancellation came in March two years ago for the same reason — snow and cold.

At the same time he announced Monday's cancellation, Fonner Park general manager Al Swihart said the track would run nine races daily for the duration of the meeting which ends on April 28.

Swihart said the additional race per day would make up for the purses lost to horsemen by Monday's cancellation.

NU Cancels Doubleheader

Nebraska's baseball team, yet to play a home game becuase of the bad weather, has been forced to cancel another scheduled doubleheader.

Coach Tony Sharpe's Huskers were scheduled to host Northwest Missouri State in a nonconference doubleheader Tuesday afternoon, but the games were called off because of the cold temperatures.

Nebraska's next action will be Friday, weather permitting, when the Huskers entertain Oklahoma State in a Big Eight doubleheader starting at 1:30 p.m.

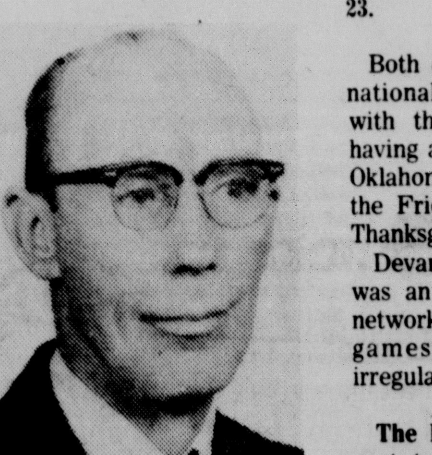
LCC's Hadwick Honored

A Lincoln man is one of 75 golf superintendents chosen for nationally certification with the Golf Course Superintendents Association recently. The certification recognizes professionalism, increased potential and career stablility.

Joe Hadwick, who has served as golf course superintendent at the Lincoln Country Club for over 20 years, received the certification gratis, but in five years will be required to pass a national test administered in Nebraska by the University of Nebraska.



Joe Hadwick

All candidates for the certificate who have been members of the GCSA for 20 years or more are given gratis standing. Renewal is mandatory every five years.

Hadwick is a member of the National Golf Course Superintendents Association; the United States Golf Association, Green Section; head, Nebraska Turf Council; secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska Golf Course Association; member of NU College of Agriculture Dean's Advisory Council; and Central Plains Turfgrass Foundation at Kansas State University.

Hadwick has cooperated with the University by supplying land for turfgrass experiments with fungicides, herbicides and seed treatments.

First NU Scrimmage Pleases Coach

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Two changes were made Monday in Nebraska's fall football schedule, both made to accommodate ABC-TV, but not even near freezing temperatures nor a chilling wind altered the Huskers' spring schedule.

NU athletic director Bob Devaney announced two date changes for the Huskers in the fall, the moving of the opener with UCLA from Sept. 15 to Sept. 8 and the finale with Oklahoma from Nov. 24 to Nov. 23.

Both changes were made for national television (ABC-TV) with the Sept. 8 game likely having a 3:50 p.m. start and the Oklahoma game being played on the Friday afternoon following Thanksgiving.

Devaney said the Friday date was an experiment by the TV network to check fan interest in games being telecast on irregular days.

The Husker-Sooner game the past two years was played on Thanksgiving Day for national television.

Meanwhile Husker head coach Tom Osborne ignored the winter-like weather to send his charges through their first serious contact work of the spring.

Osborne watched each of the Husker units scrimmage for 15 minutes before a camera crew and promised more of the same in longer sessions Wednesday.

"The younger players and the walk-ons in particular can use a lot of scrimmaging," Osborne explained. "We got a lot of film today, about four reels, going only 15 minutes per unit and we'll probably go 30 minutes with each unit on Wednesday."

Noting that "in the spring, it's so hard to evaluate a scrimmage because you don't know if the defense is bad or the offense is good," Osborne did offer some impromptu impressions of his first scrimmage as the Husker head coach.

"I thought our first offense moved the ball well," he observed, "except for one fumble and one pass interception.

"Both the first and second offensive units did a good job considering that it was the first scrimmage. I thought the offensive line did a good job.

"Both David Humm and Steve Runty (quarterbacks) moved their teams well and all three of our top I-backs, Dave Goeller, Jeff Moran and Tony Davis ran well with the ball."

On defense, Osborne praised tackle John Dutton, end Steve Manstedt and linebacker Bob Nelson, but added, "Our second defensive unit needs a lot of work, but again it's still early in the spring."

He also saw some problems with the No. 1 defense, however.

"We've got a couple or three places on defense where we've got to come up with somebody," he noted. "We should be okay in the secondary and our linebackers are sound, but up front, we've got to find some help."

Part of that help could show up Wednesday when middle guard John Bell, the heir apparent to the job vacated by Rich Glover, is expected to join the drills.

Bell has missed the first three sessions because of cuts suffered in a carnival ride mishap last Thursday night.

"He should help us up front on defense when we get him out for practice," Osborne said.

A youngster who got a look with the first team defense Monday was Dean Gissler, a 6-7, 250-pound sophomore defensive tackle from Central City.

An Osborne said he liked what he saw of third team defensive tackle Ron Pruitt, a 6-3, 235-pound sophomore from Compton, Calif.

Osborne plans to work his Huskers an additional day this week, scheduling a Thursday workout to make up for one of the two days missed when the start of spring drills was delayed because of the national letter-of-intent signings.

UCLA To Pass More

Los Angeles (UPI) — Coming off a surprisingly good 8-3 record that included an opening season upset of Nebraska, UCLA's football team will open spring practice Wednesday.

"We're a good team now," said coach Pepper Rodgers. "If we get luck and a few other things, we could be a great team."

In his third season at head coach of the Bruins, Rodgers will have halfbacks Kermit Johnson and James McAlister back from a team which ranked second in the nation in rushing offense last year.

"Last year I thought we'd have a good offense," said Rodgers. "This year I know it."

After a disastrous 2-7-1 start at UCLA, Rodgers installed a Wishbone-T offense and the Bruins responded by rolling up the most yards gained by any team in the history of the Pacific-8 and the Pacific Coast Conference.

Johnson rushed for 952 yards — a 6.8 average — and McAlister picked up 778 — a 4.9 average.

"The one thing I want to do this spring is structure a better passing attack," said Rodgers. "We just need a better passing design."

The Bruins' quarterback is Mark Harmon, son of former Heisman trophy winner and ex-Michigan star Tom Harmon.

UCLA ran up 3,810 yards rushing in 1972, but only passed for 653.

Prep Athlete Scores Distance Triple

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Tim Hall isn't leading any of the 14 individual state track and field charts, released for the first time this week.

But the Omaha Paul VI junior has the likely distinction of being the first Nebraska prep athlete to slam the 880, mile and 2-mile races in the same invitational meet.

A Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) rule change allows a distance runner to compete in all three events for the first time this spring.

The tireless Hall last weekend slammed the distance events at the 16-school North Bend Invitational, clocking a 2:01.3 half mile, a 4:43.6 mile and a 9:59.6 two-mile despite winds believed in excess of 30 miles an hour.

Although he doesn't lead any of the events on the state-wide track chart, Hall is among the top 10 in all three distance races.

His 880 time ranks ninth in a season which has been plagued by continual cold, wet weather. Hall's best mile clocking of 4:31.4 ranks sixth state-wide and the best in Class B.

Hall, one of the state's few athletes to clock under 10 minutes in the two mile this season, has done it twice and ranks fourth on the initial 2-mile chart.

The NSAA rule change, which permits an athlete to compete in any four events, may have had its first four-time track winner last week in the Nebraska Catholic Conference meet at Columbus.

Fritz Schwank of Columbus Scotus didn't qualify for any state-wide rankings. But he did show versatility in winning the 100 in :10.5, the 220 in :23.5, the 440 in :54.3 and the 120 high hurdles in :16.4.

Comparatively, times in most events were not as swift as they were at the same point last season.

That's especially true in the distance events, although defending gold medal mile champion Barney Hill of Boys Town has clipped off a 4:23.7. He's also been credited with efforts of 4:27.1 and 4:28.1.

Three other Class A athletes — Dave Pimpara of Omaha South, Mark Thomas of Omaha Burke and Dick Kruse of Norfolk — have broken the 4:30 mile barrier.

The 880's sub-par early-season efforts are reflected in the fact that only five athletes have bettered two minutes.

The best half mile is 1:59.0. North Platte's Chris Grieb, the state half-mile record-holder, has had little opportunity to run his specialty in open competition and has managed only 1:59.4.

Indians Deal Yankees Fourth Straight Loss

New York (UPI) — Three off-season acquisitions, Rusty Torres, designated-hitter John Ellis and pitcher Brent Strom, helped the Cleveland Indians defeat New York, 3-1, Monday as the Yankees opened their last season in Yankee Stadium until 1976.

Strom, a 24-year-old southpaw traded to Cleveland by the New York Mets for Phil Hennigan, limited the Yanks to eight hits and struck out six as he gained his first major league victory. He walked two batters.

Ellis, a former Yankee, drove in the winning run for Cleveland with a single in the sixth inning

Torres, another former Yankee, tied the game 1-1 in the third when he stroked a ground rule double into the left field stands to drive in Buddy Bell from third. Bell took third on a groundout after walking and moving to second on starter Fritz Peterson's wild pitch.

Singles by Chris Chambliss and Ellis and an error by former Indian Graig Nettles gave Cleveland a 2-1 lead in the sixth and chased Peterson. Lindy McDaniel relieved and retired the side.

Cleveland picked up an insurance run in the ninth inning when Jose Cardenas and Torres lined back-to-back doubles off McDaniel.

Peterson absorbed the loss in his first start and the Yankees have now lost four straight starting off the 1973 season. The victory was Cleveland's second in three games.

The Yanks will not be playing in their stadium the next two years while it undergoes a $27.9 million face lift.

In the National League, Cincinnati edged Atlanta 8-7, Houston beat Los Angeles 4-1 and San Francisco defeated San Diego 2-1

Chris Speier laced a solo home run in the fifth inning that broke a 1-1 tie and lifted the Giants to victory. San Francisco scored its other run on back-to-back doubles by Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes.

Pitcher Jerry Reuss drove in the tying run with a two-out single in the eighth inning and Jimmy Wynn followed with a two-run homer that propelled the Astros to victory.

Tony Perez walloped three hits and drove home two runs for the Reds. Cincinnati scored four runs in the ninth—including two on Perez' third hit—to break a tie and record the triumph.

Legal Problems Prohibit Suit

Legal problems with pinpointing the source of a pollutant which recently resulted in the death of 12,650 fish near Fremont will prevent the State Game and Parks Commission from taking any action against the violator.

Wes Sheets, a commission biologist, said Monday, although the incident was the first completely documented fish kill made by the commission, the ammonia which killed the fish cannot legally be traced through the storm sewer system to the offending industry.

"We have some prime suspects," Sheets said. "We made three different trips to the site, but unfortunately we can't follow through and close it up"

The fish were discovered April 1 in a two-mile stretch of a drainage ditch on the south edge of Fremont which empties into the Platte River The ditch reportedly receives run-off from a number of industries, including a packing house, a poultry slaughter house, a fertilizer plant and an alfalfa dehydrating plant

"We have a good idea who the polluter was, but we weren't called in until it was too late to trace the discharge."

He said there have been other reports of fish kills in that ditch, but he said this most recent one was the largest reported for some time.

Sheets emphasized that fish kills need to be reported and acted on quickly before the toxic discharge ceases making an investigation difficult.

"We're always called in a day or two too late," Sheets said

He noted that the state has a 24-hour answering service at area code 402-477-7917 to take reports of severe pollution problems, such as fish kills.

Dallas Loses ABA Team

New York (UPI) — The trustees of the American Basketball Association unanimously approved Monday the relocation of the Dallas Franchise to San Antonio, Tex., under the management and control of a San Antonio group of businessmen, commissioner Robert Carlson announced.

The team will play next season in the 10,000-seat San Antonio Convention Center Arena. The San Antonio businessmen include Art Burdick, Angelo Drossos, B. J. McCombs and John Schaefer.

Approval was granted at a special trustees, meeting in Chicago.

Originally, it was announced that the Dallas franchise might shift to New Jersey for next year, but this fell through.

The Chaps are an original member of the league, spending six years in Dallas except for one year as a regional franchise operating out of Dallas. They finished last in the Western Division this past season, averaging only about 2,100 fans for home games.

Rodgers Begins 30 Days In Jail

By United Press International

Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers began serving a 30-day jail sentence Monday night for driving on a suspended license

The jailer at the Lancaster County-Lincoln City Jail said Rodgers, 21, was placed in a cellblock at 6:35 CST with 13 other inmates

Rodgers' attorney, David C Pierson, has said he will seek permission Tuesday to have Rodgers placed in a work-release program in Douglas County to work as a counselor at Boys Town near Omaha

Royals Set To Unveil New Stadium In KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 1973 version of the Kansas City Royals, believed to be the best baseball team ever assembled in this city, unveil their new $43 million stadium Tuesday night with the Texas Rangers providing the opposition.

An overflowing crowd of more than 42,000 will view the game, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. CST. Lt. Cmdr. Joseph Charles Plumb Jr. of Overland Park, Kan., a former prisoner of war, will toss out the first ball.

Govs. Kit Bond of Missouri and Robert Docking of Kansas, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, American League President Joe Cronin and a host of congressional leaders will be among the dignitaries.

Royals officials, including owner Ewing Kauffman, were keeping a watchful eye on the weather. A swirling, blustry and bitter cold snow storm swept through the stadium Monday.

Paul Splittorff will pitch for the Royals, who are 2-1 after their series at California over the weekend, and Pete Broberg for the Rangers, 0-1. The Royals will have only one unfamiliar face in the starting lineup, right fielder Hal McRae, obtained during the winter from the Cincinnati Reds.

The game will be the first before the home folks for Manager Jack McKeon, who succeeded the fired Bob Lemon. McKeon, a minor league figure for 15 years, was promoted from the Royals' American Association farm club at Omaha.

Tuesday night's game could be one in which the atmosphere will overshadow the action on the field as far as the spectators are concerned. One of the major features of the plus stadium—half of the new Harry S. Truman sports complex—is the $2.75 million electronic scoreboard which soars 12 stories high.

The scoreboard, built in the shape of the Royals' crest, will detail every facet of the game, give details of other major league games and amuse the spectators with animated cartoons.

The board will virtually explode for a home run. Lifesize pictures of players will be flashed onto the board after sparkling defensive plays or key hits at the plate.

The playing field is the only one in the AL covered completely by artificial turf.

Kauffman is so proud of the new showplace he has arranged to have the opener televised in color in Kansas City and its five-state cable system. There will be no commercials, and Kauffman and his wife are footing the entire cost

ABA's MVP To Cunningham

New York (UPI) — Billy Cunningham, Carolina Cougar forward and one-time scourage of the NBA, Monday was named Most Valuable Player of the American Basketball Association in his first season with the league.

Cunningham was a four-time National Basketball Association all-star choice with Philadelphia before signing with the Cougars and leading them to the ABA's Eastern Division championship.

For his efforts, Cunningham was named on 44 of the 58 ballots cast by sports writers and television broadcasters in the 10 league cities

Julius Erving, Virginia's "Dr J," was a distant second with seven votes. George McGinnis of Indiana collected three votes and one each went to Joe Caldwell of Carolina, Artis Gilmoore of Kentucky and teammates Willie Wise and Ron Boone of Utah.

Cunningham was the ABA's fourth leading scorer this season with a 24.1 average and finished seventh in rebounding at 12.1.

Indians Deal Yankees Fourth Straight Loss

New York (UPI) — Three off-season acquisitions, Rusty Torres, designated-hitter John Ellis and pitcher Brent Strom, helped the Cleveland Indians defeat New York, 3-1, Monday as the Yankees opened their last season in Yankee Stadium until 1976.

Strom, a 24-year-old southpaw traded to Cleveland by the New York Mets for Phil Hennigan, limited the Yanks to eight hits and struck out six as he gained his first major league victory. He walked two batters.

Ellis, a former Yankee, drove in the winning run for Cleveland with a single in the sixth inning.

Torres, another former Yankee, tied the game 1-1 in the third when he stroked a ground rule double into the left field stands to drive in Buddy Bell from third. Bell took third on a groundout after walking and moving to second on starter Fritz Peterson's wild pitch.

Singles by Chris Chambliss and Ellis and an error by former Indian Graig Nettles gave Cleveland a 2-1 lead in the sixth and chased Peterson. Lindy McDaniel relieved and retired the side.

Cleveland picked up an insurance run in the ninth inning when Jose Cardenas and Torres lined back-to-back doubles off McDaniel.

Peterson absorbed the loss in his first start and the Yankees have now lost four straight starting off the 1973 season. The victory was Cleveland's second in three games.

The Yanks will not be playing in their stadium the next two years while it undergoes a $27.9 million face lift.

In the National League, Cincinnati edged Atlanta 8-7, Houston beat Los Angeles 4-1 and San Francisco defeated San Diego 2-1.

Chris Speier laced a solo home run in the fifth inning that broke a 1-1 tie and lifted the Giants to victory. San Francisco scored its other run on back-to-back doubles by Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes.

Pitcher Jerry Reuss drove in the tying run with a two-out single in the eighth inning and Jimmy Wynn followed with a two-run homer that propelled the Astros to victory.

Tony Perez walloped three hits and drove home two runs for the Reds. Cincinnati scored four runs in the ninth—including two on Perez' third hit—to break a tie and record the triumph.

Legal Problems Prohibit Suit

Legal problems with pinpointing the source of a pollutant which recently resulted in the death of 12,650 fish near Fremont will prevent the State Game and Parks Commission from taking any action against the violator.

Wes Sheets, a commission biologist, said Monday, although the incident was the first completely documented fish kill made by the commission, the ammonia which killed the fish cannot legally be traced through the storm sewer system to the offending industry.

"We have some prime suspects," Sheets said. "We made three different trips to the site, but unfortunately we can't follow through and close it up."

The fish were discovered April 1 in a two-mile stretch of a drainage ditch on the south edge of Fremont which empties into the Platte River. The ditch reportedly receives run-off from a number of industries, including a packing house, a poultry slaughter house, a fertilizer plant and an alfalfa dehydrating plant.

"We have a good idea who the polluter was, but we weren't called in until it was too late to trace the discharge."

He said there have been other reports of fish kills in that ditch, but he said this most recent one was the largest reported for some time.

Sheets emphasized that fish kills need to be reported and acted on quickly before the toxic discharge ceases making an investigation difficult.

"We're always called in a day or two too late," Sheets said.

He noted that the state has a 24-hour answering service at area code 402-477-7917 to take reports of severe pollution problems, such as fish kills.

Dallas Loses ABA Team

New York (UPI) — The trustees of the American Basketball Association unanimously approved Monday the relocation of the Dallas Franchise to San Antonio, Tex., under the management and control of a San Antonio group of businessmen, commissioner Robert Carlson announced.

The team will play next season in the 10,000-seat San Antonio Convention Center Arena. The San Antonio businessmen include Art Burdick, Angelo Drossos, B. J. McCombs and John Schaefer.

Approval was granted at a special trustees, meeting in Chicago.

Originally, it was announced that the Dallas franchise might shift to New Jersey for next year, but this fell through.

The Chaps are an original member of the league, spending six years in Dallas except for one year as a regional franchise operating out of Dallas. They finished last in the Western Division this past season, averaging only about 2,100 fans for home games.

Rodgers Begins 30 Days In Jail

By United Press International

Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers began serving a 30-day jail sentence Monday night for driving on a suspended license.

The jailer at the Lancaster County-Lincoln City Jail said Rodgers, 21, was placed in a cellblock at 6:35 CST with 13 other inmates.

Rodgers' attorney, David C. Pierson, has said he will seek permission Tuesday to have Rodgers placed in a work-release program in Douglas County to work as a counselor at Boys Town near Omaha.

Royals Set To Unveil New Stadium In KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 1973 version of the Kansas City Royals, believed to be the best baseball team ever assembled in this city, unveil their new $43 million stadium Tuesday night with the Texas Rangers providing the opposition.

An overflowing crowd of more than 42,000 will view the game, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. CST. Lt. Cmdr. Joseph Charles Plumb Jr. of Overland Park, Kan., a former prisoner of war, will toss out the first ball.

Govs. Kit Bond of Missouri and Robert Docking of Kansas, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, American League President Joe Cronin and a host of congressional leaders will be among the dignitaries.

Royals officials, including owner Ewing Kauffman, were keeping a watchful eye on the weather. A swirling, blustry and bitter cold snow storm swept through the stadium Monday.

Paul Splittorff will pitch for the Royals, who are 2-1 after their series at California over the weekend, and Pete Broberg for the Rangers, 0-1. The Royals will have only one unfamiliar face in the starting lineup, right fielder Hal McRae, obtained during the winter from the Cincinnati Reds.

The game will be the first before the home folks for Manager Jack McKeon, who succeeded the fired Bob Lemon. McKeon, a minor league figure for 15 years, was promoted from the Royals' American Association farm club at Omaha.

Tuesday night's game could be one in which the atmosphere will overshadow the action on the field as far as the spectators are concerned. One of the major features of the plus stadium—half of the new Harry S. Truman sports complex—is the $2.75 million electronic scoreboard which soars 12 stories high.

The scoreboard, built in the shape of the Royals' crest, will detail every facet of the game, give details of other major league games and amuse the spectators with animated cartoons.

The board will virtually explode for a home run. Lifesize pictures of players will be flashed onto the board after sparkling defensive plays or key hits at the plate.

The playing field is the only one in the AL covered completely by artificial turf.

Kauffman is so proud of the new showplace he has arranged to have the opener televised in color in Kansas City and its five-state cable system. There will be no commercials, and Kauffman and his wife are footing the entire cost.

New Sailboat Flotilla Set

The new sailboat flotilla of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will receive its charter Saturday night.

Persons interested in joining the flotilla are invited to contact Roth or attend the meetings which are held the second Tuesday of each month at the American Legion Club at 7:30 p.m.

Nicklaus Leads Earnings List

ABA's MVP To Cunningham

New York (UPI) — Billy Cunningham, Carolina Cougar forward and one-time scourage of the NBA, Monday was named Most Valuable Player of the American Basketball Association in his first season with the league.

Cunningham was a four-time National Basketball Association all-star choice with Philadelphia before signing with the Cougars and leading them to the ABA's Eastern Division championship.

For his efforts, Cunningham was named on 44 of the 58 ballots cast by sports writers and television broadcasters in the 10 league cities.

Julius Erving, Virginia's "Dr. J.," was a distant second with seven votes. George McGinnis of Indiana collected three votes and one each went to Joe Caldwell of Carolina, Artis Gilmoore of Kentucky and teammates Willie Wise and Ron Boone of Utah.

Cunningham was the ABA's fourth leading scorer this season with a 24.1 average and finished seventh in rebounding at 12.1.

Snow Keeps Anglers At Home

Most outdoor activity in Nebraska slowed down considerably or ground to a complete halt over the weekend due to spring snowstorms and falling temperatures.

Some fishing activity continues in scattered locations, but the foul weather has reduced pressure considerably.

According to reports of Game and Parks Commission conservation officers in the field, outdoor activity across the state includes:

PANHANDLE

Anglers have been taking occasional rainbow trout averaging three pounds in Red Willow and Pumpkin creeks in Morrill County and Nine Mile, Tub Springs, and Winters creeks in Scotts Bluff County. Worms and trout eggs have been the best baits. Fishermen along Pine and White Clay creeks in Sheridan County have been taking 10-inch browns on worms and spinners. At Island Lake on the Crescent Lake National Wildlife Refuge, northern pike to five pounds have been taking beefsteak and artificials. The upper end of Lake McConaughy has been producing catfish averaging two pounds on shad, while Lake Ogallala has been giving up eight-inch perch on worms.

NORTHEAST

Anglers in the Gavins Point Dam tailwaters have been taking walleye and sauger to three pounds. Cold weather and snow limited most other outdoor activity.

SOUTHEAST

Until bad weather hit, anglers at Pawnee Lake near Emerald were taking occasional walleye to three pounds on jigs and other artificials. Branched Oak Lake also yielded a few walleye and Conestoga Lake at Denton gave up a few catfish to six pounds, hitting bluegill. Most activity has since stopped, due to snow, cold, and bad roads.

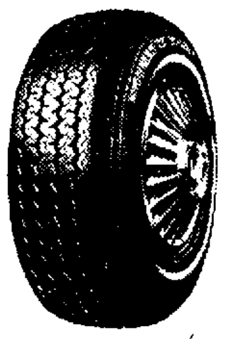
Michelin Radials last twice as long as bias-ply tires.



An average driver will run up about 10,000 miles a year. At that rate, you can count on at least 4 years, or 40,000 miles from a Michelin steel belted radial tire. About double what you can expect from a bias-ply tire.

Why? Because they run cooler and reduce the risk of heat blowouts. They're flexible. And they absorb jolts like a cushion. You'll even save gas because they roll easier. Look into Michelin radial tires today.

Coach-Athlete Names Siegel All-American

Lincoln Journal-Star 'Super Stater' Bob Siegel of Fairbury, who has signed a naional letter of intent to play his collegiate basketball for Nebraska, has been named to Coach and Athlete magazine's 100-player all-American team.

The 6-5 Siegel was the only Nebraskan honored, while three Iowans were named to the team. They were 6-8 Steve Burgason of Ames, 6-8 Mark Enright of Cedar Rapids and 7-0 Steve Manker of Des Moines Valley West.

Siegel is heading for Cedar Rapids this week to help NU coach Joe Cipriano in the recruiting of Enright, who has indicated he may also become a Cornhusker cager.

Knights Lose Season Finale

Omaha (AP) — Lyle Moffat and John Gray scored third period goals as Tulsa defeated Omaha 5-3 in the season's finale for both teams Saturday night.

Tulsa held a 3-2 lead after the first period but Omaha tied it up going into the third.

The game had no effect on the standings. Second place Omaha opens a best-of-five semi-final series at Fort Worth Tuesday and fourth-place Tulsa has been eliminated from post-season activity.

Snow Keeps Anglers At Home

Most outdoor activity in Nebraska slowed down considerably or ground to a complete halt over the weekend due to spring snowstorms and falling temperatures.

Some fishing activity continues in scattered locations, but the foul weather has reduced pressure considerably.

According to reports of Game and Parks Commission conservation officers in the field, outdoor activity across the state includes:

PANHANDLE

Anglers have been taking occasional rainbow trout averaging three pounds in Red Willow and Pumpkin creeks in Morrill County and Nine Mile, Tub Springs, and Winters creeks in Scotts Bluff County. Worms and trout eggs have been the best baits. Fishermen along Pine and White Clay creeks in Sheridan County have been taking 10-inch browns on worms and spinners. At Island Lake on the Crescent Lake National Wildlife Refuge, northern pike to five pounds have been taking beefsteak and artificials. The upper end of Lake McConaughy has been producing catfish averaging two pounds on shad, while Lake Ogallala has been giving up eight-inch perch on worms.

NORTHEAST

Anglers in the Gavins Point Dam tailwaters have been taking walleye and sauger to three pounds. Cold weather and snow limited most other outdoor activity.

SOUTHEAST

Until bad weather hit, anglers at Pawnee Lake near Emerald were taking occasional walleye to three pounds on jigs and other artificials. Branched Oak Lake also yielded a few walleye and Conestoga Lake at Denton gave up a few catfish to six pounds, hitting bluegill. Most activity has since stopped, due to snow, cold, and bad roads.

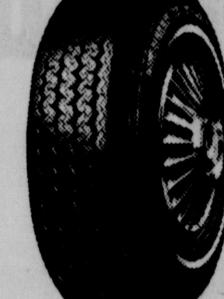
Michelin Radials last twice as long as bias-ply tires.



An average driver will run up about 10,000 miles a year. At that rate, you can count on at least 4 years, or 40,000 miles from a Michelin steel belted radial tire. About double what you can expect from a bias-ply tire.

Why? Because they run cooler and reduce the risk of heat blowouts. They're flexible. And they absorb jolts like a cushion. You'll even save gas because they roll easier. Look into Michelin radial tires today.

Sikkim Caught Between Giants

By The Associated Press

Chinese soldiers are known to wink and flirt with a pretty girl on the border with Sikkim, according to the queen of the tiny kingdom.

India, which took over Sikkim's government on Sunday, would not be amused.

Sikkim is more than rare orchid gardens, lakes teeming with fish and a snow-covered royal palace with an American-born queen. It is a link between the world's most populous nations — India and China.

Next to news about Queen Hope Cooke, a socialite from New York and Seal Harbor, Maine, Sikkim's best-known export is a spice called cardamon, used in cakes and cookies.

Sikkim is home for 200,000 people, with natives far outnumbered by immigrants from India and Nepal. The ruling family immigrated from Tibet when China took over that country.

Small and dependent Sikkim relied on India to manage its foreign affairs and defense, under a 1950 treaty which made the kingdom a protectorate under New Delhi.

That arrangement was intact until Sunday when, after 12 days of violence, India took control because of "the complete breakdown of law and order."

India also cited "excesses" by the police, as thousands of demonstrators marched on the palace of the chogyal or divine king. The feared police and palace guards are largely Tibetan immigrants — as is the chogyal.

The land of nomad herdsmen has been a frequent pawn in power struggles since long before the current Namgyal dynasty began in the 14th century. The British East India Company took the Darjeeling district in 1839.

In 1962 the border with Chinese-ruled Tibet was closed, due to India's fears that the Chinese would infiltrate the peaceful Valley of Rice, as Sikkimese call it.

Tibetans are still seen in Gangtok, the capital, wearing long, braided hair and floor-length garments. About 25,000 Indian troops guard the border.

Sikkim has no airport, no trains, no postcards, no night clubs, and India rarely allows outsiders to enter the kingdom.

The chogyal, Palden Thondup Namgyal, a widower, married Hope Cooke in 1963 after a romantic meeting over tea at a tourist hill station in Darjeeling. She was vacationing from Sarah Lawrence College studies in Asian culture. They now have two small children.

At the palace, target of protests for the last two weeks, the royal pair live modestly, Tibetan paintings on the wall, French doors opening onto a garden, servants pouring tea.

Hope-la, as friends call her, won the hearts of Sikkimese by learning their language and wandering freely among them, chatting with rich and poor alike.

From the palace, the Chogyal, 44, and Gyalmo Hope, 26, have a panoramic view of Gangtok, and the 28,000-foot peaks of Mount Kanchenjunga, third tallest mountain in the world.

The state religion is Mahayana Buddishm and the flag bears a golden wheel with eight spokes, representing Buddha's eightfold path to Nirvana. The official language is English.

Throughout its history, the kingdom has been known for a wide variety of birds, butterflies, wild flowers and rare orchids. Even more rare is the violence of the last two weeks that brought the unprecedented surrender of power to India.

Russians Will Buy Grain From Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to buy $200 million worth of wheat and barley from Canada, Justice Minister Otto Lang announced Monday.

Lang, the Cabinet minister responsible for the Canadian wheat board, told the House of Commons the sale includes 1.5 million metric tons of wheat, or 58 million bushels.

He said the grain would be shipped from both the East and West coasts and, "for the first time," from the northern Manitoba port of Churchill.

The sale also includes 500,000 metric tons of barley, about 24 million bushels.

A Soviet grain crop failure last year caused Kremlin leaders to purchase nearly $2 billion worth of foreign grain — about $1 billion of it from the United States.

The first U.S. ship helping to deliver the American grain unloaded at Odessa in mid-December. The American deliveries are expected to continue through June.

Planes Counted

Washington — In 1972 the U.S. general aviation fleet totaled more than 131,000 craft, compared with only 2,700 flown by airlines. General aviation planes spent about 26 million hours aloft in 1971, compared with 6.4 million hours for scheduled aircraft.

Soprano Neblett To Appear Nude In Opera

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Soprano Carol Neblett, who drew widespread attention in a sparsely clad performance with the New York City Opera, said Monday she will appear nude in the New Orleans production of Massenet's "Thais."

Miss Neblett and stage director Bliss Hebert acknowledged there will be at least one nude scene for Miss Neblett in the title role of the fourth century courtesan in the New Orleans Opera House Production.

Easing Of Ban On Parking Pickups Urged

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A number of people who depend on the use of pickup trucks to conduct their business appeared before the City Council Monday in favor of lifting the ban on parking pickups on residential streets.

Enforcement of the ordinance has been on a complaint basis only, Police Chief Joe Carroll reported.

The proposed ordinances would allow the parking of pickups which do not exceed seven feet in width and 18 feet in length. Additionally, only trucks having a freight capacity less than one ton could be legally parked on residential streets.

The proposals would prohibit the parking of semi-truck trailers, cabin trailers, tractors and truck tractors on residential streets.

Some Motor Homes

However, it would allow the parking of pickup trucks, camper pickups and motor homes which fit the specifications.

The businessmen contended that they offer their customers 24-hour service, which requires repairmen to keep the pickup trucks at their homes at night and on weekends.

Joe Hampton, representing the Lincoln Homebuilders Association, said the use of the pickup "has become a whole way of life for many people."

Some Don't Fit

Elton Long questioned the width and length specifications, saying that many of his service trucks would not fit that definition.

Everett Greene agreed, suggesting that the council look into broadening the ordinance even further.

City Atty. Dick Wood noted that he had considered restricting the parking of pickup trucks to the area in front of the owner's property.

However, he said such selected enforcement "would be a headache to say the least"

Sikyta Comments

Councilman Bob Sikyta, who has been pushing for liberalized legislation and who also operates a heating and air conditioning business, said, "I may not like looking at a Volkswagen anymore than someone else may like looking at one of my trucks"

Sikyta contended that truck owners are being discriminated against since they pay higher wheel tax and licensing costs.

The council is scheduled to take action on the proposals at next Monday's meeting.

Council Delays Revenue Bond Action

The City Council Monday held off action one week on authorizing the issuance of $6 million in special revenue general obligation bonds to finance a portion of the proposed City Services Building.

The bonds would be used to pay for the 1,000-car parking garage portion of the building, to be located in the block bounded by 11th and 12th, from O to N.

City Atty Dick Wood asked for the postponement pending a reply from the city's bond council in New York on the wording of the ordinance.

The five-level structure also would house a bus terminal for the Lincoln Transportation System and retail space around the perimeter of the building

The bond issue garnered the support last week of a number of downtown businessmen and the Lincoln Center Development Association

In other action, the council delayed action on approving an agreement to establish a joint city-county commission on aging.

City Corporation Counsel Ralph Nelson explained that the agreement would formalize action being undertaken now by the Task Force for the Elderly

Council members said they wanted to study the proposal further

Picasso Never Slowed; Worked Until His Death

PARIS (AP) — Pablo Picasso, painting sometimes until 3 in the morning, produced just up until his death Sunday at 91 a series of still unshown canvases that suggest his work had entered a new period.

"There was something completley different, something more serene, something less tortured in certain paintings," said Paul Puaux, director of the Avignon Arts Festival, who saw Picasso little more than a week ago. The festival is scheduled to exhibit next month Picasso's production since 1970.

"You feel there is a change, a new period," said Puaux, who visited Picasso in his home at Mougins, near Cannes, where he died

"There is much less eroticism and much more softness His wife told me that he was working much more slowly, more deliberately now, searching and digging into each canvas"

Puaux's account of Picasso's work was a rare one because the master saw no one but friends. Journalists were unwelcome at his green-walled villa called Ma Notre Dame de Vie. Puaux said the home was a "total universe for Picasso. He had everything that interested him there. The rest was superflous."

In all, there will be 201 canvases on show at Avignon, beginning May 23.

The dominant color, he feels, is bistre, a warm brownish black.

Nevada Allows Full Scale Use Of Acupuncture

Carson City, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada legislature Monday gave final approval to a bill allowing Nevada to become the first state to sanction the use of acupuncture on patients on a full-scale basis.

Acupuncture spokesmen said other states allow the practice only on an experimental or research basis.

Final approval came after weeks of public demonstrations by a master acupuncturist from Hong Kong who treated hundreds of patients, including 20 legislators, free of charge, in a room at a hotel-casino here. Many of those who received the needle treatment said they gained relief

Consumer Union Head Resigns Post

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Walker Sandbach announced Monday that he is resigning at the end of the year as executive director of Consumers Union, the world's largest product testing and consumer advisory organization.

"It is time to move on to a new challenge," the 56-year-old Sandbach added.

During his eight years with Consumers Union, its monthly Consumer Reports has grown in circulation from 850,000 to over two million, and its operating budget from $5 million to $16 million.

Sandbach said he told the Board of directors he was announcing his resignation well in advance, in order that CU could make an unhurried search for a successor.

Alvarez' Wife Gets Divorce

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Two years after she began divorce proceedings, Tangee Alvarez has her unconditional freedom from Navy Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, Jr., longest-held American prisoner of war in Vietnam. Meanwhile, she has a new husband and a child.

Mrs. Alvarez remarried after a Mexican divorce two years ago.

To strengthen the legality of her presumed freedom, she obtained a default divorce in Alameda County Superior Court. But this was later upset because Alvarez, who was a POW for eight years, never was served with a summons.

While her second husband, Andrew Gonzales, waited downstairs in the courthouse with their baby, Tara, she was granted an uncontested divorce Monday. This time Alvarez had been served.

Consumer Union Head Resigns Post

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Walker Sandbach announced Monday that he is resigning at the end of the year as executive director of Consumers Union, the world's largest product testing and consumer advisory organization.

"It is time to move on to a new challenge," the 56-year-old Sandbach added.

During his eight years with Consumers Union, its monthly Consumer Reports has grown in circulation from 850,000 to over two million, and its operating budget from $5 million to $16 million.

Sandbach said he told the Board of directors he was announcing his resignation well in advance, in order that CU could make an unhurried search for a successor.

Alvarez' Wife Gets Divorce

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Two years after she began divorce proceedings, Tangee Alvarez has her unconditional freedom from Navy Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, Jr., longest-held American prisoner of war in Vietnam. Meanwhile, she has a new husband and a child.

Mrs. Alvarez remarried after a Mexican divorce two years ago.

To strengthen the legality of her presumed freedom, she obtained a default divorce in Alameda County Superior Court. But this was later upset because Alvarez, who was a POW for eight years, never was served with a summons.

While her second husband, Andrew Gonzales, waited downstairs in the courthouse with their baby, Tara, she was granted an uncontested divorce Monday. This time Alvarez had been served.

Lincoln NOW Says Solons Hoodwinked

Nebraska state senators who voted against the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) were hoodwinked by a well-financed and vocal minority of the John Birch Society through the Omaha Unit of Pro-American and Happiness of Womanhood (HOW), the Lincoln Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) said

Lincoln residents supported ERA 9 to 1 and Omahans 2 to 1, NOW said after making an analysis of letters sent to senators.

Opposition to ERA primarily centered in 31 towns in northwest Nebraska only 6% of the towns in the state, NOW added

'It is apparent that the senators counted pieces of paper not signatures" said Ellie Shore, head of Lincoln NOW

'One Omaha senator voting against the ERA announced that his mail was running 2 to 1 against the ERA In actuality, he received 34 letters with 40 signatures against ERA, but he also received 21 letters with 91 signatures from the Omaha area supporting ERA

Letters opposing ERA repeatedly contained phrases and sentences borrowed from the Phyllis Schlafly Reports, widely distributed by the Omaha HOW unit NOW said

The officers of that organization are wives of Omaha business executives closely associated with the $1.5 billion Mutual of Omaha insurance company, according to NOW.

Sen Richard Proud, attorney for Mutual of Omaha, led the attack on ERA ratification

NOW said anti-ERA material distributed across Nebraska also included excerpts lifted verbatim from the Dec 17 1972 Christian Crusade Weekly which NOW said espouses the Birch ideology

In March Nebraska rescinded its earlier ratification of ERA, 31-17

Lincoln NOW Says Solons Hoodwinked

Nebraska state senators who voted against the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) were hoodwinked by a well-financed and vocal minority of the John Birch Society through the Omaha Unit of Pro-American and Happiness of Womanhood (HOW), the Lincoln Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) said.

Lincoln residents supported ERA 9 to 1 and Omahans 2 to 1, NOW said after making an analysis of letters sent to senators.

Opposition to ERA primarily centered in 31 towns in northwest Nebraska, only 6% of the towns in the state, NOW added.

"It is apparent that the senators counted pieces of paper, not signatures," said Ellie Shore, head of Lincoln NOW.

"One Omaha senator voting against the ERA announced that his mail was running 2 to 1 against the ERA. In actuality, he received 34 letters with 40 signatures against ERA, but he also received 21 letters with 91 signatures from the Omaha area supporting ERA."

Letters opposing ERA repeatedly contained phrases and sentences borrowed from the Phyllis Schlafly Reports, widely distributed by the Omaha HOW unit, NOW said.

The officers of that organization are wives of Omaha business executives closely associated with the $1.5 billion Mutual of Omaha insurance company, according to NOW.

Sen. Richard Proud, attorney for Mutual of Omaha, led the attack on ERA ratification.

NOW said anti-ERA material distributed across Nebraska also included excerpts lifted verbatim from the Dec. 17, 1972, Christian Crusade Weekly which NOW said espouses the Birch ideology.

In March, Nebraska rescinded its earlier ratification of ERA, 31-17.

Stock Market Zooms

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market zoomed upwards Monday as investors temporarily forgot about inflation and other problems in the economy and looked instead at the harbingers of good news brought by Du Pont and Disney World

The two glamours reported first-quarter earnings that surpassed even the hopes of the men with rose-colored glasses, and brokers predicted that investors might start looking at the good fundamentals again

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 16 48 points at 947 55

"We've been on the lookout for a trigger, and maybe the Du Pont quarter is that trigger, a sign that the economy is doing quite well despite the problems," said Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co

"The report is better than the most optimistic predicted, and therefore it's important symbolically" said Wachtel

Part of the rally was of a technical nature, as the market dropped steadily all last week until it hit a small rally Friday

Newton Zinder of E F Hutton & Co also said that the good first-quarter earnings by Du Pont boosted investor confidence He added that the street was anticipating good news in first-quarter reports

Teledyne was the most active on the Big Board unchanged at 14⅞ National Airlines was second unchanged at 26¼ followed by Curtiss Wright off 1¼ at 24⅝

Disney World finished up 7 at 95⅞ International Business Machines finished up 6 at 429½ and Polaroid finished up 5¾ at 132¼

Champion Home Builders was the most active on the American Stock Exchange finishing up ⅝ at 7¼

Volume on the Big Board was 13 74 million shares

The price change index on the Amex closed up 05 at 24 11 The broad base NYSE index 56ain e 1 400 common stocks closed up 0 75 at 59 02

Du Pont reported that its first quarter net climbed to $2 80 a share compared with $2 04 a year earlier After the report Du Pont gained 4½ to 172

Cattle, Hog Prices Up

OMAHA Neb (AP)—Sharply curtailed runs pushed cattle and hog prices higher at Omaha Monday

Hogs advanced in active trade with butchers up 1 00-1 25, some 1 50 higher Sows were unevenly 25 to 1 00 higher

Fed cattle trade was comparatively dull, the small run actually too light to privde a fair market test Completed sales on the short run looked 50 higher in the steer division heifers 50 to instances 1 00 higher Other cattle classes were steady

Action in the hog division was spurred by the prospect of further cuts in marketings as adverse weather conditions covered a wide area, worsening east of the Omaha market as the day progressed

However, cattle trade by contrast was dull Any prospect of further cuts in supplies did not generate much enthusiasm in bidding

Rockefeller Drops Life Drug Term

ALBANY N Y (AP) — Gov Nelson A Rockefeller on Monday dropped his proposal for mandatory life imprisonment of persons convicted of selling hard drugs

Instead, the New York governor told reporters he would seek mandatory imprisonment for a specified period of time and probation or supervision for the rest of the person's life after release from prison

Rockefeller said his new proposal was the result of negotiatons with leaders of the state legislature's codes committees

"The plan would still be a life sentence" he told reporters

In his State of the State message last January Rockefeller called for mandatory life imprisonment for convicted drug pushers

The New York Civil Liberties Union the State District Attorneys Association and other groups had said Rockefeller's original proposal was too harsh unworkable and too expensive because of the number of jury trials that would be required

Mahoney said Johnson is a former employe of the firm

Stock Market Zooms

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market zoomed upwards Monday as investors temporarily forgot about inflation and other problems in the economy and looked instead at the harbingers of good news brought by Du Pont and Disney World.

The two glamours reported first-quarter earnings that surpassed even the hopes of the men with rose-colored glasses, and brokers predicted that investors might start looking at the good fundamentals again.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 16.48 points at 947.55.

"We've been on the lookout for a trigger, and maybe the Du Pont quarter is that trigger, a sign that the economy is doing quite well despite the problems," said Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co.

"The report is better than the most optimistic predicted, and therefore it's important symbolically," said Wachtel.

Part of the rally was of a technical nature, as the market dropped steadily all last week until it hit a small rally Friday.

Newton Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. also said that the good first-quarter earnings by Du Pont boosted investor confidence. He added that the street was anticipating good news in first-quarter reports.

Teledyne was the most-active on the Big Board, unchanged at 14⅞. National Airlines was second, unchanged at 26¼, followed by Curtiss-Wright, off 1¼ at 24⅝.

Disney World finished up 7 at 95⅞, International Business Machines finished up 6 at 429½, and Polaroid finished up 5¾ at 132¼.

Champion Home Builders was the most-active on the American Stock Exchange, finishing up ⅝ at 7¼.

Volume on the Big Board was 13.74 million shares.

The price-change index on the Amex closed up .05 at 24.11. The broad-base NYSE index 56ain e 1,400 common stocks closed up 0.75 at 59.02.

Du Pont reported that its first-quarter net climbed to $2.80 a share, compared with $2.04 a year earlier. After the report, Du Pont gained 4½ to 172.

Cattle, Hog Prices Up

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Sharply curtailed runs pushed cattle and hog prices higher at Omaha Monday.

Hogs advanced in active trade with butchers up 1.00-1.25, some 1.50 higher. Sows were unevenly 25 to 1.00 higher.

Fed cattle trade was comparatively dull, the small run actually too light to privde a fair market test. Completed sales on the short run looked 50 higher in the steer division, heifers 50 to instances 1.00 higher. Other cattle classes were steady.

Action in the hog division was spurred by the prospect of further cuts in marketings as adverse weather conditions occvered a wide area, worsening east of the Omaha market as the day progressed.

However, cattle trade by contrast was dull: Any prospect of further cuts in supplies did not generate much enthusiasm in bidding.

Rockefeller Drops Life Drug Term

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on Monday dropped his proposal for mandatory life imprisonment of persons convicted of selling hard drugs.

Instead, the New York governor told reporters, he would seek mandatory imprisonment for a specified period of time and probation or supervision for the rest of the person's life after release from prison.

Rockefeller said his new proposal was the result of negotiatons with leaders of the state legislature's codes committees.

"The plan would still be a life sentence," he told reporters.

In his State of the State message last January, Rockefeller called for mandatory life imprisonment for convicted drug pushers.

The New York Civil Liberties Union, the State District Attorneys Association and other groups had said Rockefeller's original proposal was too harsh, unworkable, and too expensive because of the number of jury trials that would be required.

2 Arrested In Georgia Bond Theft

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Some $4 million in municipal bonds stolen from the Robinson Humphrey Co. last month have been recovered and a former employe was one of two persons arrested, a firm spokesman said Monday.

Half the bonds were found in an automobile parked near an apartment complex in DeKalb County, and the other half at a cottage in Lake Lanier, the spokesman said.

The bonds were negotiable but had been registered and financial institutions were warned not to accept the stolen securities.

Carl Mahoney, senior vice president of the firm, said information on the arrest of the two men being held in the theft came from a source outside of the state.

Police said Richard V. LeBlanc, 41, of DeKalb County, and William Baker Johnson, 31, are being held in the Atlanta city jail. LeBlanc was charged with receiving stolen property, and Johnson was charged with burglary, records at the jail revealed.

Mahoney said Johnson is a former employe of the firm.

Picasso Paid For Clothing With Paintings

NICE, France (AP) — Pablo Picasso's death ended his give-and-take arrangement with another artist — his tailor.

Michel Sapone said Picasso approached him some years ago to order a suit from him and told him: "I am an artist. You too are an artist and artists do not pay each other — they exchange their works."

Sapone went along with the deal, supplied Picasso with suits for the rest of his life, never got paid a cent. But Sapone's son runs an art gallery, and plans an exhibition of the valuable paintings Picasso gave his father.

'Hero Awards' Will Be Given Two Patrolmen

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Two Kearney patrolmen will receive the State Fire Marshal's annual "Hero Award" for 1972 at the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Patrolmen Ed Akin and Steve Atenhan will receive the award from Fire Marshal Joe Pluta for "their outstanding courage and bravery displayed on Nov. 27, 1972, when they assisted in rescuing several elderly persons from a fire in the Sexton Nursing home in Kearney."

Four persons died in that fire.

Council Candidates Stress Orderly Growth

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The six City Council candidates hit the campaign trail Monday night — with all six emphasizing the need for orderly growth of the city.

However, the candidates differed on their views on development of Stevens Creek, construction of the Northeast Radial and how to spend federal revenue sharing money.

Speaking to about 200 members of the Lincoln Homebuilders Association at the East Hills Country Club were housewife Sue Bailey, real estate agent Nancy Childs, attorney Max Denney, retired public safety director Emmett Junge, law student John Robinson and attorney William Thierstein.

The six were tabbed in last Tuesday's primary election to run for three council vacancies in the May 1 general election.

—On orderly growth and planning:

Mrs. Bailey said she would like to see a stronger commitment to planning. She suggested that the city embark on five-year social improvement programs similar to the six-year capital improvement programs.

Additionally, to overcome "negative overtones attached to planning," Mrs. Bailey proposed that a new division be created within the planning department. That section would work solely on future planning and would work closely with neighborhood groups and homebuilders.

Additionally, she suggested that a system of incentives be encouraged to develop different sections of the city.

Mrs. Childs said, "If Lincoln doesn't grow — it's going to die."

Denney said, "Zoning is the most important issue in this campaign."

One of the first things he said he would push for on the council would be the adoption of the Goals and Policies Committee report for use as a guideline in planning.

Junge said he opposed "the no-growth philosophy which is springing up around the country."

He contended that Lincoln can absorb additional population through orderly growth.

Robinson said one of his main concerns was the orderly growth of the city.

Thierstein said he would not adopt the Goals and Policies report in its present form. He questioned if the report "really speaks for all the people of Lincoln."

However, Robinson, a member of that committee, noted that more than 400 representatives from the county originally participated in committee discussions.

He called the report "one of the closest things to representative democracy that we've had in Lincoln in the past 50 years."

—On opening up Stevens Creek for development:

Thierstein said, "There's development in there now with IBM."

Mrs. Childs added, "Anybody who thinks that area isn't going to be opened soon has their head in the sand."

However, she said she does not favor going into the area until a comprehensive plan for development is drawn up.

Robinson said he would encourage the council to come out with a strong policy statement discouraging development into Stevens Creek.

He said he favored development to the north and west first.

—On construction of the Northeast Radial:

Robinson said he was flatly opposed to the $30 million roadway's construction.

Mrs. Childs said she had "severe reservations" about it.

And Denney said he was not in favor of it as it is now planned and urged further study on the project.

Junge noted that plans for such an arterial have been "promised for 20 years," adding that he has not yet made up his mind on the matter.

He added that it was unfortunate that the radial's route should "go through an area of the city where many low income families live."

Thierstein said he is "open minded" about the project, adding that he would like to see the update of the 1966 Transportation Study on the radial before making a decision.

Mrs. Bailey said she wanted additional information before she would go along with construction of the roadway. She pointed out that peoples' thinking about transportation has changed in the past several years.

—On expenditure of the city's $1.7 million in revenue sharing money:

Denney, Mrs. Bailey and Junge suggested that the funds be divided between so-called "people" programs and capital improvements.

Additionally, Junge and Mrs. Childs recommended that local tax relief be considered when the money is spent.

However, Thierstein wondered if such capital improvements as street repair and sewer construcdtion did not also fit the definition of people programs.

Robinson also said he favored channeling some of the funds into social programs.

ERTS-1 Satellite Said One Of Most Useful

The earth resources technology satellite (ERTS-1) has been one of the most productive satellites for civil use ever launched, according to Dr Richard S. Williams, a geologist with the Earth Resources Observation Systems program of the U S. Geological Survey

The satellite was launched July 23, 1972, and a tape recorder failed March 28 so that now only pictures of North America can be sent back.

ERTS-1 is a polar-orbiting satellite which is nearly always over an area of the Earth illuminated by the sun. It passes over the United States every 18 days

The satellite is expected to be useful in improving land management, creating new service industries and facilitating foreign technical assistance.

Thirty seven countries are directly involved in the ERTS program and photographs are available to any country wishing to purchase them.

Williams said the stellite is designed to last for one year but it is possible the systems may last longer.

Williams is presenting the second annual Barbour-Schramm Memorial Lectures at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Marvel: State Government Should Be Decentralized

State government should be decentralized in the same manner President Nixon is trying to take apart the federal bureaucracy. Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said Monday.

Such a procedure at the state level would spread services and decision-making to a base closer to the average person. Marvel told the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

The plan would also offset the advantages now held by Lincoln and Omaha in gaining state funds and facilities, Marvel said.

As an example, he proposed that higher education funds, other than for the University of Nebraska, should be allocated to several regions across the state, there to be divided according to local desires.

Marvel said the need for decentralization is part of the reason he supports a state takeover of the Hiram Scott College campus in Scottsbluff.

Ak-Sar-Ben Knights Honor Eight Youths

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben honored eight youths and two adult leaders Monday for their work in small grain improvement.

Two from the St. Edward Chapter were cited, Don Alden for soybeans and Randy Keehn for corn. Ray Becker, their adviser, also was honored.

Honored in the 4-H division were Terry Brugman of Douglas, wheat; Leo Wurdeman of Leigh, barley, and Rodney Henkel, Ong, grain sorghum. Harold L. Brugman, an Otoe County 4-H leader, also was an award recipient.

Other winners in production contests and recipients of trips to Omaha included Douglas Winz of Holdrege, Wilcox FFA, corn; Terrence Vaverka of Pleasant Dale, Crete FFA, wheat; Scott Beckman, Elgin, Elgin FFA, soybeans; Keehn, non-irrigated corn, and Brugman, wheat.

Also in Omaha for Grain Improvement Day were FFA and 4-H crops project winners sponsored by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

First place team in the 4-H division came from York County. Its members were Keith Johnson, Steven Hecht and Charles Otte, and the leader was York County agent H. H. Hecht.

The top FFA team from North Platte was coached by FFA adviser Elmer Schrag and its members were Kent Anderson. Gary Songster and Dale Manary.

Others honored by the chamber were Daniel Pavlish of Crete. Wilber FFA, winner in the corn division; Leon Kriesel of Gurley, Cheyenne County 4H, winter wheat, and vocational agriculture instructur James Viglicky of the Wilber FFA.

Winners in the grain sorghum division were Alan Svoboda of Brainard, East Butler FFA, and his instructor, Victor Bohuslausky. Another East Butler FFA member, Dave Reck of Dwight, took honors in soybeans and Kenneth Kenner of Harrison, Sioux County FFA, was tops in oats.

During the day winners toured grain handling facilities in Omaha. The recognition luncheon was held in conjunction with the Omaha Agri-Business Club meeting.

Kearney Police Nab Two Boys After A Chase

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Two teenage boys were being questioned by police Monday night following a chase through Kearney that officers said reached speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour.

Police said the boys, both 15 years of age, were from Kansas, runaways from a juvenile home at Salina. Officers said the car involved was believed to have been stolen at Franklin.

Police started pursuit of the auto in southwest Kearney. Officers said the boys at one time made a U-turn over a yard and went in the opposite direction, eastward through the city.

When the car passed Central Avenue, the main downtown strip, police said it was going faster than 95 miles an hour and the speed went over 100 as the chase proceeded eastward.

The report said the car went out of control as it went over a railroad track near a junction with Highway 30 and ended in a ditch.

Police said the boys were apprehended after a foot race.

Pest Control Grant Awarded To State Group

A $68,000 grant from the Extension Service-U.S. Agriculture Department to the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service for pest control should show tangible gains to the environment and the farmer's pocket, said Dr. John L. Adams, director of the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Nebraska.

Adams said the grant will fund a crop pest scouting program this summer that is calculated to zero in on management practices for insect and weed pest control in irrigated corn and grain sorghum.

Dr. David Keith, NU Extension entomologist, will act as project leader.

Keith said the purpose of the program is "to put growing crops on a sound management basis to get maximum production with minimum expense and minimum damage to the environment."

Serving with Keith in the program are Dr. Alex Martin, NU Extension weed specialist; Dr. David S. Wysong, NU Extension plant pathologist; Dr. LeRoy Peters, district Extension entomologist; and George Woolsey, Clay County extension agent.

A full-time pest management specialist will be hired to become the scout supervisor and to help direct the program on the county level.

Local 2686 Adds Nine Charges Against Social Security Officials

Local 2686 of the American Federation of Government Employes, AFL-CIO, added nine new unfair labor practice charges Monday to 13 previous charges filed against the district manager and assistant manager of the Lincoln Social Security Administration.

The new charges include continued failure to consult with the union on policy changes and working conditions, discussing the charges with and providing copies of the charges to non-union members, permitting non-union members to talk against the union during work hours to union members, and continued harassment of the union president.

Local 2686 President Donald L. Green said union officials will meet with management and two Social Security Administration officers from the Kansas City regional office to try to resolve the differences this Friday.

"We have three other locals in Lincoln," Green said, "and we haven't had any of this trouble with them."

Robinson said one of his main concerns was the orderly growth of the city.

Thierstein said he would not adopt the Goals and Policies report in its present form. He questioned if the report "really speaks for all the people of Lincoln."

However, Robinson, a member of that committee, noted that more than 400 representatives from the county originally participated in committee discussions.

He called the report "one of the closest things to representative democracy that we've had in Lincoln in the past 50 years."

—On opening up Stevens Creek for development:

Thierstein said, "There's development in there now with IBM."

Mrs. Childs added, "Anybody who thinks that area isn't going to be opened soon has their head in the sand."

However, she said she does not favor going into the area until a comprehensive plan for development is drawn up.

Robinson said he would encourage the council to come out with a strong policy statement discouraging development into Stevens Creek.

He said he favored development to the north and west first.

—On construction of the Northeast Radial:

Robinson said he was flatly opposed to the $30 million roadway's construction.

Mrs. Childs said she had "severe reservations" about it.

And Denney said he was not in favor of it as it is now planned and urged further study on the project.

Junge noted that plans for such an arterial have been "promised for 20 years," adding that he has not yet made up his mind on the matter.

He added that it was unfortunate that the radial's route should "go through an area of the city where many low income families live."

Thierstein said he is "open minded" about the project, adding that he would like to see the update of the 1966 Transportation Study on the radial before making a decision.

Mrs. Bailey said she wanted additional information before she would go along with construction of the roadway. She pointed out that peoples' thinking about transportation has changed in the past several years.

—On expenditure of the city's $1.7 million in revenue sharing money:

Denney, Mrs. Bailey and Junge suggested that the funds be divided between so-called "people" programs and capital improvements.

Additionally, Junge and Mrs. Childs recommended that local tax relief be considered when the money is spent.

However, Thierstein wondered if such capital improvements as street repair and sewer construcdtion did not also fit the definition of people programs.

Robinson also said he favored channeling some of the funds into social programs.

ERTS-1 Satellite Said One Of Most Useful

The earth resources technology satellite (ERTS-1) has been one of the most productive satellites for civil use ever launched, according to Dr. Richard S. Williams, a geologist with the Earth Resources Observation Systems program of the U.S. Geological Survey.

The satellite was launched July 23, 1972, and a tape recorder failed March 28 so that now only pictures of North America can be sent back.

ERTS-1 is a polar-orbiting satellite which is nearly always over an area of the Earth illuminated by the sun. It passes over the United States every 18 days.

The satellite is expected to be useful in improving land management, creating new service industries and facilitating foreign technical assistance.

Thirty seven countries are directly involved in the ERTS program and photographs are available to any country wishing to purchase them.

Williams said the stellite is designed to last for one year but it is possible the systems may last longer.

Williams is presenting the second annual Barbour-Schramm Memorial Lectures at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Marvel: State Government Should Be Decentralized

State government should be decentralized in the same manner President Nixon is trying to take apart the federal bureaucracy, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said Monday.

Such a procedure at the state level would spread services and decision-making to a base closer to the average person, Marvel told the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

The plan would also offset the advantages now held by Lincoln and Omaha in gaining state funds and facilities, Marvel said.

As an example, he proposed that higher education funds, other than for the University of Nebraska, should be allocated to several regions across the state, there to be divided according to local desires.

Marvel said the need for decentralization is part of the reason he supports a state takeover of the Hiram Scott College campus in Scottsbluff.

Kearney Police Nab Two Boys After A Chase

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Two teenage boys were being questioned by police Monday night following a chase through Kearney that officers said reached speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour.

Police said the boys, both 15 years of age, were from Kansas, runaways from a juvenile home at Salina. Officers said the car involved was believed to have been stolen at Franklin.

Police started pursuit of the auto in southwest Kearney. Officers said the boys at one time made a U-turn over a yard and went in the opposite direction, eastward through the city.

When the car passed Central Avenue, the main downtown strip, police said it was going faster than 95 miles an hour and the speed went over 100 as the chase proceeded eastward.

The report said the car went out of control as it went over a railroad track near a junction with Highway 30 and ended in a ditch.

Police said the boys were apprehended after a foot race.

Pest Control Grant Awarded To State Group

A $68,000 grant from the Extension Service-U.S. Agriculture Department to the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service for pest control should show tangible gains to the environment and the farmer's pocket, said Dr. John L. Adams, director of the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Nebraska.

Adams said the grant will fund a crop pest scouting program this summer that is calculated to zero in on management practices for insect and weed pest control in irrigated corn and grain sorghum.

Dr. David Keith, NU Extension entomologist, will act as project leader.

Keith said the purpose of the program is "to put growing crops on a sound management basis to get maximum production with minimum expense and minimum damage to the environment."

Serving with Keith in the program are Dr. Alex Martin, NU Extension weed specialist; Dr. David S. Wysong, NU Extension plant pathologist; Dr. LeRoy Peters, district Extension entomologist; and George Woolsey, Clay County extension agent.

A full-time pest management specialist will be hired to become the scout supervisor and to help direct the program on the county level.

Local 2686 Adds Nine Charges Against Social Security Officials

Local 2686 of the American Federation of Government Employes, AFL-CIO, added nine new unfair labor practice charges Monday to 13 previous charges filed against the district manager and assistant manager of the Lincoln Social Security Administration.

The new charges include continued failure to consult with the union on policy changes and working conditions, discussing the charges with and providing copies of the charges to non-union members, permitting non-union members to talk against the union during work hours to union members, and continued harassment of the union president.

Local 2686 President Donald L. Green said union officials will meet with management and two Social Security Administration officers from the Kansas City regional office to try to resolve the differences this Friday.

"We have three other locals in Lincoln," Green said, "and we haven't had any of this trouble with them."

GRAIN DRYERS

7 main reasons why, in the years ahead, you will be happy that your PTO drive batch dryer is a MORIDGE.
*Steel shaft drive in place of belts.
*Recirculating for positive uniform drying.
*Optional 3 speed transmission provides for handling beans gently.
*Much much steeper hopper for easy grain flow. (No forcing arms needed).
*Grain regulator arms, slow moving, sweep above steep hopper. This only to insure no wet spots holding up free flow. Insures every kernel recirculated. Prevents grain damage.
*Dual fan blades deliver enough additional air to run at only 420 RPM tractor speed. Less noise. Less wear, smaller tractor operating at only ⅝ throttle.
*Trained Nebraska service department. Complete service parts in stock.
Moridge with 15 years dryer manufacturing experience bring you these plus features at lower prices.
Display lot on Highway 6, 2 miles NE of Lincoln. Dryers moving in and out constantly. Reserve yours now while ASC financing is available.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 4-10

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 4-10
